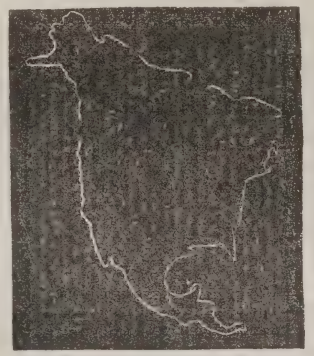
Helps in Teaching Geography.

1. Outline Blackboard Maps. By Sup't GEORGE GRIFFITH, Utica. 8 Maps, 27 x 34, on four sheets of tar-board, slated on both sides. $8.00.



These maps include the five Continents, the United States, the State, and a blank for the County. The outline is permanent, while the pupil is to locate before the class whatever are the main features of the day's lesson. Among their many uses these are suggested:

(1) The pupil while locating or describing any river, city, etc., draws it upon the map. If a mistake is made it is erased without erasing the outlines. (2) Reviews or examinations are made by having the pupil show on one of these maps all he knows of the country. The teacher glances at the result, erases mistakes, and has the pupil replace correctly. All is erased, and another pupil is set at work while the class proceeds with the regular lesson. (3) By different colorings the elevations or any physical features of different sections are easily and quickly shown. In the same way a geological map may be made. (4.) Historical maps may be quickly sketched, showing only the features needed.

2. Relief Maps. By BÜRGI Brothers. Switzerland, (a) 11x17½; $3.50; (b) 23 x 34, $10.00, (c) Palestine, 19 x 32, $10.00, (d) United States, 48 x 42, $100.00.

These are beautifully made and colored, showing physical as well as political features. Many teachers think geography should be taught only from relief maps, and all agree that they are of great utility.

3. Geographical Cards, with Topics and Questions, (a) Part I. Physical Geography and North America, 100 cards, 3¼ x 5¼ inches, 50 cts.; (b) Part II. The Rest of the World, 100 cards, 50 cts., or, (c) Complete, 200 cards, $1.00.

These cards are intended to accompany any text-book in Geography. The topics and questions emphasize a necessity for thorough knowledge of commercial relations, exports, imports, routes of travel, expense of transportation: in fact, the cards deal with the Essentials of Geography, omitting that which is of little or no importance. The topics are suggestive rather than exhaustive. ☞ A set of these Cards will save the teacher many needless hours of study and research, by preserving classified memoranda in compact form.

4. Geographical Game. "Our Country" for Home and School, 100 cards, 2¼ x 3⅜ inches, 50 cts. Will double the pupils' interest.

5. Outline Topics Cards in Geography. Per package of 12 cards, 5½ x 6 inches 15 cts. Topics for the Continent on one side, for the State the other.

1. A Thousand Questions in American History. Cloth, 16mo, pp. 247. Price $1.00.

2. Helps in Fixing the Facts of American History. By HENRY C. NORTHAM. Cloth, 16mo, pp. 298. Price $1.00.

Here all facts are presented in groups. Chart No. 1 indicates by stars the years in each decade from 1492 to 1789, in which the most remarkable events occurred, while the colored chart No. 2 arranges the events in 12 groups.

3. Outline and Topic Book in U. S. History. Paper, 8vo, pp. 212. 50 cts.

The true and normal method of teaching any study is by the use of topics. The great demand in school work to-day is a system that will stimulate pupils to investigate subjects, and train them to report the results of their investigation in a clear, logical, and forcible manner, using their own language rather than repeating the words of the text-book. To this end, this book has been prepared. The important events are emphasized, and references are made on each topic to fifteen School Histories, giving the page or pages in each on which the subject is treated. Blank leaves have been inserted for the convenience of those using the book who may wish to add such points as their own experience may suggest. This book will be found of great value, not only in daily recitations, but in weekly and monthly reviews.

4. Topics and References in American History, with numerous Search Questions. By GEO. A. WILLIAMS. Leatherette, 16mo, pp. 50. 50 cts.

The references are largely to the lighter and more interesting illustrations of history, of a kind to arouse the thought of pupils by giving vivid conceptions of the events narrated. By dividing these references among the members of a class, the history recitation may be made the most delightful of the day.

5 Brief Views of United States History. By ANNA M. JULIAND. New edition, brought down to 1882. Leatherette, 16mo, pp. 69, 35 cts.

It contains the leading facts chronologically arranged under the various administrations, leaving the story to be filled out from reference-books.

6. Outlines and Questions in United States History. By C. B. VAN WIE. Paper, 16mo, pp. 40, and folding map. 15 cts.

7. Dime Question Books, No. 5, General History, and No. 6, United States History and Civil Government. By ALBERT P. SOUTHWICK. Paper, 16mo, pp. 37, 32. 10 cts. each.

Topics and References in American History.

By GEO. A. WILLIAMS, Principal of Vermont Academy. Leatherette, 16mo, pp. 50. Price 50 cts.

The title indicates the plan and scope of the work. The history is taken up by topics from the earliest times to the administration of Cleveland. The references are largely given to magazines and to works written in popular style, rather than to standard histories, in the belief that the main point on the start is to awaken an interest If the work is taken up topically with this little book as a guide to study and reading, "that hateful history" may be made the most delightful of studies.

From abundant testimonials we select the following:

It seems to me well prepared and likely to be very useful.—Martin B. Anderson, late president Rochester University

I think your "Topics and References" is an admirable little manual for use in our academies and union schools. In fact it would be very useful for any student of American history. It is full, accurate, and free from all political bias.—Ebenezer Dodge, late president Colgate University.

I have looked over your Topics with genuine pleasure, and I see that you are doing your work in the right way. There is so much of humdrum work that such a method is an inspiring relief from the ordinary text-book methods.—Charles K. Adams, president Cornell University.

Thank you for the little book, which seems to me uncommonly well done It is the fulfilment of my strong desire to see in various directions such a humanizing influence brought to bear on the teaching of history in our schools.—Col Thos. W. Higginson, Boston, Mass.

I take a personal satisfaction in all such works as yours, for I was one of the first to adopt the new view of United States history of which your work is a type. It is hardly necessary to say that I admire your book. I had had it sent to me before by one of the Messrs Holts' agents as a model of what such a book ought to be, and I entirely agreed with him.—Prof. Alex. Johnston, Princeton College.

The first sentence in the preface of Mr. Williams's little pamphlet contains the secret of the general excellence of the publications of this publisher: "The main purpose in printing this little hand-book has been to save time in my own classes that would otherwise be consumed in copying." Most of Mr. Bardeen's books are born in the school-room, not in the study. That is a good place for a school-book to be born in.—School Gazetteer.

If this little volume were in the hands of all our teachers, the excuse for a good deal of nonsense in the name of history-teaching would be obviated.—H. S. Howard, Jr., School Commissioner, Schuyler Co., N. Y.

We do not say it in the interests of the author or publisher, but for the benefit of the profession, that we know of no outline of historical topics that will compare with the above for completeness of arrangement and general suggestiveness to the teacher. Not only are the topics stated in historical and logical order, but copious and definite references to standard historical and literary works are given in connection with each All teachers and students of history should have a copy of this work.—True Educator.

The questions are not confined to the Constitution of the United States, but include many pertinent questions on other important subjects. They are designed for general or class use in High, Grammar, and Rural Schools, and are equally applicable to every state in the Union. 3. The Same, prepared for the State of Missouri. Cloth, 16mo, pp. 151. 75 cts.

Is it that this book was made because the time demanded it, or that the publication of a book which made the teaching of Civil Government practicable led to a general desire that it should be taught? Certain it is that this subject, formerly regarded as a "finishing" branch in the high school, is now found on every teacher's examination paper, and is commonly taught in district schools. Equally certain is it that in the State of New York this text-book is used more than all others combined, while in Missouri the first edition was exhausted in a month. Books for New York Schools.

A Brief History of the Empire State, for Schools and Families. By WELLAND HENDRICK, A.M. Cloth, small 4to, pp. 201. 75 cents.

This book has proved one of the great successes, more than one hundred schools having officially adopted it during the school year 1891-92. On petition of the principals of Regents' schools this subject has been made a part of the Regents' course of study, with special questions in the examinations, and the Department of Public Instruction gives it five counts at the examinations for State certificates. Whether used as a history, or as a supplementary reading-book, it has given universal satisfaction, and it is to-day the most popular text-book in every school where it is used. Do not think the village and city schools alone can use it. The smallest district school may buy half a dozen copies for its largest reading-class with profit, for when that class reads, every other scholar in school will listen. This is a day when New York history is coming to the front, and intelligent teachers will see to it that their schools keep up with the procession.

2. Civil Government for Common Schools, prepared as a manual for public instruction in the State of New York. To which are appended the Constitution of the State of New York as amended at the election of 1882, the Constitution of the United States, and the Declaration of Independence, etc., etc. By HENRY C. NORTHAM. 16mo, cloth, pp. 220. 75 cts.

Whether it was that this book was made because the time demanded it, or that the publication of a book which made the teaching of Civil Government practicable led to a general desire that it should be taught, certain it is that this subject, formerly regarded as a "finishing" branch in the high school, is now found on every teacher's examination paper, and is commonly taught in district schools. Equally certain is it that in the State of New York this text-book is used more than all others combined, while the special edition prepared for Missouri was exhausted in a month.

3. A Chart of Civil Government. By CHARLES T. POOLER. Sheets 12x18, 5 cts. The same folded for the pocket, in cloth covers, 25 cts.

Some commissioners have purchased these charts by the hundred and presented one to every school house in the county.

4. Common School Law for Common School Teachers. A digest of the provisions of statute and common law as to the Relations of the Teacher to the Pupil, the Parent, and the District. With 500 references to legal decisions in 28 different States. 16th edition, with Introduction for School Trustees, containing the most important General Provisions of the School Law. By C. W. 5. Laws of New York relating to Common Schools, with Comments and Instructions, and a digest of Decisions. 8vo, leather, pp. 807. $4.00.

This is what is known as "The New Code of 1888," and contains all revisions of the State school-law to date.

☞ "IGNORANCE OF THE LAW EXCUSES NO ONE."

Knott's Ready Reference Law Manual gives just the information that every intelligent person should possess.

IT IS NOT MEANT FOR LAWYERS, but for those who are not lawyers. It gives clearly and simply the provisions of the law that concern every man, and of which it sometimes costs a man a good deal to be ignorant. Capitalists often make their sons regularly admitted lawyers, not with any view to practice, but that they may be able to protect the property they will inherit. Even the man of little property, or dependent on a salary from which he can not save much, should know the most important features of the law. The little needs protection even more than the much, for loss is more disastrous.

TEACHERS are in especial need of such a book. Pupils are always asking questions, and they ask many questions that this book answers. Children like to see that the principal is a man of sound, practical knowledge, in business matters as well as in Latin roots or chemical reactions; and they feel respect for a teacher who shows himself familiar with the fundamental principles of mercantile and social law. The book is in full accord with the increasing attention now given to civics.

THE INFORMATION this book gives is of the most important character. It tells all about Commercial Paper, Arrest for Debt, Exemptions, Limitations, Assignments and Attachments; about Marriage and Divorce, the law of Landlord and Tenant, and how to draw a Will; about Patents, Copyrights, Life Insurance, Railroad Damages, Customs Duties, Naturalization, Extradition. In short, whatever subject is likely to come up in the experience of an ordinary citizen is here treated fully and plainly, with specification of all the differing laws that prevail in the various States of the Union and in Canada.

Hon. D. J. Foster, State Attorney of Vermont, writes:

"I wish to express to you the satisfaction I find in the daily use of my copy of your Ready Reference Law Manual. It is full of valuable information and ought to be in the hands of every citizen in this country. Unlike the majority of the books of its kind, it is adapted to popular use as well as to professional; and the use of it by the people would doubtlessly obviate in many cases the necessity of a lawyer's services."

Hon. Henry Ballard of Burlington, Vt., writes:

"I have examined your Ready Reference Law Manual somewhat. The subjects embraced in it, are those upon which ready information is quite often needed by both lawyers and laymen. The information is put in concise form, and in a way to be easily understood. In my opinion it is a very useful book of its kind."

THE SCHOOL BULLETIN PUBLICATIONS.

The Civil Service Question Book.

Are you tired of teaching? Do you sometimes wonder whether you could do anything else if you tried? Have you now and then thought that it would be well to have some other employment to look to, in case you felt that you had taught long enough? It is our business to publish books for teachers, books that will help them in their work and keep them in it. But there are circumstances that would make a government position desirable for some teachers, especially for young men and women who want to use the libraries and other helps in large cities. The pay is liberal, the hours are few, and once obtained the place is secure. These are all temptations to the idler, but they are opportunities for the student. Under the Civil Service law the road to such a position is simple.

31,000 PLACES are now filled exclusively by appointments dependent on examinations. No favoritism is possible. You do not need the influence of Congressman or politician. You have only to learn when the next examination is held, apply for the necessary papers, present yourself, and answer the questions asked. The appointments are made from those who stand highest, and are OPEN TO WOMEN as well as to men. All the particulars as to these examinations, how to find out the places and dates where held, and how to apply, are given in this volume, which gives also 943 specimen questions in Arithmetic, 575 specimen questions in Geography, 400 specimen questions in English Syntax, 100 each in American History and Civil Government, with full treatises on Book-Keeping and on Letter-Writing. To prepare for competition for places at $1,000 AND HIGHER these subjects and these only are required. Any one who can answer the questions here given, to all of which full and complete answers are added, is ready to enter the next examination.

Hon. John B. Riley, Chief Examiner of the State of New York, says of the book: "I am pleased with your Civil Service Question Book. It will not only be of service to those intending to try the Civil Service Examinations, but teachers or others who are obliged to prepare questions for examinations in common English branches will find it a great convenience."

The American Bookseller says: "The handy little volume called The Civil Service Question Book is a kind of happy thought in these days of C. S. examinations. In it the nervous and anxious seeker of a billet in the government service will find an ample selection of the kind of questions which he will be asked. If he can answer these, he will be able to answer any other likely to be asked."

The New England Journal of Education says: "It is worth as much to the teacher in his class, as to those aspiring to government positions. It is rarely that any book can be found with so many valuable and so few unimportant questions."

The immense sale of the Regents' Questions in Arithmetic, Geography, Grammar, and Spelling has led to frequent inquiry for the questions in the Advanced Examinations. As it is not permitted to reprint these, we have had prepared this series, by which the teacher need purchase books only on the subjects upon which special help is needed. Frequently a $1.50 book is bought for the sake of a few questions in a single study. Here, the studies may be taken up one at a time, a special advantage in New York, since applicants for State Certificates may now present themselves for examination in only part of the subjects, and receive partial Certificates to be exchanged for full Certificates when all the branches have been passed. The same plan is very generally pursued by county superintendents and commissioners who are encouraging their teachers to prepare themselves for higher certificates.

These books have been prepared to supplement the published books of Regents' Questions, and afford an admirable drill in these subjects. Not a single problem in the first can be found in any published arithmetic, and very few questions in geography have ever been asked by the Regents that are not to be found in the second.

7. Elementary English. Prepared with reference to the Regents' Examinations in the State of New York. By JOHN D. WILSON. Leatherette, 16mo, pp. 50. 35 cts.

The attempt in this way to secure a thorough knowledge of Cæsar's vocabulary has led to this little book.

HISTORY OF THE REGENTS' EXAMINATIONS.

It was by ordinance of July 27, 1864, that the Regents, for the purpose of ascertaining what scholars in the academies are clearly entitled to be included in the annual distribution of the Literature Fund, directed that at the close of each academic term, a public examination of all scholars presumed to have completed preliminary studies, be held under the direction of a committee of at least three persons, to be appointed by the trustees of the academy; and that a certificate be given, by the committee, to each scholar sustaining the examination, which certificate should entitle the holder (1) to be admitted to the Academic Class in any academy subject to the visitation of the Regents, without further examination; and also, in connection with the subsequent pursuit of higher studies for a prescribed period, (2) to be counted in the pro rata distribution of the Literature Fund to the academy reporting the scholar.

The first examination under this ordinance was held in the spring of 1865. The results were not satisfactory, for various reasons. Prominent among these may be mentioned the fact that no uniform tests of proficiency were prescribed, and that the committees established for themselves widely different standards of judgment. It became evident that an examination conducted in this manner would not furnish a basis for the equitable distribution of the Literature Fund among the various academies of the State. Still, the plan of a bona fide examination was generally recognized by the principals and trustees of academies as a step in the right direction, and an effort was at once made to remedy the defects of the original system.

The suggestion made by some of the principals of academies, that a uniform series of printed questions be prepared by the Regents, and that the answers to these questions be in writing, was adopted and put in operation in November, 1866, one set of questions in arithmetic, geography and grammar being sent to each academy, to be dictated by the principal to the class assembled for examination. This method was repeated in February, and again in June, 1867. The most serious defects complained of in the working of this method, were those growing out of the oral dictation of the questions, which not only consumed much time, but in many cases, especially in large classes, did not enable the scholars in all cases to correctly hear and fully understand what was dictated. It was urged that to make the examination a success, each scholar must be furnished with a set of the printed questions, for his own exclusive use. As the substitution of examination wholly by printed questions and written answers would be of no public interest while in progress, it was deemed advisable that the examination be conducted as a private one, only the principal, committee, and candidates being allowed to be present. These modifications of the system were adopted in November, 1867, and though attended with greatly increased labor and expense, in printing and issuing the questions, it has been continued to the present time to the general satisfaction of all concerned. At that time it was also decided to issue the certificates of academic scholarship from the office of the Regents. Under this system tri-yearly examinations have been held and nearly 100,000 certificates have been issued by the Regents to as many scholars who have sustained the examination. The formal reports of each examination are mounted in convenient book-form in the office of the Regents, and the series is an invaluable historical record of the results of these examinations.

Since February, 1870, inclusive, the Regents have required that all the papers of all the scholars claimed to be entitled to certificates be sent to their office for revision by one person. These papers are thus subjected to a process of "equalization," and the rejection of any papers unworthily claimed is secured. In this way, the claims made in the examination returns are reduced, on an average, about twenty per cent.; and the number claimed since this system of revision was adopted is scarcely more than half as great as when the decision of the examining committees was final.

In the review of what has been done in thus projecting, organizing, and administering a uniform examination in writing on so broad a field as the more than two hundred academies and academical departments of the State, with no guiding precedent, and in face of the prediction in various quarters that any such system was utterly impracticable, the Regents have been greatly gratified with the results thus far attained, and impressed with the importance of studying to make it still more successful in stimulating general attention to the fundamental branches of education, and at the same time providing a satisfactory basis for the equitable distribution of the literature fund. Most teachers, including many who at first looked upon it with great disfavor, declare that it is of inestimable benefit in their schools.

The system is attracting considerable attention in other States, and the question papers as here published in book form are used very generally as trial tests in schools other than those subject to the visitation of the Regents.

Cornell University and most other colleges accept a Regents' Preliminary Certificate as sufficient test of the entrance candidate's proficiency in the branches named, and by State enactment every law-student must pass the Regents' examination before admission to the bar.

For some years the questions of each examination were added in the next edition of this book. But as its size had already become as large as seemed desirable for pupils' drill, and as the illustration given of the nature and scope of these examinations was deemed sufficient, the Regents directed that the questions subsequent to the examination of June, 1882, should not be published. Nor do they permit the questions of the Advanced examinations to be published.

These collections of the questions for fifteen years in Arithmetic, Geography, Grammar, and Spelling, therefore, contain all the Regents' Questions that are or will be printed. How valuable they are considered for class drill may be judged from the fact that the annual sale has for several years exceeded a hundred thousand copies, and reaches into every country where there are English-speaking pupils.

Prices: Arithmetic, Geography, Grammar, Spelling, each 25 cts. Keys to Arithmetic, Geography, Grammar, each 25 cts. All Subjects in one book $1.00. All Subjects and Keys in one book, $2.00.

Helps in Regents' Examinations.

1. Regents' Examination Paper. This is prepared from forms furnished by the Regents' office, and is of a weight and quality of paper chosen there as best fitted for the purpose. Each 1,000 half-sheets comes in a varnished wooden box with sliding cover, strong enough to bear shipment by express. The paper is printed in four forms, viz.: Whole sheets, Half-sheets, Spelling, and Book-Keeping in whole sheets. We suggest for most schools the following proportion:

Whole sheets, 350, equal to half-sheets	700
Half-sheets	100
Spelling	100
Book-Keeping, 50, equal to half-sheets	100
	1,000

We will however fill orders in any proportion desired, with the single proviso that all ordering must be in hundreds of half-sheets. We cannot undertake to count out, for instance, 737 whole sheets, 182 half-sheets, and 91 spelling. Orders will be received only for boxes holding the equivalent of 1,000 half-sheets, at the uniform rate of $3.00. As this is less than 25 cts. a pound, we can allow no discount whatever, even to the trade, and we prefer that all orders should come to us from the school direct.

NOTE. The demand for a paper that would answer all the requirements for the examination in drawing, led us to prepare a special paper of the size and quality approved by the Regents. This is uniform in size with the other paper, but is not included in the assortment put up in the boxes, because of the difference in weight and price. It costs $4.00 per ream, or $1.00 per 100 sheets, is of exceptional quality, and indispensable where the drawing examination is to be taken.

2. Regents' Examination Pens. These pens are put up in quarter-gross boxes, and will be sent post-paid for 25 cts. a quarter-gross or $1.00 a gross.

3. Regents' Examination Record. Principals who have tried it pronounce our New Record perfect. It contains an alphabetical index, a classified record of certificates and diplomas, and individual records for 432 pupils, with dates of all credits, pass-cards, certificates, and diplomas. Price $3.00. For large schools, a few have been bound up in canvass, double-size, for 834 pupils, price $6.00.

4. Regents' Individual Card Records. These give the same individual record as above, but are printed each separately on card-board. Price $1.50 a hundred.

5. Syllabus of Regents' Examinations in American History. These are published three months before each examination, and have been prepared from the beginning by Prof. Welland Hendrick of the Cortland State Normal school, author of "Brief History of the Empire State." The price is 50 cts. a dozen, and we advise principals to send in orders at least two months before the examination.

Zinc-Engraved Portrait for a Dollar.

In the early management of our Teachers' Agency we had much difficulty in regard to Photographs. It is almost impossible to secure an election of a teacher by correspondence without sending a picture. But some applicants neglected to send us a photograph; others sent one but urged us not to let it go out of our hands as it could not be duplicated; and on the other hand we found school-boards dilatory about returning the photographs we sent, so that a teacher would lose an election in one place while his chances were being considered in another.

To obviate this difficulty we made arrangements to prepare Postage-Stamp Photographs, and of those little pictures we have made more than half a million for our candidates and others. But they are rather small, and we have at last succeeded in making a contract by which we can supply for One Dollar 100 photo-engraved portraits of the size and quality of the specimen here given, printed like a postage-stamp on adhesive paper, which are to be known hereafter as Circle Photos. This is an offer unprecedented, and is made possible only by the quantity we order. For Two Dollars we will send not only 100 gummed pictures like this, but also the plate from which they are printed, which can be used on any printing-press, and thus inserted without extra cost in catalogues, circulars, programmes, diplomas, etc. Portraits of the entire Faculty of a school, with the members of the Board of Education, may thus be procured at slight expense, and used wherever desired in connection with school-printing.

For this purpose we prefer that cabinet photographs should be sent, and if the photograph is of any other size we are compelled to make an extra charge of one dollar. We still make the postal-photographs, and will furnish 100 of those for $1.00 from a photograph of any size.

Be sure to write your name on the back of the picture sent. We sometimes get twenty photographs by a single mail, some of them without any name or accompanying letter, and with the post-mark effaced, so that it is impossible to guess from whom they came.

In the process of making these portraits it is necessary to trim the original photograph about the edges, but the main picture is preserved, and when desired it will be returned.

To recapitulate: For One Dollar sent with a cabinet photograph we will furnish post-paid 100 gummed portraits of the size and quality here shown.

For Two Dollars, we will furnish not only the 100 circle-photos, but also the plate from which they are printed.

The Song Budget Music Series.

1. The Song Budget. Paper, small 4to, pp. 76, 15 cts. Leatherette, 25 cts.
2. The Song Century. Paper, small 4to, pp. 87, 15 cts. Leatherette, 25 cts.
3. The Song Patriot. Paper, small 4to, pp. 80, 15 cts. Leatherette, 25 cts.
4. The Song Budget Music Series Combined, containing all three of the above in one volume, with opening exercises for schools added. Boards, small 4to, pp. 260. 50 cts.

5. The School Room Chorus, containing all the songs in the Song Budget and as many more. Boards, small 4to, pp. 147. 35 cts.

The distinguishing features of the Song Budget Music Series, of which nearly half a million copies have been sold, are these :

1st. To give a good deal for the money. Each of the books is sold at 15 cts., though containing as much as the usual 50-cent books. We publish editions of each of them in leatherette at 25 cts., but the great sale has been for the 15-cent editions that everybody could afford. Tens of thousands have been sold for institutes and other gatherings where an expensive book could not have been purchased.

2d. To give only the best music. No two persons could agree which are the hundred best songs ever written, but any person who will check from the combined table of contents we send free the songs that he thinks ought to rank among the first hundred will find when he has gone through the list that he has nearly the hundred checked. The cost of copyright has never been allowed to stand in the way of really desirable songs, and large sums have been paid for the right to use the songs selected.

3d. To give music just as it was written. The school song-books of twenty years ago gave the harmony "simplified." The authors had in view the self-taught country girl picking melodies out upon a rude instrument, and assumed that she would stumble over any chords except the tonic, the dominant, and the subdominant. So operatic and other airs of which the great beauty lay in the harmonies of the accompaniment were given with "simplified" chords, and in that form have been sung so much that the original setting has been forgotten. In the Song Budget Series, every piece, so far as possible, has been harmonized directly from the original ; and while the setting is uniformly in four parts, which makes the playing easy for those unused to intricate accompaniments, the harmonies have been restored, and the music made infinitely richer. Many a cabinet-organist who has sought in vain for a "Lost Chord" will find it and delight in it here.

4th. To give only songs that are strong, healthful, helpful, both in music and in words. There is no sickly sentimentality in the Song Budget Series. Life is real, life is earnest in these songs; and it is happy, too. Pathetic songs may be found here, for the youthful mind craves the sweet sorrow of pathetic contemplation. But the pathos is always real, and always offers helpful suggestion. Nothing mawkish, nothing of strained or affected emotion will be found in any of these books. Send 15 cents for one as a specimen.

The use of millions of these Aids, with the unqualified approval of teachers, parents, and pupils, is assurance that they are doing great good.

They save time by avoiding the drudgery of Record keeping and Reports.

They abolish all notions of "partiality" by determining the pupil's standing with mathematical precision.

They naturally and invariably awaken a lively paternal interest, for the pupil takes home with him the witness of his daily conduct and progress.

They are neat in design, printed in bright colors. The Certificates are prizes which children will cherish. The Single Merits and Half Merits are printed on heavy card board, the Cards and Checks on heavy paper, and both may be used many times—hence the system is cheap, as well as more attractive than any other to young children.

9. Mottoes for the School-Room. By A. W. EDSON, State Agent of Massachusetts. Per set of 12 on heavy colored card-board 7x4 inches, printed on both sides, $1.00, post-paid, $1.10.

School Bulletin Teachers' Agency.

Not one desirable place in fifty is filled now-a-days except directly or indirectly through the medium of a Teachers' Agency. Nearly all teachers holding responsible positions are themselves enrolled in some Agency and give to this Agency immediate information of prospective changes. Hence an outside teacher has no chance to learn of vacancies. Before he hears of them they have been filled by candidates notified by the Agency. A progressive teacher could afford the annual fee for enrolment in an Agency for the information alone. He might not care to use it, but it is worth two dollars a year to be sure he has missed no opportunities he would like to know of.

The Best Agencies, however, do not depend on information alone. By repeated successes, by fair dealing and through the influence of the teachers they have placed, they have won the confidence of many school boards and employing principals. There are hundreds of schools that systematically engage all their teachers through an Agency and will not consider applications from any other source.

The Fact is, matters do not go so much by chance as they used to in filling vacancies. Time was when nothing was said or thought of changes till the end of the year, but nowadays teachers and school boards both have their eyes wide open. We happen to know as we write that a man now principal of a $1600 school will before the end of the year be appointed teacher in one of the normal schools. We are pretty well satisfied that a man now getting $1400 will have the $1600 place. If he gets it we have our eye on another man now getting $1100 who will be glad of the $1400 place: in every case because these men are especially fitted for these places and desirous of them. All this in January. Now next June some principal who saves his two dollars by not registering in an Agency will read in the morning newspaper that Principal So-and-so has been appointed to such a chair in such a normal school, and will pack his valise, take the train, and hurry off to Principal So-and-so's present place to apply for his position before anyone else gets there. It will surprise him to learn that the vacancy was provided for six months before—if he does find it out. He has saved his two dollars registration fee but he has lost his time, his car-fare, and whatever chance he stood of the place.

One year we sent Principal Poland to the Jersey City high school at $2500; that left a vacancy at Ilion which we filled by sending Principal Winne at $1600; that left a vacancy at Canastota which we filled by sending Principal Ottaway at $1200; that left a vacancy at Amsterdam Academy, and so on.

Did you ever see people stand in line at the post-office waiting for their mail? As each one is supplied he goes away, giving place to the next, and so there is a continual moving-up; the man who keeps his place in the line will eventually get to the head. In no profession is there so frequent and so rapid moving-up as in teaching. To get to the top, do your work well where you are and keep registered. Presently you will be the man that fits and will be elected, and if you do fit when you get there the Agency will keep its eye on you for the next fit. Try it.

It is Important, however, not only to register, but to register in the Agency most likely to help you. Without reflection upon others it may be said with confidence that the School Bulletin Agency is safe and trustworthy. Aaron Gove, superintendent of schools in Denver, Colo., and late president of the National Teachers' Association, said in the Colorado School Journal for July, 1890:

"The School Bulletin, edited, owned, and conducted by C. W. Bardeen, at Syracuse, N. Y., is an old and reliable school journal. Its proprietor is a school man and understands his business.....He is also at the head of an educational bureau.....As at present advised, we are suspicious of bureaus unless we know the man at the head."

"The man at the head" of the School Bulletin Agency makes personal selection of every teacher recommended. Send for circulars.

Positions for Women Teachers.

The advance in the salaries of superior women-teachers has been of late years remarkable. Where the thought was once of the place, with a fixed salary because anybody could fill it, the thought is now of the kind of woman that can be got for the place, often with practically no limit to the salary. Prof. Payne, of Vanderbilt University, wrote to us in 1890 for a primary teacher at $1,200, with no duties outside of simply teaching a primary class three hours a day. The difficulty is not to find such places: it is to find the women who are sure to succeed in such places. Give us proof of superior ability, and you may be tolerably sure we can find the place for you. Some of the places for women we have filled are as follows:

At $1,500.—Principal High School, Des Moines, Ia.

At $1,200.—Buffalo Normal, N. Y.; Birmingham, Ala.; Davenport, Ia.; Moorhead Normal, Minn.; Colorado Springs, Colo.

At $1,000.—Little Falls, Oneonta Normal, Saratoga Springs, Syracuse [2], Utica, N. Y.; Birmingham, Ala.; Cedar Falls [2], Marshalltown, Ia.; St. Joseph. Mo.; Grand Forks, N. D.; Ouray, Col.; Helena, Mont.; Cheney Normal, Wash. [2].

At $900.—Auburn, N. Y.; Florence, Ala.; Baton Rouge, La.; Winona Normal, Minn.; Emporia Normal, Ks.; Peru Normal, Neb.; Grand Forks, Mayville, N. D.; Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Colo.; Napa, Cal.

At $800.—Auburn, Elmira, Kingston, Newburgh, Norwich, Potsdam Normal, Syracuse [2], Waverly, N. Y.; New Haven Ct. [2]; Florence Ala. [2]; Clinton, Ia.; Whitewater, Wis.; St. Cloud, St. Peter, Minn.; Ouray, Colo.

At $700.—Amsterdam Ac., Batavia [2], Catskill, Dunkirk [3], Ellenville, Elmira, Hornellsville, Jamestown, Lyons, Oneonta Normal [3], Plattsburgh, Plattsburgh Normal, N. Y.; South Norwalk, Ct. [2], Oil City, Shippensburg Normal, Waverly, Youngstown, Pa.; Ishpenning, Mich.; Normal, Ill. [2]; St. Peter, Minn.; Madison, S. D.; Fort Collins, Ks.; Tacoma, Wash.

At $600.—Amsterdam Ac., Batavia [3], Brockport Normal, Buffalo, College for Training of Teachers, Deposit, Fairport [3], Geneseo Normal, Glens Falls [5], Havana, Ilion, Jamestown [3], Lockport, Lowville, Middletown, Newburg, New Rochelle, Norwich, Nyack [2], Ogdensburg, Oxford, Palmyra, Phœnix, Port Henry, Salamanca [2], Schuylerville, Watkins [2], N. Y.; Bennington, Vt.; Providence Normal, R. I.; Hartford, Ct.; East Orange, N. J. [2]; Marietta, Ga. [2]; Florence, Ala. [5]; Owensboro, Ky.; Youngstown, O.; Adrian, Mich.; Jacksonville, Ill.; Marshalltown, Ia.; Fergus Falls, Menominee, St. Peter, Minn.; Yankton, S. D. [5]; Meeker, Colo.; Salt Lake City, Utah; etc., etc.

It is often asked, what are the requirements for places like these? We reply, we want born teachers, who have done and can do good work, whether they are college or normal graduates or not. Some of the best of these places were filled by women who were not even academy graduates. "First, a true woman; then a lady: then as much more as we can get," is our own standard of judgment, and it generally prevails.

Blackboard Slating.

No feature of the school-room is of more vital importance to the health of scholars and teachers than the Blackboard. If it be gray and greasy the amount of chalk used fills the air with dust which produces catarrhal and bronchial difficulties, and yet makes so faint a mark that the children's eyes are permanently injured.

Solid Slate is durable, but it costs from 30 to 50 cts. a square foot, is noisy, not black enough in color, and unhealthful because there is commonly used upon it the softest crayon.

So it is better to use a good liquid slating over a proper foundation or plastered wall, or wooden boards.

If you have a new building or if your boards are unsound, so that they will have to be torn off, and done over, you cannot get a better foundation than Adamant plaster. It will make a surface as hard and smooth as marble.

As to liquid slating, we have used or are familar with everything in the market, but when we began four years ago to manufacture Hornstone we found that we had struck the nail on the head.

Since then we have put in thousands of square yards in this State, in Syracuse, Rochester, Brooklyn, the Plattsburgh, Potsdam and Cortland Normal Schools, Glens Falls, and other places, and we have enough contracts for new buildings to be completed during the next summer vacation to keep us busy.

One of the best recommendations that we have received is the fact that in a number of places where solid slate was in use and had grown faded and greasy we were called upon to recover the slate with Hornstone.

Hornstone contains no oil or grease, and will not become faded or greasy with use. Like everything else it will wear out, but if the boards are recovered once in from three to five years it will keep them in perfect condition, and you will find that by its use you have saved the eyesight of your children, and escaped much of the evil effects of chalk dust; for with the Alpha H or National crayons you are sure of a beautifully clear and distinct mark with the minimum of crayon wear and dust. The reason of this is that the surface finishes down as smooth as slate, but possessing none of its disadvantages.

The application of two coats is recommended for old or imperfect boards, where the surface is not firm enough to make it worth while to put on a first-class surface. It makes the cheapest of all durable slatings, and is put on readily by any one.

But for new boards and old boards with good foundations, we recommend the two additional coats, with a final rubbing down with pumice-stone. This gives a blackboard never yet equalled. Here, for instance:

SKANEATELES, N. Y., Feb. 29, 1892.

Mr. C. W. Bardeen, Syracuse, N. Y.,

DEAR SIR:— * * * In the summer of 1885 the first Hornstone ever used was applied to an experimental board in one of our recitation rooms. It proved so much better than anything we had that during the same year every board in both buildings was similarly treated. Last year the slating began to wear through in places and the boards were given another coat; those most used, two coats. If my memory serves me, this is the only repairs they have had since first Hornstoned.

The three essentials of a good blackboard: smoothness, dead blackness, and durability, are admirably combined in this material. When properly applied to a suitable foundation no board that I ever saw equals the Hornstone.

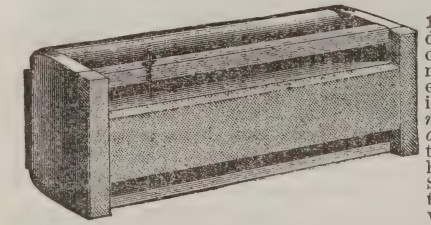
H. F. MINER, PRINCIPAL.

We shall be glad to send detailed circulars and give complete information about blackboards to anyone in need of material.

C. W. BARDEEN, Publisher, Syracuse, N. Y.

Dustless Blackboard Erasers.

When you have got a good blackboard be sure and get good Erasers. The Carpet Eraser, once almost universally used, has been rejected: the hard twine glazes and wears off the slated surface. Tacks carelessly driven, and points projecting into the erasive material, have ruined or defaced many blackboards. Such tacks are not found until they have done some damage. Besides, Carpet Erasers, or any other with flat surface, merely brush the crayon down to the crayon-ledge, and thence to the floor, whence it is constantly rising and permeating the air of the school-room. For this reason Dustless Erasers are now almost universally used, their peculiarity being that they provide spaces into which the crayon-dust falls and where it remains until shaken out, outside the school-room. The best are:



1. Jones's Vacuum Eraser. 15 cts. each by mail, $1.00 a dozen by express. The principle of this eraser is wholly new. The felt has a smooth edge, and sweeps the dust into the hollow handle. The motion of the eraser produces a current of air which draws the dust into the handle and holds it there. Chancellor Sims, of Syracuse University, says, "They are the best we have ever used."

2. McCully's Perforated Eraser. 15 cts. each by mail, $1.00 a dozen by express. This works upon a different principle. It deposits the chalk through the holes into the grooves, leaving the surface of the eraser always clean, and thus enabling it to take up every particle of dust. It is the neatest and prettiest eraser made. Principal Clapp of Fulton, N. Y., says: "I have used the McCully Eraser in my school for nearly two years, and unhesitatingly recommend it as the best eraser on the market."

3. The Star Eraser. 12 cts. each by mail, 75 cts. a doz. by express. This is made of strips of woolen cloth tightly woven. It has great cleansing power and is light and durable. While not equal to the Vacuum or the Perforated Eraser, it is cheaper and better than most of the other so-called "dustless" erasers.

ARCHITECTURAL COMPOSITIONS. By Henry P. Kirby.

A collection of 50 facsimile plates in portfolio, 15 by 20 inches, from pen drawings of cathedrals, chateaux, palaces, country and city mansions, hotels, churches, railroad stations, interiors, details, etc., etc., showing a wealth of suggestive motives treated in a picturesque and masterly style that makes them unique among architectural sketches.

Mr. Kirby requires no introduction to architects, as his wonderful pen drawings are already well known, but it may be in point to state, for the benefit of those outside the profession, that for ten years he has had no peer in the delineation of buildings by means of a few bold touches showing the essentials with the least possible labor. His drawings have a freshness, sparkle, and vigor that are entirely their own.

The size of the plates makes it possible to reproduce with a fidelity never before attained the peculiar boldness and freedom of the large originals. Printed on fine cream-tinted paper made expressly for this work. $10.00.

 Special subscription edition printed on Whatman paper in sepia, limited to 125 numbered copies. All sold.

ARCHITECTURAL PHOTOGRAPHS.

THE COLONIAL ARCHITECTURE OF MARYLAND, PENNSYLVANIA, AND VIRGINIA.

Photographed and arranged under the direction of Joseph Everett Chandler, architect. Fifty gelatine plates, printed on plate paper, 12 by 15 inches, in portfolio. The plates comprise, among others, the following more or less known buildings, giving in many cases exterior and interior views and details to a large scale: "Homewood," Baltimore, a finely designed country mansion, having some of the most refined and interesting detail to be found in the South; a number of fine doorways, mantels, and other details, from Baltimore; the Chase, Scott, Harwood, Ridout, and Brice houses in Annapolis; "Whitehall" and the Wilson house, Maryland; the old stone mansions of "Cliveden" and "Upsal," and the Dunston and Bockiss houses in Germantown; the Arnold house and "Woodfern" in Philadelphia; the University of Virginia, designed by Thomas Jefferson, which is the only monumentally arranged group of college buildings in America; "Gunston Hall," "Westover," "Farmington," "Monticello," "Shirley," and other mansions of Virginia; the Court House at Williamsburg; and a number of other examples from all parts of this region. $12.00.

CONSTRUCTION DETAILS.

A portfolio of thirty large plates, many of them colored, illustrating the most approved methods of detailed construction of all sorts. Prepared by Prof. F. W. Chandler, professor of Architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for the classes in construction. The most useful and valuable book on large scale details of construction ever published. $10.00.

DETAILS OF DECORATIVE SCULPTURE.

A series of books devoted to decorative sculpture of all the important styles, uniform in size and shape, each containing fifty octavo plates reproducing by photographic process from the originals the choicest details, chosen with the advice of the best authorities for their intrinsic value as well as applicability to modern work.

Beautifully printed on heavy plate paper and put up in portfolio and box.

I. ITALIAN RENAISSANCE.

Containing details from Sta. Croce, Palazzo Vecchio, Palazzo Gondi, Florence; Ducal Palace, Urbino; S. M. dei Miracoli and Ducal Palace, Venice, etc., etc. $2.50.

II. FRENCH RENAISSANCE.

Containing details from the chateaux of Blois, Chenonceas, Azay-le-Rideau, Gaillon, and St. Aignan; palaces of Fontainebleau and Versailles; Cathedral of Limoges; Church of St. Maclou at Rouen; Maison Agnes Sorel, at Orleans, etc., etc. $2.50.

DIE RENAISSANCE ARCHITEKTUR ITALIENS. By Peyer im Hof.

A useful collection of 138 octavo plates, giving plans, elevations, and sections of notable examples of Italian Renaissance architecture. $3.00.

DOMESTIC COLONIAL ARCHITECTURE IN NEW ENGLAND.

DOMESTIC COLONIAL ARCHITECTURE IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA.

Compiled and photographed by James M. Corner and E. E. Soderholtz. Each of these works consists of fifty heliotype plates in portfolio, 11 by 14 inches, of exteriors and interiors, with special plates of stair detail, mantels, Palladian windows, frontices, etc. Each volume, $12.50.

These two works form companion volumes that, together with the one described above, very fully illustrate the architecture of the Colonial period in the United States. The subjects are very carefully selected, and in most cases have an historical and antiquarian interest, as well as a purely architectural one.

FANTAISIES DECORATIVES. By Habert-Dys.

A portfolio of forty-eight plates, 13 by 18 inches, printed in colors on Papier de Chine, mounted on heavy plate paper, each plate representing a different subject or subjects.

The work of HABERT-DYS is well and favorably known in Paris, and always has at least stimulated discussion, so that it is gratifying to find that a collection of plates from his designs is obtainable. The title he has chosen, "Fantaisies Decoratives," well expresses the character of a collection of motives for panels, plaques, stuffs, fans, friezes, and jewellery, which show a versatility and ingenuity seldom encountered. Fantaisies many of them are, but full of suggestion, and with a decided individuality that always exists in the work of this artist, — an individuality difficult and dangerous to imitate, but stimulating and expressive. $15.00.

THE FIVE ORDERS OF ARCHITECTURE ACCORDING TO VIGNOLA.

Seventy-two plates drawn by J. A. Leveil, engraved on steel by Hibon, and printed by Garnier Frères, Paris, with notes translated into English by Thomas R. Kimball. Plates mounted on cloth guards and handsomely bound.

To provide American architects and students with an edition that is both correct and complete, this careful translation of the famous Garnier edition has been prepared, and to it has been added a glossary of French terms with English equivalents, and many translator's notes referring to other authorities, and enlarging upon points merely alluded to in the French edition. This edition is thus even more complete and valuable than the original.

As such a work is used largely on the drawing table, where the first requisite is that a book shall lie open without holding, each plate has been hinged upon a cloth stub, thus securing the most useful and durable binding to be had. The covers are cloth, tastefully lettered.

The standard edition of Garnier Frères, Paris, is the authority and adopted text-book in the leading architectural schools of Europe and America, including the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, Paris, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston. Prof. Chandler, of the latter school, says: "The first duty of an architectural student is to become acquainted with the Five Orders of architecture. I know of no better treatise than the Garnier Frères edition of Vignola. It is a work that is as useful in office practice as for the student." $5.00.

 To furnish with an English set of notes, those who bought the original French edition, a special edition of the notes alone has been prepared, and can be supplied in pamphlet form or on separate sheets, printed on one side only, for inserting in the proper places. $1.00.

SIX PENCIL DRAWINGS OF OLD NEW ENGLAND HOUSES. By Charles Herbert Woodbury.

Facsimile reproductions printed on Japan paper, mounted and enclosed in folio. $1.00.

 At the rooms of the Boston Architectural Club, 6 Hamilton Place, from April 2 to 14, inclusive, a loan exhibition of pencil sketches by Charles Herbert Woodbury is in progress. His drawings represent the old farmhouses and other quaint buildings of the older towns of Essex County — of Salem, Ipswich, Rowley, North Saugus, etc., with bits from Quebec and the Nova Scotia fishing villages, so picturesque in their squalor and poverty. No one equals Mr. Woodbury in his knowledge of how to use with best effect the soft lead pencil; his sketches are full of color, of tone, of light; they are thoroughly artistic, and nothing that we have seen lately approaches them for quality.—Boston Transcript.

"While the world is full of anxious inquirers into the reasonableness of Catholic usages, and while so many of the faithful are ignorant of the meaning of many Catholic practices, we can not have too many books like these. Father Burke knows just what to say, and, what is perhaps more uncommon, possesses the virtues of conciseness and brevity as well. It is difficult to see how an outsider could peruse these pages without a wish to know more of the faith which inspired them."—Ave Maria.

This little work is specially intended for young men. "Father Thein's book is written in a very nice, clear, light style, a style that would win one to read it to the end when once commenced. . . . What wide fields of interesting inquiry are opened up in this volume, and all traversed in a most interesting and complete way. Nothing is passed over. . . . FABIOLA; OR, THE CHURCH OF THE CATACOMBS. By CARDINAL WISEMAN. Illustrated Edition. With a Preface by Rev. RICHARD BRENNAN, LL.D. Contains an exquisite, artistic Chromo-Frontispiece, 32 large full-page Illustrations by the eminent artists Yan Dargent, Joseph Blanc, and others, and numerous engravings, descriptive of the Catacombs and of the manners and customs of the early Romans. 4to, cloth, artistic design on side in gold and ink, red edges, $6 00
The same, gilt edges, $7 50

This is the first illustrated edition of this great story of the struggles and sufferings of the early Christians. It is a well-printed and sumptuously presented edition of a book which has exerted widespread influence. There are few stories which lend themselves so well to illustration as this tale of the Catacombs, and the completeness with which archæologists have explored the Christian antiquities of Rome has made it easy to fill these pages with wood-cuts which are as helpful to the narrative as they are instructive. This edition will make an admirable present.

FINN, REV. FRANCIS, S.J.

Tom Playfair; or, Making a Start. 12mo, cloth gilt. With a Frontispiece, $1 00

Percy Wynn, or, Making a Boy of Him. A Story of Boy Life at Boarding-School. 12mo, cloth gilt. With a Frontispiece, $1 00

Harry Dee. 12mo, cloth gilt. With a Frontispiece, $1 00

Father Finn's works are admittedly the most successful boys' stories in English Catholic literature. The Catholic World says of "Percy Wynn":

"... A real book for boys about genuine boys, by a Catholic who thoroughly understands boys; and we are more than glad that he promises a sequel to 'PERCY WYNN.' Nor will we be satisfied with one more. There should be a series as unending as those of Optic. Thus much we have said of a second edition, contrary to our custom, on account of the exceptional merit of the story."

FIRST COMMUNICANT'S MANUAL.

This book, prepared expressly for the use of those about to make their first Communion, contains a greater and richer collection of prayers and devotions relating to the Adorable Sacrament than any other prayer-book of its size. It is embellished with numerous full-page illustrations, head-bands, tail-pieces, and an illustrated Way of the Cross.

This fine edition makes a most appropriate present and remembrance of the Great Day.

32mo. In bindings from 90 cents to $2.50.

The same, without red line, small 32mo. In bindings from 50 cents to $4.00.

"Messrs. Benziger Brothers have supplied a long-felt want by bringing out a manual of devotions for First Communicants. Besides what is usually contained in prayerbooks, it includes a variety of devotions for the great act of First Communion. The book is of convenient size, well printed on good paper, and may be had in different styles of binding. The cheap edition is a presentable booklet; the red line edition leaves nothing to be desired."—The Ave Maria.

GOFFINE'S DEVOUT INSTRUCTIONS ON THE EPISTLES AND GOSPELS for the Sundays and Holidays; with Explanations of Christian Faith and Duty and of Church Ceremonies. By the Rev. LEONARD GOFFINE. Translated by the Rev. THEO. NOETHEN. With eight full-page Illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, ink and gold side, $1 50

As a work of spiritual reading and instruction GOFFINE'S DEVOUT INSTRUCTIONS stands in the foremost rank. In it the faithful will find explained in a plain, simple manner the doctrines of the Church, her sacraments and ceremonies, as set forth in the Epistles and Gospels of the Sundays and holy-days In Europe the original of GOFFINE'S INSTRUCTIONS is extensively used by those who are prevented by just cause from assisting at Mass, and it is not only recommended and circulated there by the bishops and priests, but some of the most learned and distinguished German divines have from time to time edited it.

The translator of the present edition, which is undoubtedly the best English version, has not restricted himself to the text of any one edition, but has made use of several of those that are most esteemed. English readers will find both pleasure and profit in the intrinsic worth of the book apart from the interest which attaches to it on account of the popularity of the original.

HANDBOOK OF THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION. For the use of Advanced Students and the Educated Laity. By Rev. W. WILMERS, S.J. From the German. Edited by Rev. JAMES CONWAY, S.J. Second edition, with supplement. 12mo, cloth, net, $1 50

For nearly half a century Father Wilmers has been widely known as one of the ablest, most learned and popular writers and professors of his Order. His "Handbuch der Religion" has been before the public for more than twenty years, and is acknowledged to be one of the very best of the excellent text-books of religion in which German Catholic literature particularly abounds, while in completeness, thoroughness of treatment, and closeness of reasoning it is certainly unsurpassed.

This English translation has been considerably reduced in volume, by omitting whatever seemed to be of minor importance to the student, while many valuable additions on practical questions were made from the latest German edition just from the press. The editor has also introduced various improvements, which will render it an excellent text-book for colleges and academies in America and England.

The subject on which this book treats may appear at first glance as one of little interest and importance, but he who will take the trouble of examining it carefully will find it so attractive, instructive, and useful that he will not lay it aside until he has read it. . . . All the facts and testimonies quoted in this book when taken collectively are quite decisive in favor of the divine institution of confession. The work is opportune and will prove of great value to the Rev. Clergy as well as to the laity.

HISTORY OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH, by Dr. H. BRUECK, with Additions from the Writings of His Eminence Cardinal Hergenröther. Translated by Rev. E. PRUENTE. With an Introduction by the Right Rev. Mgr. JAMES A. CORCORAN, S.T.D. With the Imprimatur of the Most Rev. Archbishop of St. Louis. Second edition. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, net, $3 00

The characterizing merits of this work are clearness, precision, and conciseness. What is aimed at is a compendium which will be reliable, accurate, succinct, and yet, by means of the abundant and very valuable references it contains, also copious. This the learned author has attained. The result is, he brings before us, in a clear, succinct, yet interesting form the active energy of the Church in her missionary work, showing us how she is ever advancing into the darkness of error with the torch of truth in her hand, how she is attacked at every step by the spirits of evil, and how she fights valiantly the battle of right against wrong, of civilization against barbarism; how, in fine, animated by the irresistible Spirit of God, she bears down before her all opposition, and establishes everywhere centres of light and spiritual life. It is universally conceded the best work of the kind in English, in proof of which we give the following extract from the Dublin Review, of July, 1886:

". . . Taken altogether, for the practical purpose of a collegiate course, the best work of the kind yet placed in the hands of the English-speaking student."

Select Recitations for Catholic Schools and Academies. 12mo, cloth, $1 00

Simple as the task appears, the compilation of such a book as this, one that can be placed in the hands of Catholic youth without danger of, in some way, offending faith or morals, is most difficult, and can only be made by one who, besides possessing good taste and an intimate acquaintance with our literature, is well grounded in the faith. The volume here presented is the outcome of many years' experience on the part of the compiler as a teacher of Elocution in Catholic Schools and Academies in various cities of the country. The selections have been made with special reference to their fitness for oral reading or recitation, and though not all are the work of Catholic authors, they will be found entirely unobjectionable.

PRIMER FOR CONVERTS.

By Rev. J. T. DURWARD, Rural Dean, Baraboo, Wis. 32mo, cloth, flexible, net, 25 cents.

There are many admirable works to put into the hands of the non-Catholic; but the great lack noticeable in them is, that they do not begin where the mind of the average inquirer begins: they commence perhaps with the doctrine of the Trinity or the Redemption—central mysteries no doubt for us Catholics, but not the first thing for the unbeliever. The author therefore goes back to the very beginning, to what the most sceptical will admit, and leads him on and up, from truths that he holds already to those of which he is ignorant or doubtful.

SOCIALISM EXPOSED AND REFUTED. By Rev. VICTOR CATHREIN, S.J. A Chapter from the author's Moral Philosophy. From the German. By Rev. JAMES CONWAY, S.J. 12mo, cloth, net, 75 cents.

The chief value of this little work is in the fact that it goes to the true sources of socialism, whether considered as a scientific economic theory or as a living social and political movement. There is nothing second-hand about it. The author did not shrink from the toil of examining the most voluminous and abstruse works as well as the ephemeral productions of the daily press and of socialistic oratory. Socialists themselves give him credit for having interpreted their meaning and their aims more faithfully and accurately than some of their own followers.

What Catholics have done for Science, with Sketches of the great Catholic Scientists. By Rev. MARTIN S. BRENNAN, Pastor of the Church of St. Thomas of Aquin, St. Louis; Author of "A Popular Exposition of Electricity, with sketches of some of its Discoverers." 12mo, cloth, $1 00

The purpose of this book is to refute two widespread notions. One is, that when a man devotes himself to science he must cease to be a Christian, and the other, that the Catholic Church is hostile to scientific progress. Every branch of modern science owes not only its origin but the main part of its growth to Catholic scientists, so that it can be said with sincerest truth that the sceptre of science belongs to the Church.

Words of Wisdom. A Concordance to the Sapiential Books. From the French. 12mo, cloth, net, $1 25

Under various heads the different words of Wisdom are so arranged that at a glance one may know the mind of the Wise Man on his or that class of duties or virtues. One might read often maxims, detached as in the Bible, without realizing their full import, but when from here and there these scattered sentences are gathered and set in order under the subject to which they pertain, a new light is thrown on the meaning of each: obscurities often vanish and even new lines of thought are suggested.

Christian Anthropology. By Rev. JOHN THEIN. With an Introduction by Prof. CHAS. G. HERBERMANN, Ph.D., LL.D. 8vo, cloth, 576 pages, net, $2 50

In an article on Christian Anthropology in the CATHOLIC WORLD for July, 1892, by Rev. E. B. Brady, C.S.P., Rev. John Thein's book is thus spoken of:

"We do not know of any other work in which the evidences from the Christian stand-point are so well massed, the points so clearly brought out, and the field of controversy so fully covered. It is a book which every student of Catholic philosophy and theology should master. The knowledge it contains is essential for the successful defence of religious truth in our times, and any man who makes himself familiar with its facts and arguments need not fear to face the scientific infidelity of the age. Its perusal will, moreover, tend to excite an interest in scientific studies among us which is much to be desired. We may even be permitted to express the hope that this excellent work of Father Thein's will be the beginning of a Catholic scientific literature in every way worthy of the enlightened zeal of the American Church."

"The fact that this Visiting List has been published annually for forty years is sufficient guarantee of its excellence and popularity. In addition to the visiting list proper, it contains easily-accessible suggestions upon many of the emergencies that may arise in a physician's practice, as when he is too far from home to learn from his text-books the antidote for a poison that may have been swallowed, or the proper method of resuscitating a half-drowned person. True, he should know these things, but who does not occasionally forget, when he most wishes to remember? There are also dose-tables, tables of the metric system, a list of new remedies, rules for examining urine, a table for calculating the period of pregnancy, and other equally useful information. The arrangement for entering patients, visits, consultations, etc., is exceeding simple, and the whole makes a thin, compact, and easily-carried volume."—Medical News, Philada., January 3, 1891.

☞The Perpetual and Monthly Editions can be commenced at any time and used until full.

☞This is a plain, systematic method of keeping a record of visits; well printed, strongly bound, durable, convenient, and small.

This Visiting List is published in November of each year.

Balzac (Honore De)--Cesar Birotteau. Translated from the French. With fourteen choice illustrations by Harry C. Edwards. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound in Cloth, $1.00.

The novels of Honoré de Balzac are among the greatest works of the kind that any country has produced. That they go deeper into the human heart, represent more truly human passion, and reflect with greater accuracy the multiform phases of human life than the works of any other novelist is claimed for him by some of the foremost critics of the world. César Birotteau is one of his most beautiful and characteristic novels.

Calhoun (Major Alfred R.)--Maud Morton.

Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.

"Maud Morton, by Major Calhoun, is a novel of New York life which shows the accidents and vicissitudes which overtake unprotected childhood in a great city. The heroine is left an orphan waif in the streets. Her mother, overcome by sickness and poverty, and driven from her lodgings by a relentless landlord, dies on the gas-lighted pavements. The child is picked up by a young man and carried home to his mother, by whom she is carefully nurtured and brought up to womanhood. It is with the after career of the heroine that the story principally deals. She proves to be an heiress of great wealth, and the struggle which ensues for its possession, with powerful and unscrupulous enemies, makes one of the most thrilling and fascinating stories that was ever produced. Her manly and true-hearted lover, whose loyalty and devotion are rewarded by the purest womanly affection, is a worthy counterpart of a most lovely and charming heroine. It is altogether a story of unusual interest and power, and of our own day.

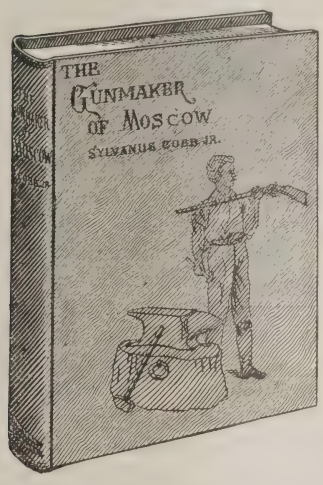
Cobb (Sylvanus, Jr.,)--Gunmaker of Moscow.

Author of "The Storm Secret," etc., etc. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.



"The Gunmaker of Moscow" was written expressly for and published originally in the New York Ledger in 1856.

Over twenty thousand dollars—a great sum of money for those days—were spent in advertising it. "The Gunmaker" being a great story, and having been thus extensively advertised, met with phenomenal success, and so constant has been the demand for the back numbers of the Ledger containing it, that it has been republished three times in the Ledger. Notwithstanding these republications, the demand for "The Gunmaker" still continues.

"Few American works of fiction have ever enjoyed the popularity won by 'The Gunmaker.'"—Boston Courier.

"This story ranks with 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' in the number of its readers. It is one of the happiest memories of childhood of many persons now of mature years."—New York Evening Sun.

"'The Gunmaker of Moscow' is a tremendously exciting story."—New Orleans Picayune.

Dyer (Oliver)--Great Senators of the United States Forty Years Ago (1848 and 1849), With Personal Recollections and Delineations of Calhoun, Benton, Clay, Webster, General Houston, Jefferson Davis, etc. Bound in Cloth. Price, $1.00.

"Mr. Dyer's relation with the great Senators of forty years ago was one very fortunate for the acquiring of fresh impressions. It is impossible to read his reminiscences without being aware that the impressions he reports are genuine."—New York Times.

"Among the recent contributions to American history, none is worthy of more serious attention than a volume entitled 'Great Senators,' by Oliver Dyer. It would be easy to fill columns with effective extracts from this volume, but we must confine ourselves to two or three examples of incisive and impartial delineation. Mr. Dyer's analysis of Webster's individuality is the most searching that we have ever seen; indeed, it is the only one which accounts at once for the triumphs and the shortcomings of the great parliamentary champion of the Union."—New York Sun.

Mr. Dyer's book has been a great success. It is written in a brilliant and charming style, and deals with persons and a period of great interest to all Americans. While it is a delightful book for the passing hour, it is at the same time a serious contribution to American history; and one of the prominent New York daily newspapers well said: "Every library and every schoolhouse should have this contribution to our meager fund of enjoyable and instructive reminiscence." In it are told stories of Calhoun, Benton, Clay, Webster, Sam Houston and Jefferson Davis—men whose names awaken a flood of memories in the minds of all whose personal recollections extend to the times before the war, and which excite the curiosity of all who are interested in their country's history.

Grady (Henry W.)--The New South. With a

Character Sketch of Henry W. Grady, by Oliver Dyer. 16mo. Bound in Cloth. Uniform with "Great Senators." Price, $1.00.

In his letter consenting to write the series of letters which form this volume, Mr. Grady said: "It is a matter that I take great interest in, and I will give you six letters that I think will make an impression. My idea would be to deal in the first letter with the difference between the new South and the old. In the second, with the general growth of the South since the war. In the third, with the agriculture of the South. In the fourth, with the industrial status of the South. In the fifth, with the political condition of the South and its probable outcome, and touching the race problem. In the sixth, a general letter closing the series." Mr. Grady did not adhere strictly to this outline, but it affords a sufficiently clear idea of his intention and the contents of the volume. "In his letters to the New York Ledger on 'The New South,'" Mr. Dyer, in his eloquent sketch, says, "Mr. Grady gave to the world the gist and essence of all that he had been inspired to write on that subject by his love for the land of his birth, by his pride in her worth and his hope in her destiny. These letters evidently came hot from his heart; they are freighted with information, are picturesque in description, fervid and eloquent in style, honest in purpose and noble in spirit. They will long be treasured as the latest and ripest utterances of the remarkable man who wrote them."

Green (Anna Katharine)--The Forsaken Inn.

Illustrated. 12mo. 352 pages. Handsomely Bound in English Cloth, Black and Gold Stamping on Cover. Price, $1.50.

Anna Katharine Green's new novel will excite great curiosity and be widely popular. The authoress of "The Leavenworth Case" has always been considered extraordinarily clever in the construction of mystifying and exciting plots, but in her latest book she has not only eclipsed even herself in her specialty, but has combined with her story-telling gift a fascinating mixture of poetical qualities which makes "The Forsaken Inn" a work of such interest that it will not be laid down by an imaginative reader until he has reached the last line of the last chapter. The scene of the story is the Hudson, between Albany and Poughkeepsie, and the time is the close of the eighteenth century. In writing her previous books, the authoress carefully planned her work before putting pen to paper, but this story was written in a white heat, and under the spur of a moment of inspiration.

The illustrations of "The Forsaken Inn" are by Victor Perard. They are twenty-one in number, and are a beautiful embellishment of the book.

Lewis (Mrs. Harriet)--Lady Kildare. Author of "Her Double Life," "Sundered Hearts," "The Bailiff's Scheme," "The Rival Cousins," "The House of Secrets," etc., etc. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.

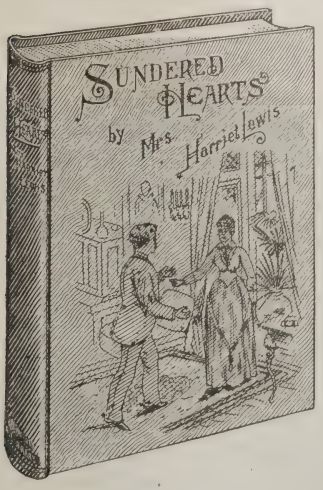
Among the most engrossing of the popular stories published in the New York Ledger in the last third of a century, is "Lady Kildare," a story not only of absorbing interest, but also of instructive value. It is an Irish tale, pure, invigorating and wholesome. In it, the writer, Mrs. Harriet Lewis, seized on the most picturesque and romantic traits in the Celtic character, and wove them into one of the most graceful of the Ledger romances.

The trials of Nora, "the Lady of Kildare," and her lovely cousin, Kathleen, the unexampled temptations to which they were exposed, their sufferings and their constancy, faith and fortitude in all situations keep the reader on the qui vive of excitement from the first paragraph in the story to the last line of the final chapter. None of Mrs. Lewis's novels has more freshness and brilliancy than "Lady Kildare," and there is none that has more contemporaneous interest.

Lewis (Mrs. Harriet)--Sundered Hearts.

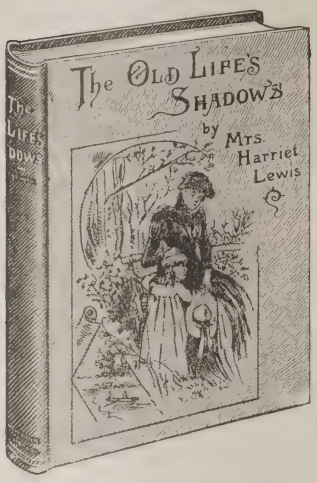
Author of "Lady Kildare," "Her Double Life," "The Bailiff's Scheme," "The Rival Cousins," "The House of Secrets," etc., etc. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.



Mrs. Harriet Lewis, the daughter of a farmer living at Pen Yan, in the State of New York, was a woman of unquestioned genius. In her short life, she produced a considerable number of novels, all of a high average of merit. Her story, "Sundered Hearts," deals with a pathetic situation and is full of tender feeling. When two persons of loyal and trustful character, and holding to each other the most tender and intimate relations which can exist on earth, become estranged, there is a deep and solemn tragedy enacted, which affords to the novelist a subject of universal interest. This is the subject chosen by Mrs. Lewis in this novel, and the way in which she has treated it is replete with true feeling and profound interest. The plot of the novel is simple, and the reader feels from the beginning that the author is dealing with an experience which she is perfectly competent to describe, and the result is one of the most touching and satisfying of love stories.

Lewis (Mrs. Harriet)--The Old Life's Shadows.

Author of "Lady Kildare," "Sundered Hearts," "The Bailiff's Scheme," "The Rival Cousins," "The House of Secrets," etc., etc. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.



This is a novel of great power. The plot and incidents are well conceived and molded into a continuous narrative of immense interest. Nowhere has Mrs. Lewis shown greater skill and ingenuity than in the construction of this story. The scene of the story is Redruth Moor farm, in Lincolnshire, England, and its picturesque, century-old stone dwelling, which at the opening of the story is occupied by Miss Jacobea Redruth, a maiden lady of peculiar traits and masculine energy. Miss Jacob, as she is called by her neighbors, is one of those strong individualities which make their mark wherever they appear and whose doings are always full of interest. The other important characters in this story are a most charming woman and a handsome profligate. There are subordinate characters full of real life and marvelously well calculated to develop the plot and engage the interest of the reader.

Libbey (Laura Jean)--Ione. Author of "Miss

Middleton's Lover," "A Mad Betrothal," "The Mystery of Black-Tor Lighthouse," etc., etc. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.

Miss Libbey is the favorite writer with thousands of her countrymen and women. She is an American, with all the national instincts and sentiments, and her stories are purely American in their characteristics and in their description of life and nature. Her stories possess the merit of being readable and pleasing. No one can take up a novel like "Ione" and put it down unread. In this respect, her readers owe her a debt of gratitude. She is never dull. "Ione" will be read, from beginning to end, with breathless interest.

Libbey (Laura Jean)--A Mad Betrothal; or,

Nadine's Vow. Author of "Ione," "Miss Middleton's Lover," etc. With Seven Illustrations by Arthur Lumley. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.

Miss Libbey's new novel is one of the most attractive books issued this year It is intensely interesting, and shows remarkable power of grasping the strong features of situation, incident, plot and character, which mark the successful novelist.

Libbey (Laura Jean)--Parted by Fate; or, The Mystery of Black-Tor Lighthouse. Author of "Ione," "A Mad Betrothal," etc. With Fourteen Beautiful Illustrations by Harry C. Edwards. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.

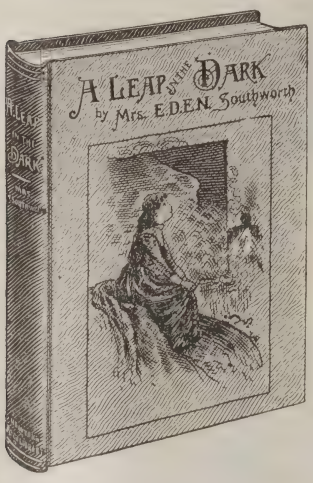
Miss Libbey's novels appeal to the young, and especially to young women. They are lively and sparkling, abounding in charming sentiment and with incidents connected with courtship and marriage. There are so many complications possible in the relations of lovers that invention would seem to be an endless chain. Miss Libbey's books are among the most popular publications of the present time, and "Parted by Fate" a good example of the very best of them.

Southworth (Mrs. E. D. E. N.)--A Leap in the Dark.

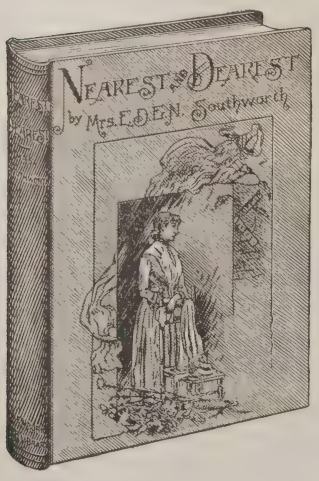
Author of "The Hidden Hand," "Unknown," etc., etc. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.



"A Leap in the Dark" is a story drawn from real life, and written somewhat like an autobiography. This gives a vivid interest to the narrative. The story opens with an act of desperation, which many an unhappy girl has been tempted to commit, but of which the hand of love, in this instance, wards off the terrible consequences. From a very exciting and sensational opening, Mrs. Southworth proceeds to give one of the most interesting heart histories that it has ever been our fortune to read. There are fair weather friends and friends who stand the stress of every storm of fortune. Throughout the story there is a constant succession of incidents which move the feelings. There are pictures of Canadian life, and every one who has visited Montreal will recognize the scenes which are laid in that city. There is no lack of variety in it, and the characters range a large part of Europe and America. It is one of Mrs. Southworth's most interesting novels.

Southworth (Mrs. E. D. E. N.)--Nearest and Dearest.

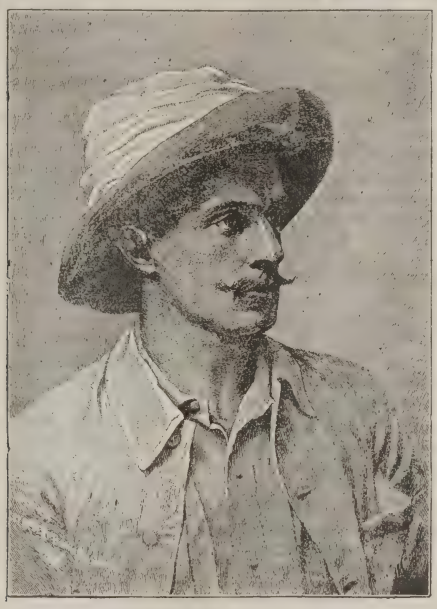
Author of "The Hidden Hand," etc., etc. Paper Cover, 50 Cents. Bound Volume, $1.00.



Mrs. Southworth's genius for picturesque description was never better illustrated than in this novel. The opening sentence prepares the reader for the narrative of the solitary and mysterious old house in which a tragic termination had been put to an old and honorable family. There is an element of mystery in the atmosphere of this story which piques curiosity and gratifies an instinct for the uncanny and supernatural which is almost universal. The mystery at the Wolf's Head Tavern might be used as a descriptive title of the novel. Like all of Mrs. Southworth's numerous works, this abounds in fine delineations of character and delightful humor. Her girls are charming, and "Nearest and Dearest" has for its heroine a lovely and winning sprite, little Nea, drawn so true to life that she seems to be personally familiar, to have been known to the reader in some previous state and condition of existence. The incidents of the story are unhackneyed and withal so novel and wonderful that they excite a feverish interest from the beginning to the end of the tale.

Ward (Herbert)--Five Years with the Congo

Cannibals. Magnificently Illustrated with many Full-Page Engravings and scores of Smaller Engravings, after Original Drawings made on the spot by the Author. Crown octavo, elegantly bound. Price, $3.00.



Sincerely Yours
Herbert Ward.

Herbert Ward's book is the record of five years spent with the most savage tribes of the far interior of Africa. It contains many facts, hitherto unknown, concerning the life, customs and superstitions of the cannibal races. It abounds with thrilling adventures, and the story it tells of risks and dangers encountered in strange places, and among wild and hostile people, is one of fascinating interest. A flood of light is thrown on the horrors and cruelties existing among the millions of Central Africa.

Mr. Ward's travels in Africa commenced in 1884, when he received an appointment in the service of the Congo Free State. He was a member of the Emin Bey Relief Expedition, and while in the service of Mr. H. M. Stanley, he made his memorable canoe journey of eleven hundred miles on the Congo.

His book contains entirely new matter about the tribes of Central Africa, will have permanent interest and value, and will be the standard work on that subject.

The Siberian Exiles.

By Col. Thos. W. Knox, Author of "The Boy Travellers," "Overland Through Asia," "Decisive Battles Since Waterloo," etc. Illustrated by Victor Perard. 8vo. Handsomely Bound in Cloth. Price, $2.00. Paper Cover, 50 Cents.

This is a novel of European and Asiatic Russia of our own times. Reading it, one would think that it belonged to the Middle Ages, when men and women were remorselessly snatched from their homes, sold into slavery, imprisoned, persecuted and killed at the caprice of local despots or robber-barons. It tells of the exile, without trial, of the head of a family, guiltless of any crime or treason, simply upon suspicion. All the exertions of his family and friends are powerless to save him from the terrors of the Siberian exile and the life of a state prisoner in the mines. Colonel Knox is familiar with the scenes and circumstances of the people about whom he writes. He has travelled in Siberia, visited the mines and prisons, seen the prisoners at work, and he gives a vivid picture of their life and sufferings. His novel is one of the most interesting and pathetic narratives which has ever been written of modern Russia, its government and people. The edition in cloth binding is a large, handsome volume with many illustrations. It is also published in the Ledger Library in paper covers, with five choice illustrations.

BREED'S PATENT PORTFOLIO SCRAP BOOK.

A SCRAP BOOK WITHOUT PASTE.

The old-fashioned scrap book has leaves on which scraps are pasted, as collected, without orderly arrangement. Breed's Scrap Book has pockets or envelopes, into which scraps are dropped and methodically filed by subjects. There is no pasting, no annoyance, no loss of time, no dirt. The subject is written on the envelope containing it and entered in the index. No matter how many scraps have accumulated, all upon the same subject are together and can be easily removed, consulted and replaced. Scraps kept in this book are not blurred by pasting, defaced by exposure, or mutilated by removal. Notes for editorials, sermons, lectures and other addresses can be filed here, and a record of time and place of delivery be written on the envelope.

Editors, authors, politicians, lawyers, lecturers, clergymen, and all busy men find that, as a receptacle for scraps, papers and writings, methodically arranged for convenient reference, it has no equal. It contains fifty heavy manila envelopes, with tuck, 6 x 9 inches in size, handsomely bound together in a book that stands upon an ordinary book shelf. Half American Russia, cloth sides. Price, postpaid, $3.00 net.

Von Holst's Constitutional and Political History of the United States. By Dr. Hermann E. von Holst. Head Professor of History in the University of Chicago.

A work unsurpassed and unrivaled in its field. No other deals so broadly, so fully, or so interestingly with the subject. It is keen and profound; fearless and impartial in its judgments of men and measures; vigorous and vivid, alike in its delineation of events and in its portraiture of parties and leaders. "It is a book," says Charles Kendall Adams, "which should be carefully studied by every student of American politics."

A History of high type and enduring value.
Alexander Johnston.

Professor von Holst has the analytical capacity and the candor and courage which are requisite for his task. New York Times.

A masterpiece as to depth, clearness, impartiality, and scope. David Swing.

His labors, indeed, have been immense. . . . A work which every student must needs possess in its entirety. The Nation.

YOUNG CATHOLIC'S SERIES

OF

SCHOOL ✠ BOOKS.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The Young Catholic's Series of Readers, edited by Rt. Rev. J. L. Spalding, D.D., Bishop of Peoria, is thoroughly Catholic in all its lessons.

It is the best graded set of Catholic Readers yet published.

The lessons are not mere selections; many of them include historical and biographical sketches which have been written specially for the series.

The books are printed on superfine paper, and are substantially bound in cloth.

As evidence of the worth of the series, it has been adopted entirely by the dioceses of* Pittsburgh, Manchester, Detroit, Milwaukee, Leavenworth, and Wilmington; and in part by many other dioceses, including Vincennes, Newark, Covington, Trenton, Grand Rapids, Providence, San Francisco, etc. The books are also in general use in all other dioceses throughout the country.

New Illustrations by a competent artist have been added recently.

*Re-adopted July, 1893, for a term of five years.

Se basant sur ce fait que la classification des verbes en quatre conjugaisons, établie en imitation de la conjugaison latine, n'est nullement nécessaire pour les verbes français, l'auteur divise hardiment ceux-ci en deux conjugaisons seulement. Par ce moyen, il a pu rendre claire et facile cette partie si importante de la grammaire et obtenir des résultats remarquables, consacrés par une expérience de vingt ans.

DR. SAUVEUR'S

EDUCATIONAL WORKS.

"The HENESS-SAUVEUR SYSTEM of teaching the Languages (the Natural Method) differs from that usually followed, in that the pupil learns the language which he undertakes to acquire without the aid of grammar or dictionary, purely as a spoken language, and much in the same way that a child would learn it. English is banished from the class-room; the time is used in conversation beginning with such simple elements as the familiar objects in the room may afford, and the vocabulary is formed by degrees, every day fixing in the memory the words already learned and adding others, until, in a surprisingly short time, the learner finds himself carrying on some animated discussion, of limited range to be sure at first, but with a sufficient command of his new language for the purpose. Pronunciation is acquired, and the ear formed at the same time, without the confusion which the written form of French or German is apt to create at first."—The Nation.

"You are striking at the root of the evil by showing how to teach, and by inspiring with your example, as well as with your books, many most intelligent persons to begin on a new basis the work of instruction."—Pres. D. C. GILMAN.

"I admire extremely all that I have seen of your system."—F. J. CHILD, Harvard College.

"I believe that the common methods of teaching languages, ancient or modern, to children and young persons, need to be profoundly changed, and changed in the direction of your 'Natural Method.'"—Pres. CHARLES W. ELIOT.

"CAMBRIDGE, November, 1877.

"The HENESS-SAUVEUR SYSTEM is the rational way to lead the pupil to understand, speak, read, and write a foreign tongue. I would call it the Natural Method. In the hands of a spirited teacher it produces marvellous results, enabling the reader to think and express himself unconsciously in the new language he is acquiring, and to appreciate its genius and feel its niceties.

"I think it can be carried out even in the largest classes; it is so good and simple that I hope it will be fairly tried by teachers of languages. I desire to say this because I was never convinced of its practicability and excellence myself until I tried it.

"It is not superficial. On the contrary, I know of no system that calls up more mental activity in both teacher and pupil. There is nothing mechanical or merely formal in it. It leads itself to the highest teaching. Even the grammatical knowledge imparted by this method is broader than is given by any other.

"As I understand it, there is no good thing in the old system which it does not embrace, if brought in at the proper time, the fundamental idea being that, from the start, the language to be taught must be used as the only medium of instruction. The instructor proceeds by induction from the concrete to the abstract, and so connects word and phrase with the things or ideas they express that the pupil rapidly learns the use of a new instrument for expressing his thoughts by the same process by which he acquired his vernacular tongue.

"FERDINAND BÔCHER,

"Prof. of Modern Languages in Harvard College."

"PARIS, le 14 Janvier, 1878
"Rue d'Assas, No. 44.

"MONSIEUR: J'ai reçu vos deux volumes, Entretiens sur la Grammaire et Causeries avec mes Elèves.

"Je vous en remercie. J'en ai pris connaissance avec intérêt. Je suis d'accord avec vous sur l'utilité d'apprendre la langue d'abord, et de ne venir à la grammaire que subséquemment. Par ce procédé, la grammaire cesse d'être une abstraction difficile à concevoir, difficile à appliquer. Mise à sa place, elle devient à la fois plus facile, plus lumineuse, et plus féconde.

"La méthode de s'appuyer plus sur les bons écrivains que sur les grammairiens me paraît digne de tout éloge. Il est vrai qu'en ceci je ne puis être que partial; car c'est cette méthode que j'ai suivie dans mon Dictionnaire de la langue française.

"Vos chapitres sur le participe passé et sur le subjonctif ont attiré particulièrement mon attention. Vous avez beaucoup facilité la théorie et la pratique du premier. Quant au second, qui comporte tant de nuances, vous êtes un guide excellent pour toutes ces délicatesses de langage.

"Dans ce qu'on lit, vous trouverez naturel que l'on cherche son profit particulier. Ce profit particulier a été pour moi dans une série d'observations et de discussions auxquelles vous avez été conduit en examinant certains articles de mon Dictionnaire. Je ne hais pas de me voir critiqué, quand la critique est fructueuse. Je suis bien vieux, et ne puis songer à aucun travail de révision; mais mes successeurs, si j'en ai, feront bien d'extraire de votre livre ce qui me concerne, afin de le discuter et de l'approprier.

"Agréez, monsieur, l'assurance de ma haute considération.

"E. LITTRÉ."

TEXT-BOOKS.

I.—FRENCH.

Introduction to the Teaching of the Living Languages. 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

De l'Enseignement des Langues Vivantes. 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

No one ought to teach the Natural Method without getting thoroughly imbued with the contents of these little works. They will interest not pupils only, but all teachers and students of any language. As the works of the masters have preceded grammars, so should the study of the masters precede the study of grammar. After the language is well known, the study of grammar becomes a work of intelligence, full of serious enjoyment : before that time it is useless.

Causeries avec les Enfants. 12mo, $1.25.

"Je recommande toute spécialement à l'attention des professeurs les Causeries avec les enfants Elles présentent une application rigoureuse de la méthode d'enseignement décrite dans ma brochure, Introduction to the Teaching of Living Languages. Je n'ai pas perdu de vue un instant que je destinais le livre aux enfants, et aussi aux mères qui voudront enseigner elles-mêmes la langue française à leurs fils et à leurs filles.

"La conversation dans les Causeries avec les enfants est très-facile et soigneusement graduée. Le principe capital de la méthode est qu'il faut aller sans cesse du connu à l'inconnu, faisant comprendre les mots nouveaux par ceux que l'élève a déjà acquis, et sans jamais demander aucun secours à la langue anglaise. Ce principe a été appliqué dans le présent ouvrage avec l'attention la plus grande. Aussi, je le considère comme éminemment propre à introduire mes collègues dans la pratique de l'enseignement."

Petites Causeries. 12mo, $1.25.

The Petites Causeries advances a step farther in conversation, taking up many of the fables of La Fontaine, and entering into deeper and more thoughtful conversation upon them and other topics of absorbing interest. There is not a chapter but is full of fascination even to the wisest. There is no talking by rule for the sake simply of becoming learned ; but everything is natural, graceful, and beautiful. The author says : "Je les destine tout particulièrement aux premières classes des Écoles supériures (High Schools) et aux établissements qui font de l'enseignement du français une portion importante de leurs études."

La Parole Francaise. By L. Sauveur and A. van Daell. 12mo, $1.

"Quelles sont les personnes qui doivent employer ce livre? Celles-là qui s'intéressent peu à la littérature et qui étudient le français pour le parler seulement dans la société de tout le monde, pour voyager en France et en Europe, pour aller causer à Paris de ce dont on s'entretient tous les jours, là comme ici, comme partout. Le livre peut servir aussi aux élèves qui étudient les Petites Causeries : il ajoutera à leur vocabulaire un autre vocabulaire non moins riche que le premier et presque indispensable."

Causeries avec mes Eleves. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

A work of a higher grade for older students, who are of proper age to enter into conversation upon all topics—literature, art, politics, religion, and any theme of social interest. The Causeries avec mes Elèves is not only a book of the Natural Method, it is much more ; its wealth of words, of expressions, of thoughts, makes of it the most perfect READER that a teacher might wish for. It ought thus to find its way into every school, and be the book of all methods. The very genius of France is alive in all its pages.

"For many of his chapters, Dr. Sauveur takes some fable from La Fontaine as his theme, recites and comments upon it, illustrates it by historical reference, or digresses to some inviting collateral topic—all, be it understood, in question and answer, skilfully and sometimes even artistically managed. Molière, Pascal, a humorous passage or two from Töpffer, in the same way supply the text for chapters, which give variety and freshness to what is usually a monotonous and dry road."—The Nation.

Contes Merveilleux. 12mo, $1.50.

A book well adapted to give the fluent use of conversation, and containing a wealth of words.

Fables de la Fontaine, avec notes. $1.50.

In this selection of masterpieces, in the accompanying notes, and in the choice of extracts from different authors, expressing ideas in relation with the fables, we find the ideal conversation-book for intelligent classes. The great fabulist has found an exponent who loves and understands him and has brought him nearer to us.

Entretiens sur la Grammaire. 12mo, $1.75.

After Littré's letter it is unnecessary to write another word in praise of the most original of all French Grammars.

Grammaire Francaise pour les Anglais. 12mo, $1.50.

This work has a unique feature and one that makes it a great improvement upon any of its predecessors : it is really written for people of English tongue, which means that it encounters and overcomes those special difficulties which Americans dread when they undertake to study French. The book is no reproduction of well-known and insufficient rules ; it is original, personal, and founded on the class-room experience of one whose powers of observation and faculty of imparting knowledge have been admired by the greatest educators of this country. Dr. Sauveur says in his Preface : " C'est aux personnes de langue anglaise, que le livre est destiné. Aussi me suis-je efforcé de ne jamais oublier que ceux qui étudieront ma grammaire ne sont pas français, qu'ils ignorent nos idiotismes, qu'ils ne connaissent point et comprennent difficilement la signification de nos temps, qu'ils ont à peine une idée de notre subjonctif, que l'emploi de l'article et les règles du participe sont une nouveauté qui étonne leur esprit saxon, et qu'ils ont à apprendre même la prononciation de la langue française. De nombreux exercices terminent ma grammaire, et je fais imprimer séparément le corrigé de ces exercices. Celui-ci est destiné aux professeurs seulement et aux personnes qui étudient sans maître."

Petite Grammaire Francaise pour les Anglais. 12mo, $1.25.

Cette grammaire embrasse tout le sujet traité dans la Grammaire française pour les Anglais. Cependant, je me suis efforcé d'être assez simple dans mon style pour être compris de tous, même de ceux-là qui sont peu avancés dans l'étude du français, ou qui sont encore trop jeunes pour entendre rien à la philosophie d'une langue. Dans ce but, des exercices nombreux ont été mis dans le livre à côté des règles, et parmi ces exercices on trouvera un certain nombre de phrases anglaises et de courts extraits des auteurs anglais, destinés à être traduits par les élèves. Ils ont été choisis avec le plus grand soin, en vue d'enseigner l'application des règles, et de les faire mieux comprendre et mieux retenir."

"On a mis à la fin de cette grammaire le premier acte de Lo Dame de Lyons (The Lady of Lyons), et un chapitre des Aventures d'Alice dans le pays des merveilles (Alice's Adventures in Wonderland). On trouvera ces passages traduits dans le Corrigé des exercices qui accompagne ce livre."

II.—LATIN.

Introduction to the Teaching of the Ancient Languages. 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

"I have read with interest your 'Introduction to the Teaching of Ancient Languages,' and the first chapter of your 'Talks with Cæsar,' and desire to thank you for the advance sheets. I believe that the common methods of teaching languages, ancient or modern, to children and young persons, need to be profoundly changed, and changed in the direction of your 'Natural Method.'

"Your persevering efforts to make known your method, and to demonstrate its advantages, seem to me, therefore, to be of public service.

Believe me, dear sir, very truly yours,

PRES. CHARLES W. ELIOT, Harvard University."

The Vade Mecum of the Latinist. Thirty chapters of Cæsar, to be learned by heart. Reprinted from "Talks with Cæsar de Bello Gallico." (With accents, marks of quantity, and map of Gaul.) 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

A Word for Word Rendering into English of C. Julii Cæsar Commentarii de Bello Gallico, Book I. To accompany "Talks with Cæsar." 12mo paper, 25 cents.

Talks with Cæsar de Bello Gallico. (Colloquia Cæsariana ; Text of the First Four Books, with accents and marks of quantity ; Notes on Book First ; and an appendix on Pronunciation and Inflection. With map of Gaul.) 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"My dear Dr. Sauveur : I return by to-day's mail the proofs of your 'Talks with Cæsar,' which you sent me, and which I have read through with constantly increasing interest. The fact is, no one can stand out against your enthusiasm, to say nothing of your genius for teaching languages. I begin a skeptic ; I continue a rebel for a time ; but before I know it I surrender at discretion.

W. S. TYLER, Professor of Greek, Amherst College."

"I have the most hopeful interest in your application of the 'Natural Method' to the ancient languages. In learning Latin, it would save at least half the pupil's time, and would occupy the other half to much better purpose than by the old method, as it would exercise not his memory alone, but his reason and his imagination. I shall endeavor to interest the teachers of Latin in our public High School in your treatise, as illustrated by the 'Talks,' and shall be gratified to find them able and willing with new classes to enter upon the New Method.

DR. A. P. PEABODY, Harvard University."

A COMMON-SENSE

Elementary Conversation Grammar of the German Language,

WITH

Exercises, Readings and Conversations.

By Dr. OSCAR WEINECK.

Second Revised Edition. $1.10.

This book has been adapted to the wants of the Public Schools of New York, and especially to the new Course of Studies, as lately adopted by the Board of Education. Its material has been divided into 90 lessons, thus giving to each of the five grades eighteen lessons, to be studied in a term of 20 weeks. An appendix contains an Introduction to Letter-Writing and further material for practical conversations.

The method represented in this book has been tried by me in the different classes with the pleasing result that by its means I have been able to keep the interest of the scholars alive through all the grades, and impart to them a power of conversation never before attained by them.

Instructor of German in the Public Schools of New York City.

THE CHRIST OF PAUL;

Or, the Enigmas of Christianity. A Critical Study of the Origins of Christian Doctrines and Canonical Scriptures.

BY GEORGE REBER.

Extra cloth, 12mo, 400pp., $1.50.

An endeavor to find, by careful analysis of the writings themselves, by researches into the history of the periods to which they are ascribed, and by examinations of the patristic writers, the solution of a problem which has perplexed many wise heads during many centuries. The hypothesis which he builds upon the result of his labors has the merit of plausibility, consistence, synchronism with the facts of history, and substantiation by internal evidences.—[Sacramento Daily Union.

There is a general sentiment that we want Christ's Christianity more than Paul's or the churchmen's or the whole succession of theologians. Let us have it. If this book lights the way to it, let us follow it. If there is a truer way, show it. Men prefer to walk where there is most light.—[St. Louis Republican.

It is written in a terse, colloquial, attractive style, and will have thoughtful readers.—[Phrenological Journal.

PERSONAL IMMORTALITY,

AND OTHER PAPERS.

By Josie Oppenheim.

Extra cloth, 12mo, 98pp., 50cts.

The spirit of the author is unexceptionable, and she states with the utmost candor the arguments for and against the doctrine of immortality. There is evidence of much reading and careful thinking. The book may be taken as a very fair index of the state of mind of a great many moral, intelligent, and fair-minded people who have begun to "trust their intellects."—[Critical Review.

ANCIENT SEX WORSHIP.

A Curious and Remarkable Work—

Traces of Ancient Myths in the Religions of To-Day.

Extra cloth, gold side stamp, 26 illustrations, 12mo., $1.

Containing much mythological lore and a chapter on the Phalli of California. A work of interest to scholars.—[New Bedford Standard.

Much curious information is presented, and the hint imparted that much of what is deemed sacred has a very inferior origin.—[Boston Commonwealth.

To the investigator of early religious history, who can view all evidence without prejudice . . . . entertainment undeniably fresh.—[Literary World.

A curious, learned, and painfully suggestive book. Especial pains is taken to deal delicately with the subject.—[Chicago Journal.

The attempt is to show that the cross, as a religious emblem, is much older than Jesus Christ, and to trace in the religions of to-day the relics of ancient passional worship. Much research and deep scholarship are displayed, and the work is high-toned, but it is not designed for immature minds.—[Portland Transcript.

BIBLE MYTHS,

AND THEIR PARALLELS IN OTHER RELIGIONS:

BEING A

Comparison of the Old and New Testament Myths and Miracles with those of Heathen Nations of Antiquity,

CONSIDERING ALSO THEIR ORIGIN AND MEANING.

WITH NUMEROUS ILLUSTRATIONS.

[Heathen Illustration of the Temptation.]

The Bundehesh (a sacred book of the Persians,) states that Ahuramazda after creating the first man and woman, Mashya and Mashyana, bade them "to be humble of heart; to observe the law; to be pure in their thoughts, pure in their speech, pure in their actions." But an evil demon came to them in the form of a Serpent, sent by Ahriman, the prince of devils, and gave them fruit of a wonderful tree, which imparted immortality. Evil inclinations then entered their hearts, and all their moral excellence was destroyed. Consequently they fell, and forfeited the eternal happiness for which they were destined. They killed beasts, and clothed themselves in their skins.

Toned paper, wide margins; cloth, 8vo, 612pp., $2.50.

FOR THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL LIBRARY.

Above and Below. By REBECCA PERLEY REED. Pp. 336, $1.00.

A mother writes of the lessons which, after her baby's death, she tried to impress on the tender minds of the brothers and sisters; and of the varied experiences of a sanctified home. She says: "I have endeavored to render heaven as actual to their belief as earth, and the existence of the departed as positive as their own."

Academy Boys in Camp, The. By Mrs. S. F. SPEAR. Pp. 264, $1.00.

A story of a company of boarding-school boys who spent a month camping on an island near the seacoast. Teaches the meanness of lying and the manliness of telling the truth.

A Royal Hunt [Beacon Series]. By Mrs. E. C. WILSON. Pp. 394. Price, $1.50.

A story of the Huguenots, of thrilling interest with the charm of a peculiarly attractive picture of the child life among these much-persecuted people. Of interest to old and young.

Artist's Children, The. By Mrs. S. F. KEENE. Pp. 256, $1.00.

An orphan brother and sister struggle with poverty, learn lessons of trust in God, find their affections strengthened by trials, and finally come into a rich earthly inheritance while they are preparing for a heavenly one.

Asaph's Ten Thousand. By MARY E. BENNETT. Pp. 325, $1.50.

The scene of this powerful and dramatic story is laid in a manufacturing village, and deals in a graphic manner with the discontent of the mill hands, a consequent strike, and the final adjustment of the difficulties between the employers and the employés upon a reasonable Christian basis.

Beacon Series, The. The set in a neat box, 6 volumes, $9.00.

FRESHMAN AND SENIOR. THE KNIGHTS OF SANDY HOLLOW.
A ROYAL HUNT. FAITH ON THE FRONTIER.
ONE LITTLE MAID. TRANSPLANTED.

These six stories were chosen principally from the large number of manuscripts sent us in our recent Prize Competition, and are of especial merit and interest. Notices of the individual books appear elsewhere.

Being a Christian. By Rev. WASHINGTON GLADDEN, D.D. Pp. 144, cloth, 60 cents; paper, 25 cents.

In seven chapters, entitled "What is it to be a Christian?" "Why should I be a Christian?" "How shall I become a Christian?" "How shall I know whether I am a Christian or not?" "When should I join the Church?" and "But and If." His treatment of these questions is clear and scriptural, practical and natural, and we do not see how any thoughtful person can read them and not be helped greatly.

Bertha Gordon Series. By MAY KINGSTON. Pp. 48 each. Price, 10 volumes, $2.25.

Ten bright stories for little boys and girls, in which Bertha Gordon and her brother Robby, at home and on their trip to the seashore, figure conspicuously. Fully illustrated and very entertaining.

Bertha's Journal. By EMILY MARSHALL. Pp. 387, $1.25.

An honest record by a young girl of her faults, failings, and endeavors to do right. She wages war against her stepmother, but both finally become Christians.

Billow Prairie. By Mrs. J. H. GILLETTE. Pp. 369, $1.50.

An exceedingly interesting story of the development of a frontier settlement, and of a family at the same time. It shows the enlightening and refining influence of true religion upon those who have not had the advantages of education and good surroundings.

Blind Florette. By Mrs. HELEN F. PARKER. Pp. 318, $1.00.

A lost blind child on a prairie is found and adopted by a family, where she is taught to find with her fingers petals and calyx, stamens and pistil, giving her an excellent start in botany. A sweet and healthful story.

Boy Convict of Bermuda, The. By MARGARET E. WINSLOW. Pp. 301, $1.25.

A lad, unjustly accused of poaching and burglary, is sent to the Bermudas, a convict for life. His hard lot works out to his good; for under the labors of a true chaplain he learns to love Christ, and at last is released from his sentence thoroughly exculpated of the charges which brought him there.

Boyhood of John Kent, The. By WILLIS BOYD ALLEN. Pp. 368, $1.50.

John Kent is a carpenter's son, and, the mother being dead, the father and boy are all in all to each other. The intercourse between the two is delightful. The lapse of a partner of Mr. Kent into drunkenness furnishes a vivid presentation of the evils which arise from drinking, and sends the boy off to another part of the globe, from which he returns in due time all the better for his enforced journey. The story ought to inspire many boys and girls with nobler ideals than they now have.

Boy Lollard, The. By Rev. F. A. REED. Pp. 302, $1.50.

Describes society in England in the days of Henry VIII and Cardinal Wolsey, and the trials of those who desired to read the Word of God unhindered. This and the companion volume, "Twin Heroes," concern a period of history of great interest, representing the rise of Protestantism, which has escaped the notice of competent story-tellers.

Boys at Sandover. Pp. 264, $1.00.

Life in a reform school for boys. It teaches lessons of kindness, truthfulness, honesty, and helpfulness.

Boys of North Parish, The. By HELEN PEARSON BARNARD. Pp. 320, $1.50.

The scene of this story is laid in a country town, and the boys are a live set, each with a strong individuality — in fact, just such boys as one is sure to come across in such a place.

Brian's Home. By FANNIE E. NEWBERRY. Pp. 342, $1.50.

A simple yet intensely interesting story of the home life of the Prentice family. The scene is laid in Virginia and for a time in Boston, and the story teaches lessons of patience, courage, and self-reliance, while it shows how great an inspiration a mother can be to her sons and daughters.

By a Strange Path. By MARGARET H. ECKERSON. Pp. 229, $1.00.

This is a story of life in a German village, written by one who thoroughly understands the material she is dealing with, and who has an admirably graphic style.

Child-Life in New England. By Mrs. SARAH LORD HALL. Pp. 188, 75 cents.

Five characteristic stories from an experienced pen: "God's Dove," "The Best Possible Christmas," "Pietro and Nina," "A Huguenot Story," and "The Choir-Boy of York Cathedral."

Christian Endeavor Saints, Some.

See page 14.

Christmas at Surf Point. By WILLIS BOYD ALLEN. Pp. 168, $1.00.

Mr. Allen's style is sprightly and animated, of the kind particularly liked by boys. His sketches have their "morals," but they are deftly worked in, and have the very flavor of the stories themselves. The book is capitally and profusely illustrated, and will be in popular demand in every Sunday-school library where it may be placed.

Chubby Ruff. By Prof. GEORGE HUNTINGTON. Pp. 200, $1.00.

A charming little book for the children, fresh and bright and wise. It carries its readers into the borders of wonderland, but always has a hidden bit of wisdom to hint, but not quite to disclose.

Courts and Corners. Pp. 215, 75 cents.

Temperance story. A young man sets up a temperance grocery in a place where young men had been used to gamble and drink. By judicious advice and help he wins the most of them and redeems the neighborhood.

The way the answers to a good man's prayers finally appeared in other lives; illustrating New England life.

Dear Gates. By JOSEPHINE R. BAKER. Pp. 333, $1.25.

This is a story for the little folks, which will capture all who read it, whether old or young. Though concerned only with the common happenings of life, yet it obtains a strong hold upon the reader, and brings him into such sympathy with the young heroine that he shares her joys and her trials.

Round Top and Square Top is a sequel to Dear Gates.

Dr. Lincoln's Children. By KATE W. HAMILTON. Pp. 207, $1.00.

Dr. Lincoln's children are always attempting something, as the manner of wide-awake children is, and in their mistakes there always is a moral which the young readers cannot fail to apply, though it is not preached.

Drops of Water; or, Pencilings by the Seashore. By B. F. GILMAN, M.D. Pp. 259, $1.00.

Eleanor and I. A tale of the days of King Richard II. By MARY E. BAMFORD. Pp. 335, $1.50.

The story which Hugh tells of his sister and himself, the two having been left orphans when very young, is very interesting, while it reveals the almost incredible ignorance and superstition of the times. The poor priests, or Lollards, as they were called, with Wyckliffe, were doing what they could to break the bondage, and it is through them that the sister and then the brother are led to rejoice in the full light of the gospel.

Enderby Bible Class. By Miss M. E. WINSLOW. Pp. 320, $1.25.

The story of how the members of the Enderby Bible Class learned to fill out, each one for himself, the sentence; "For me to live is ——."

Forest Home Series. By WILLIS BOYD ALLEN. 5 vols. $2.00.

Each volume contains a little story complete in itself, yet connected with all the others, and just adapted for the little ones. Mr. Allen has so thoroughly proven his ability in addressing children that this series will be unquestioningly awarded a place in the library along with those that have previously come from his pen.

Forged Letter, and other Stories. By SARAH P. BRIGHAM. Pp. 203, $1.00.

Seven stories, teaching the cruelty of practical jokes, the consequences of passion, the value of honesty, etc.

Forty Years among the Zulus. By Rev. JOSIAH TYLER, Missionary of the A. B. C. F. M. Pp. 298. Fully illustrated. $1.25.

We get from the author not only an idea of the methods used to Christianize the Zulus, with their results, but also a clear conception of their customs, religion, and character. Their life in a kraal, their superstitions, their folklore, their good traits and their bad ones are set forth, not so much in the temper of an ardent missionary as of a keen and critical observer.

Four Miles from Tarrytown. By FANNIE H. GALLAGHER. Pp. 202, $1.00.

This is a story of the late civil war, but the interest in it does not center on the battlefield. One rather in it gets glimpses of struggle and victory in the home. The book is one which is natural and healthful, and without question may go into the Sunday-school library.

Harold Dorsey's Fortune. By MARY DWINELL CHELLIS.

See The Old Mill.

Hermit of Livry, The. By Miss M. R. HOUSEKEEPER. [Prize Series.] Pp. 438, $1.50.

Only now and then is there a writer capable of setting forth, in such a way that one can realize it, what those had to encounter who were among the first to break away from the Church of Rome. Such a writer we have in the author of "The Hermit of Livry." Her book is history put in the form of fiction. Incidentally the steps by which a noble Christian character is developed into sturdy independence are clearly portrayed, and this, perhaps, is the most valuable and helpful characteristic of the book. It is powerfully but wisely written.

Honda the Samurai. By Rev. WM. ELLIOT GRIFFIS, D.D. Pp. 390, $1.50.

A book on Japan by the distinguished author of "The Mikado's Empire." "Honda" is a detailed and interesting description of the Japanese, given in connection with the life and deeds of certain historical characters who figure in the book under fictitious names. Home life is most entertainingly pictured. The political life of this fascinating nation, with the history of the double rulership of Tycoon and Mikado, is carefully explained. The illustrations are all by Japanese artists, selected by the author from his own large collection. No better book than this for acquainting young people with Japan has been published.

How He Made His Fortune. By JULIA W. DEWITT. [Prize Series.] Pp. 317, $1.50.

In this we have illustrated the results of a firm faith in God and in his blessing upon the right-doer. Sandy Fergusson, a Scotch lad, starting out for himself without a penny, was nevertheless rich in piety and principle. His capital proved productive, too, though he took up with mining as a common miner. He would not join the "unions," in spite of pressure and threats, and through his steady integrity became superintendent where he began as a mere laborer. It is a thrilling story of the days of the Molly Maguires.

In Black and Gold. By JULIA MCNAIR WRIGHT. Pp. 400, $1.50.

This is a thrilling fiction, which sets forth with wonderful power the terrible thraldom of those who are fascinated by gambling and by drink.

Incidents in a Busy Life. An Autobiography of Rev. ASA BULLARD. With an introduction by Rev. ALEXANDER MCKENZIE, D.D., and an In Memoriam Chapter by M. C. HAZARD. Pp. 235, $1.25.

"One of the most interesting volumes of local biography we have examined for a long time."—Transcript.

In the Vulture's Nest. By ELIZABETH WASHINGTON. Pp. 396, $1.50.

A vivid story of the events which led up to the Massacre of St. Bartholomew. The characters are historical, and fidelity to facts has been so carefully conjoined with that which is invented that the final impression is true to history. The wonderful power of the story is due partly to the writer, and partly to the facts set forth.

Janet and Her Father. By MARY E. BAMFORD. 12mo. Pp. 200, $1.00.

The scene is laid in Scotland in the time of persecution under James II, in which the brutal Claverhouse took so prominent a part. Janet's father is among those who have to flee and hide from the merciless dragoons. Though he escapes their clutches, and the family is spared, yet others suffer, and the lessons of heroic martyrdom appear here in full power.

Jim the Newsboy and His Friends. Pp. 403, $1.25.

A little fellow who began to earn money selling papers in a city finds his way to the West, becomes an engineer, and finally superintendent of a railroad. He and his friends win success by unselfish service to others.

Jolly Ten, and Their Year of Stories. By AGNES CARR SAGE. Pp. 299, $1.25.

The Jolly Ten is the title assumed by a band of cousins who were accustomed to meet monthly at the "Pinery," with "Aunt Roxy." At her fireside the Jolly Ten play merry games, have suppers flavored with innocent fun, and listen to stories — twelve stories during the year — each with its lesson calculated to make the ten not less jolly but quickly reponsive to the calls of duty and to the needs of others.

Kate Jameson and Her Friends. By JOY ALLISON. Pp. 308, $1.00.

Shows the value of Christian influence, by a story of three girls in their school and home life.

Kathie's Experience. By Mrs. EMILY HUNTINGTON MILLER, author of Highways and Hedges, etc. Pp. 232, $1.00.

Kathie tells her own experience, and, by Mrs. Miller's help, does it a captivating way.

Katie Robertson. By Miss M. E. WINSLOW. Pp. 338, $1.25.

The story of a brave young girl who had her own way to make in the world and succeeded in more ways than one. A story of unusual interest.

Three Years at Glenwood is a sequel to Katie Robertson.

Knights of Sandy Hollow, The. By MARY B. SLEIGHT. Pp. 376, $1.50. [Beacon Series.]

The "Knights" were originally a band of eight or ten boys in a dull fishing village, who united for mischief of all kinds. Their escapades make them the terror of the neighborhood, until, under the influence of a devoted young girl and her lame brother who come to live among them, the purposes of their lives are directed into higher and more useful channels.

Knives and Forks. By Mrs. FRANK LEE. Pp. 402, $1.50.

This is a very strongly written story of life in a country town. It deals with the two classes of young people usually found in such a place — the members of refined families, many of whom are college students, and the wage-workers and unrefined young men and women.

Knot of Blue, A. By LOTTIE E. STREET. [Prize Series.] Pp. 365, $1.50.

The "Knot of Blue" was of ribbon, and it signified that the boys at The Evergreens, incited thereto by their teacher, had formed themselves into a Look-up Legion, with the familiar motto: —

Look up, and not down;
Look out, and not in;
Look forward, and not back;
And lend a hand.

The story tells how they came to form this band, and what effect its forming had on their lives after they left the school. It is a good boy's book, well calculated to beget a high regard for true manliness and to show how it and piety belong together.

Lake View Series. 6 vols. By ANNA F. BURNHAM. $2.25.

Each volume is made up of a number of short, independent sketches, written so as to interest children and also those of larger growth. The series is an illustration of the fact that when one writes well for little children, the older people are sure to be pleased also.

Last o' the Luscombs, The. By HELEN PEARSON BARNARD. Pp. 437, $1.25.

A temperance story. A cider mill and a distillery ruin the Luscomb family; but the last of his line, moved by affection for a little boy, reforms and does good work in the cause of temperance.

Lawrence Munroe. Pp. 365, $1.25.

A temperance story of New England village life thirty years ago. Somewhat old-fashioned in style, but interesting as a real picture of a kind of community which any one familiar with New England before the war will recognize.

Life Scenes in the Mountains of Ararat. By MOSES PAYSON PARMELEE. Pp. 269, $1.25.

A description of the modes of life and common customs of the Armenians and of missionary life among them.

Little Hands. By HARRIET A. FARRAND. Pp. 114, 60 cents.

Three talks to little children on the structure, uses, and abuses of hands, feet, and tongues.

Little Johnny Twoboys. By JULIA H. BOYNTON. Pp. 57, 60 cents.

Every boy has two boys buttoned up inside of his jacket. He has a never-ending conversation with them so long as he is awake. "Good" tells him to do one thing, and "Bad" just the opposite. "Johnny Twoboys" tells what a time Johnny had with Good and Bad. It is well illustrated, and a capital book for little boys to read, and for girls too.

Little Miss Boston. By Mrs. HARRIET A. CHEEVER. Pp. 301, $1.25.

A Christmas story of unusual charm to young or old. It tells of a little girl who lived in a poor district of Boston with rough women who had taken her at her mother's death. Church-Kingdom, The. Lectures on Congregationalism. By Rev. A. HASTINGS ROSS, D.D. Pp. 386, $2.50.

The lectures gathered into this volume were delivered by the author on the Southworth Foundation in the Andover Theological Seminary. Though concerning Congregationalism, they deserve the larger title of the Church-Kingdom, for he treats, in its widest comprehension, of that institution which we call the Church of God. He gives to us, not a narrow view of one particular polity, but a broad treatment of the development of the Church as manifested in all ecclesiastical forms and polities.

Evolution in Religion. By Rev. WILLIAM W. MCLANE, D.D. Pp. 226, $1.00.

This book is written for the purpose of showing that it is entirely possible to admit all the facts claimed by evolutionists without giving up the thought of a divine Creator. The author claims that Christianity should be studied scientifically as well as by the literary and historic method, and demonstrates with a good deal of force that evolutionists have erred in overlooking or ignoring religious phenomena because they are spiritual in their nature.

In this volume four well-known Congregational ministers and one layman deal with that old problem of the Church, "How to reach the masses." It is in advance of most discussions of the kind, for it is particularly frank in its admission of other claims of the people on the Church than for pulpit sermonizing.

Lectures on Revivals. By EDWARD NORRIS KIRK, D.D., late pastor of Mount Vernon Church, Boston. Edited by Rev. DAVID O. MEARS. Pp. 331, $1.25.

These Lectures were delivered before the students of the Theological Seminary at Andover, in the winter of 1868. They may be said to embody the observation and experience of Dr. Kirk's busy life, while, at the same time, they reveal the principles upon which his success was built up. The wide range of thought, the freedom from any bias of judgment, the scholarly analysis of the whole subject, will be recognized by every reader; and the style will recall to thousands the man himself at work. The portrait of the true preacher in these pages is a portrait of himself, unconsciously drawn.

Life and Times of Cotton Mather. By Rev. E. P. MARVIN. Pp. 582, $3.50, net.

This is a very painstaking biography of one of the most celebrated ministers of New England. The author devoted a number of years to investigating the facts of Cotton Mather's life, and most thoroughly sifted all the information which is available. The results may therefore be looked upon as reliable. This biography refutes many of the calumnies which were heaped upon Cotton Mather, and places his attitude toward witchcraft in its true light. While it does not show him altogether free from the superstition of his times, it does make it clear that he was much in advance of his contemporaries, and exhibits him as a tireless worker, a splendid preacher, and a man of fervent piety. The book should be in every public library.

It will be found equally useful to the private Christian also."—New Englander, July, 1876.

Some of the sentences of the Declaration of Independence are almost literal quotations from this book of John Wise. The names of the subscribers to the edition of 1772 are appended to the present volume. It adds a value to this work, that it is the only book of authority recognized by our courts of law as a reliable commentary on the Cambridge Platform.

Bible Studies. By A. E. DUNNING, D.D. Cloth, 40 cents, net; paper, 25 cents, net.

"Secretary Dunning has a rare power of putting truth effectively, alike on paper and from the platform. How to study the Word of God for one's self, and how to teach it to others, are the two questions the answers to which Mr. Dunning seeks to give. In what other volume more good sense, knowledge of the Bible, acquaintance with human nature, and practical Christian devotion, all combined, have been brought to bear upon this subject, we do not know." — The Congregationalist.

"Mr. Dunning is an expert in Sunday-school work, the motive power in the Assembly Normal Union, a gentleman with persistent industry in research, a student with an analytical mind, a teacher's instinct, a leader's magnetism. Everything attempted is well done. It is loyal to the old-time standard ideas in every regard, reliable, safe, devout, comprehensive." — Journal of Education.

Pilgrim Series of Record Books.

A simple, practical, and labor-saving system of keeping the records of the Sunday-school should be based on the same principles that govern good bookkeeping in a mercantile house. The work ought not to be done twice by two different people, but, on the other hand, each part of it should be performed by the one who can do it best, and to whom that special portion is of value as a record. The Pilgrim Books are made with this in view. (See above.)

The "Pilgrim Series of Lesson Helps" is under the editorial charge of Mr. M. C. HAZARD. They are characterized by reliable exegesis, correct principles of teaching, freshness and variety of method, and excellence of mechanical execution. Mrs. J. H. Boynton is editor of the Sunday-school Papers.

Those who successfully pass the examination for one year will be enrolled among the PILGRIM BIBLE STUDENTS, and will receive a handsome Certificate signed by the Secretary and the Editor. He finds friends who send him to school, and the story of his school life, with its record of manly Christian character and kindly helpfulness, forms the larger part of the book.

Life of Jesus the Christ. [Pilgrim Series.] In four grades, Senior, Intermediate, Junior, and Lesson Picture Cards. By M. C. HAZARD. JOHN LUTHER KILBON, ANNA F. BURNHAM, and MARY E. HAZARD, Assistants.

A guide for students, which in clear outline, sufficient but not overabundant comments, and thoroughness of method, surpasses any similar manual yet published. Excellent maps, made especially for this work, illustrate with unprecedented clearness the geography of Jesus' life, while the treasures of art have been liberally drawn upon to show in pictorial form the scenes in which he dwelt and worked. No one who wishes to comprehend clearly the chronology of Jesus' life should be without this work. An excellent lesson course for Sunday-schools and Bible-classes. The two Junior grades will be found unusually adapted to the use of primary classes.

Lonely Hill and its Possibilities. By M. L. WILDER. Pp. 374. Price, $1.50. (In press.)

The children in an out-of-the-way place form a mission band, and, though they are at first inclined to think that they can give neither time, money, nor personal effort, find that they can do much more than they supposed possible.

My Life and Times. By CYRUS HAMLIN, D.D. (In press.)

It has taken some urging to persuade Dr. Hamlin to write the story of his life, but the result has been worth the effort, both to him and his friends. His life has been an extremely interesting one, and no one could have written of it more entertainingly.

Patty's Grand-Uncle. By Mrs. HELEN PEARSON BARNARD. (In press.)

A rich uncle tests his relatives by allowing them to infer that he has lost all his property. In that way he ascertains that one brother's family have no further use for him, while the other willingly give him a home, though their means are scant. Patty in this family becomes his favorite, and she develops a fine character by her regard for him. When the uncle rescues the old homestead from being sold, all, of course, become aware of their error as to his property, and then Patty and the rest get their due reward.

Pastor's Manual. (In press.) By Rev. GEORGE M. BOYNTON, D.D.

An entirely new and very complete pastor's handbook, designed to meet a minister's wants at marriages, baptisms, funerals, receiving of church members, dedications, laying of cornerstones, and other ceremonies.

Plea for the Sabbath and for Man, with Discussion of Social Problems, A. By Rev. J. Q. BITTINGER. Pp. 236. Price, $1.25.

Mr. Bittinger is a clear and strong thinker, and he gives the subject thorough treatment. He first traces back the history of the institution of the Sabbath as a period of rest and special sacredness. The second part of the book relates to the Sabbath as an economic, religious, and social institution. The book is eminently sane and wholesome, and should have wide reading.— Advance.

Prince Rupert's Namesake. By EMILY WEAVER. Pp. 394. Price, $1.50.

This thoughtful and popular author needs no introduction. This story is one of peculiar interest, connected as it is with the great plague which swept over London in 1563–64 and with the persecution which just preceded it. The heroism exhibited in bearing one and then the other is such as to stir one's heart.

Rite of Baptism, The. By Rev. WM. H. WARREN. Tract. Pp. 19. Price, 3 cents each; $2.50 per hundred.

An eminently sensible, broad, and careful treatment on the subject of Baptism.

Robert Hardy's Seven Days. By CHAS. M. SHELDON. Pp. 238. Price, 90 cents. A book for young men.

A story of real life, often dramatic and always of intense interest, while treating in an able and helpful manner some of our most important social problems.

Talks on the Veranda in a Far-away Land. By Rev. CHAS. C. TRACY. Pp. 293. Price, $1.25.

The trials and blessings of foreign missionary work form the theme of this volume. The missionary takes us into his confidence and lets us know the essential features of his experience.

The Mississippi Schoolmaster. By HENRIETTA MATSON. (In press.)

What two colored boys achieved and endured during a winter's teaching. The sketch gives a clearer insight into the work by and for the Southern negroes than hundreds of pages of statistics and reports could do.

Twentieth Door, The. By CHARLES M. SHELDON. Pp. 365. Price, $1.50.

The Twentieth Door is the Twentieth Century. The story is by the author of "Richard Bruce," published last year, and is a story which, like that, takes hold upon the heart. Farm and college life alternate. Young men will be interested and inspired by it.

Two Volunteer Missionaries. By S. W. POND, JR. Pp. 278. $1.25.

The mission to the Dakota Indians is one of the most interesting, as it has been one of the most successful, missionary endeavors of our time. This volume deals with its origins, relating how two brothers, Samuel W. and Gideon H. Pond, went out from Connecticut, at their own charges, to labor among the Indians of Minnesota before any Protestant missionary stations had been established among them. Frontier life and pioneer missionary work are graphically pictured.

DENISON'S

REFERENCE INDEX

APPLICABLE TO

Dictionaries, Catalogues, Blank Books, Directories, Commercial Reports, Atlases, Trade Lists, Cyclopedias, Periodicals.

REFERENCE BOOKS OF ALL KINDS, ETC.

For convenience in description the letters in gold on the thin black leather in the cuttings are called PRIMARIES, and the other letters are called SECONDARIES.

It enables one to turn to any letter or subject with a single motion.

1st. If the book is lying with front cover up and it is desired to open to any word beginning with D, pass the finger under that letter on the cover into the cutting beneath it, and the book is instantly opened to the position of the volume in the above illustration.

2d. From this position one turns in the same way to any letter from E to M.

SEE THIRD PAGE.

3d. To turn to any letter visible in the cuttings, as A to D or N to Z, place the thumb on the letter in the cutting, then grasp the adjacent leaves with the fingers, and the book is opened as before at a single motion.

The cuttings are colored, and the letters or abbreviations in the cuttings are gold, on thin black leather, so that the index proves an ornament, not a blemish to the book.

It saves a large part of the time consumed in consulting books of reference, preserving them by reducing the handling, and will outlast even the best leather bindings.

This Reference Index is best and most cheaply applied in the original printing and binding of the book, and estimates will be cheerfully made printers, binders or publishers on all sorts of edition work.

Webster, Worcester and many other books are issued in large numbers in this form

In buying books of reference be sure to specify "with Denison's Reference Index as shown in the cut."

The cost per volume of Denison's Reference Index when applied in the original printing and binding of the book is but trifling, but when it has to be applied completely by hand, the cost is necessarily very much more, as follows:

$2.00 on each copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.
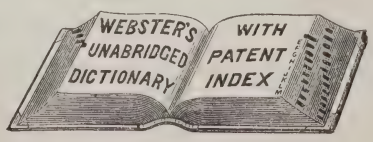
Worcester's " "
Lippincott's Gazeteer.
" Biographical Dictionary.
Harper's Latin Dictionary.
" Greek "

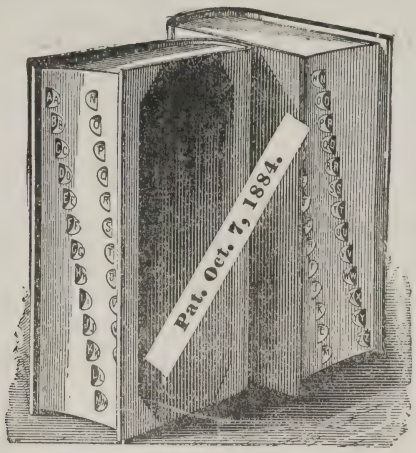
$1.50 each copy on
Adler's German and English Dictionary.
Surenne's French and English "

$1.00 each copy on
Academic Dictionaries, etc.

From the above prices any one can readily estimate approximately the cost according to the size, of having any book indexed with Denison's Reference Index complete.



DENISON'S DUPLEX INDEX.



The only proper way to index a book is with a notch for each subject, as shown in the cut. This is the COMPLETE INDEX, and I do not recommend any other.

Yet for those who insist on a cheap Index I will supply a Condensed Index, with one notch for two subjects, and the index matter printed in both sides of the cutting, which is the BEST CHEAP INDEX THAT CAN BE MADE.

This Index is progressive as all Indexes should be, the notches being placed at the beginning of the two subjects and looking forward; instead of being put between the subjects, and so causing a moment's hesitation and confusion in the mind in deciding which way to turn.

Some houses have advertised Indexed Bibles for One dollar extra, but the Index was not a complete one.

The price for applying this Duplex Index on any book, large or small, at any time, is fifty ($0.50) cents for each complete alphabet, or two dozen cuttings For Bibles, $1.25 per single copy.

"'Tiddledywink Tales' is the work of a poet and a philosopher, being witty and wise, and full of delightful fancy and of the charm of good writing. We recommend Mr. Bangs' book as well calculated to entertain both the children and the parents of the children."—The New York Sun.

"Delightful not only to the little people, but to the grown-up ordered to 'read 'em loud.' A really fascinating bit of nonsense."—The New York Tribune.

"A very clever child's book, so clever, indeed, that it seems almost impossible that the innumerable, bright, laughable ideas could be the product of one brain. Charles Howard Johnson's illustrations add greatly to the attractiveness of a very attractive little book."—Life.

"Sure to delight children, and their parents, too. The idea of the book is happily conceived, and the tales are written in a bright, natural and simple style which gives them a great charm for young and old alike. The volume is a very pretty one, and deserves to be a great favorite."—The Critic.

"Just the sort of droll fiction one would expect from its very clever author. The 'Poppergee,' and 'Jimmieboy,' and the 'Red Tiddledywink' are delightful."—The Philadelphia Press.

"There is no more fascinating book for children than 'Tiddledywink Tales.'"—The Omaha Bee.

"One of the brightest child's stories of the year. Jimmieboy is the dearest little fellow imaginable." The Chicago Times.

A NEW BOOK FOR CHILDREN.

IN CAMP WITH A TIN SOLDIER.

BY

John Kendrick Bangs.

ILLUSTRATED BY

E. M. ASHE.

A Sequel to the delightful Tiddledywink Tales.

Jimmieboy has added two years to his age since his adventures with the Tiddledywinks and is consequently a much brighter boy than he was at that time. Tiddledywink Tales has been published in England since then, so that Jimmieboy has a large circle of friends who will be anxious to read the new book. The Literary World of London said: "The story describes the adventures of an engaging little lad, Jimmieboy by name, and we venture to predict that it will be read and laughed over by a large number of grown up readers in addition to those for whom it was intended."

Jimmieboy's adventures in the Camp of the Tin Soldiers are most amusing and the new book promises to be even a greater favorite than Tiddledywink Tales.

Full Cloth, Gilt, 12 mo, 236 pages. Price $1.25.

A New Book for Boys.

IN SAVAGE AFRICA;

OR,

Six Years of Adventure in Congo-Land.

BY

E. J. GLAVE,

One of Stanley's Pioneer Officers.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION

BY

HENRY M. STANLEY.

Beautifully illustrated with seventy-five wood cuts, half-tones, and pen and ink sketches, by

The Author, Bacher, Bridgman, Kemble, and Taber.

Every boy in the land should read this true story of the adventures of a boy of eighteen, whose longing for travel and exploration led him to enter the service of the African International Association, and to pass six years of his life in the center of the Dark Continent.

Mr. STANLEY says:

"I regard Mr. GLAVE as one who in the future will probably surpass his opportunities, and I regret, for his sake, that the opportunities which specially suit him are not so frequent as his merits deserve. In the meantime, however, let him indulge his literary aspirations, and for relief handle his pen and pencil in delineating some of his early experiences in African pioneering. I think he can do it well, to the pleasure of many stay-at-home readers in parlor and school, on the farm, and at the counter, for as every one cannot go to Africa, why may not Africa be brought to them as is here done by my friend, Mr. E. J. GLAVE."

AALESUND TO TETUAN. By CHARLES R. CORNING. A volume of Travel. 12mo. 400 pp. $2.00.

"This is no ordinary book of travel. It does not follow, to any great extent, unbeaten paths; but, with singular freshness and vivacity of style, Mr. Corning touches up the old scenes, and contributes many new incidents and features of adventure upon the Continent of Europe. We commend this volume to the long-suffering public, weary unto death of books of travel, as a production out of the usual run of school-girl effervescence." — Christian Union.

Murray strikes the happy hunting-ground which long ago earned for him the popular title, 'Adirondack Murray,' and here, as in his other books, he fairly revels in the stirring incident, lively and faithful conception of character, and the powerful but delightful description of natural scenery, which have already given his work an enviable and lasting place in American literature." — Nashville American.

In "The Age of Fable," Mr. Bulfinch endeavored to impart the pleasures of classical learning to the English reader by presenting the stories of Pagan mythology in a form adapted to modern taste. He also heard, chiefly from ancient women, the traditions of ghosts, witches, and Indians, as they are preserved, and to a degree believed, by honest Christian folk, in the very teeth of modern progress.

"Two admirable stories by W. H. H. Murray, in both which appears John Norton, the trapper, a character that promises to become as much of a favorite as is the hero of the Leather Stocking novels. These stories have a bracing, out-door freshness, and a delightfully crisp realism; are vigorous in tone, and strong and picturesque in the relation. Taken altogether, they may be pronounced as the most artistic of Mr. Murray's excursions into the realms of fiction, and fascinating generally." — Saturday Evening Gazette.

OF
PRACTICAL RECEIPTS AND PROCESSES,
CONTAINING 6,422 PRACTICAL RECEIPTS,

Written in a plain and popular manner, and illustrated with explanatory wood-cuts. Being a comprehensive Book of Reference for the Merchant, Manufacturer, Artisan, Amateur and Housekeeper, embracing valuable information in the Arts, Professions, Trades, Manufactures, including Medicine, Pharmacy and Domestic Economy. The scope of this work is entirely different from any other book of the kind. Besides being a complete and almost indispensable book of reference for the thousand and one receipts and articles needed in every household, farm, garden, etc., it includes clear and easily understood directions for the application of many of the Arts usually acquired only by long experience, and so divested of technicalities, or the technical terms used so fully explained, as to bring the entire subject within the comprehension of any person of ordinary intelligence. It would be difficult to find any one of the 6,422 paragraphs in this work (many of which contain several receipts) that is not worth at least the price of the book to the person desiring to apply it. A great number of them are original contributions prepared expressly for the Encyclopedia, or are to be found only in rare and costly works. The Scientific American says: "It is worthy of a place in the library of any home, work-shop, factory or laboratory." Prominent among the immense mass of subjects treated of in the book are the following:

The Art of Dyeing.
Hard, Soft and Toilet Soaps.
Tanning.
Distillation.
Imitation Liquors.
Wines, Cordials and Bitters.
Cider.
Brewing.
Perfumery.
Cologne Water and Perfumed Spirits.

The Metrical System.

The extent of this compilation, the care with which it has been edited and published, and the simple but thorough system of arrangement and index by which its contents are made available for use in practice, combine to render it a highly valuable book. We have examined it; the description and formulæ which it contains appear to be accurate and judiciously selected. The list of authorities quoted and consulted by Mr. Dick comprises the most eminent scientific periodicals of Europe and America, and goes far to guarantee the scientific value of his receipts. For the household, it is calculated to be a precious vade mecum; while the practitioner in any industrial art will find much in its pages of especial interest to him.--PROF. ROSSITER W. RAYMOND, in the Engineering and Mining Journal.

This work is one of the most valuable ever issued from the press. It embraces an immense variety of chemical and mechanical processes, the explanation of which is aided by a large number of engravings.—Leffel's Illustrated Mechanical News.

Mr. William B. Dick has been at the great pains of compiling, and Messrs. Dick and Fitzgerald have had the business enterprise to publish, an octavo of six hundred pages, entitled an "ENCYCLOPEDIA OF PRACTICAL RECEIPTS AND PROCESSES." It would be difficult to say what is not contained in this compilation in the way of domestic industry and household economy. We should think it might be almost invaluable as a companion, guide, philosopher, friend, and physician to the country gentleman. There is hardly an exigency in the daily routine of the family that we can imagine, in which it would not prove useful in its suggestions.—New York Evening Post.

In looking through the book one is amazed at the industry and investigation of the compiler. No department of science and art has escaped the vigilance of this universal "receipter." If you are an honest man you can find in this ENCYCLOPEDIA what an honest man desires to know; if you are a scoundrel, all the methods of counterfeiting and adulterating are ingenuously exhibited.—Boston Globe.

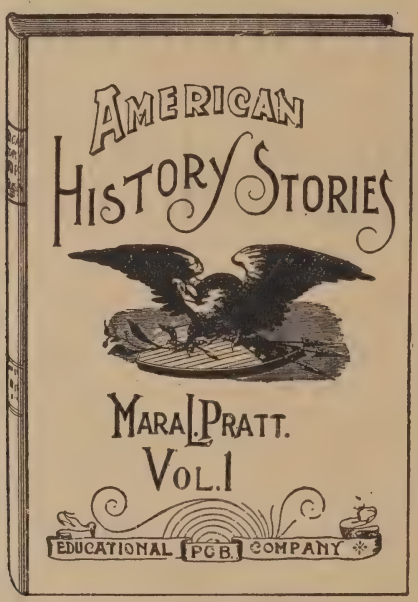
History.



American History Stories.

By MARA L. PRATT. Author of "Young Folks' Library of American History," etc.

Vols. I., II., III., IV. Price, 36 cents each. Cloth, 50 cents.

USED IN SCHOOLS OF NEW YORK, BOSTON, BROOKLYN, PITTSBURG, MINNEAPOLIS, ST. PAUL, MILWAUKEE, NEW HAVEN, HARTFORD, ETC.

Gentlemen:—The pleasure which a careful examination of AMERICAN HISTORY STORIES has afforded me, demands an expression of my gratitude. I have read them with the avidity of an interested child. I have never in all my school work seen anything that in excellence compares with them; and I shall exert myself to aid in putting them in every school library in the State. I wish I had the power, I would at once adopt them as Supplementary Reading Books in all our schools.

J. W. ANDERSON,
Supt. of Public Instruction, Sacramento, Cal.

Stories of Industry.

By A. CHASE and E. CLOW. Vols. I., and II.. Fully Illus. Price, each, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

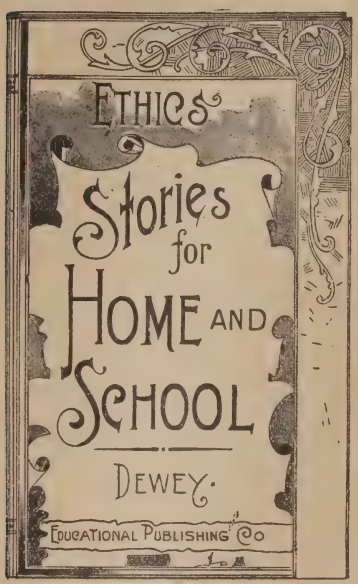
Every page teems with information, and this information is given in so popular a manner that it interests old and young alike. "I have witnessed," says Supt. Anderson, of Milwaukee, in speaking of these books, "no effort so successful as this to combine the practice of reading and training in reading with the getting of useful knowledge."

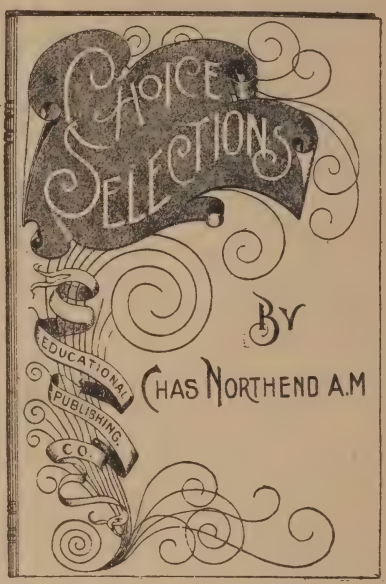
These are in my opinion unsurpassed for the purpose of Supplementary reading and to impart a knowledge of modern industries. I have witnessed no effort so successful as this to combine the practice of reading and training in reading with the getting of useful knowledge. I wish every school in our city was supplied with sets of these books, because they best realize the true aim of the work of Supplementary reading in intermediate and lower grades.

WM. E. ANDERSON,
Supt. Schools, Milwaukee. Wis.

The utility of these books rests not alone in the fact that they will be great aids in the teaching of reading; nor will the information they contain be their greatest usefulness; but they will awaken in their readers desires for broader information and, thereby, lead them into other useful reading.

W. W. BOYD,
Supt. Schools, Marietta, Ohio.





Ethics: Stories for Home and School.

Written and compiled by JULIA M. DEWEY, Principal Lowell Training School. Author of "How to Teach Manners," etc. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

Mrs. Dewey's book on Ethics is admirable both in conception and execution. It puts in an interesting and practical shape the leading idea of the times on moral education in the public schools, and will, I trust, do much to direct and advance this important work.

EDWARD BROOKS, Ph. D.,
Supt. of Schools, Philadelphia.

Choice Selections.

By CHARLES NORTHEND, A. M. 210 p. Boards, price, 50 cents.

Being about six hundred extracts from more than two hundred different authors. Designed for lessons in Recitation, Reading, Morals, and Literature.

I am glad to see this excellent book of Selections for Schools. I think I have never seen any book of the kind more wisely adapted to this purpose.

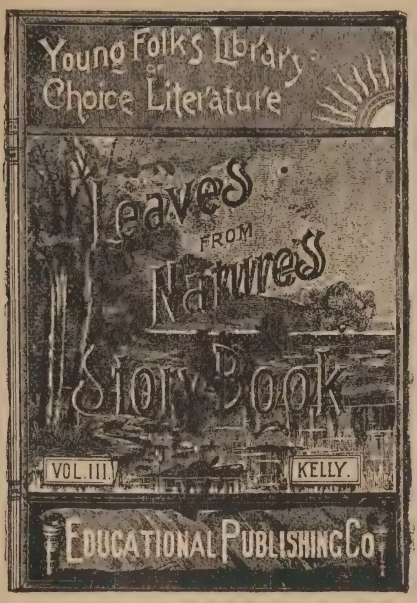
JOHN G. WHITTIER.

This volume is very interesting and calculated to do much good. I like the idea of placing these brief extracts in the hands of the young.

HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

These Selections are made with fine critical judgment and literary taste. I only wish my early teachers had known enough to fill my mind with such treasures.

T. M. BALLIET,
Supt. of Schools, Springfield, Mass.



Leaves from Nature's Story-Book.

By Mrs. M. A. B. Kelly, State Normal College, Albany, N. Y. Author of "A Volume of Poems," Etc.

Vol. I. (In Press.) Vol. II. Illus. Bds. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.
Vol. III. Illus. Bds. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

Mrs. Kelly is admirably gifted for the work she has undertaken. Like all true poets she has the closest sympathy with nature, and with it a deep insight into its various manifestations. Children can always be interested in natural history if it is properly presented. Mrs. Kelly realized that there was an over-abundance of books that set forth the barren facts in the science, as well as many compilations of all sorts and kinds. She therefore attempted nothing of this kind, but instead wrote a series of simple and charming stories, embodying in the most skillful manner the facts she wished to communicate. As these are accompanied by a profusion of excellent pictures, the books are certain to interest all young readers. They will be welcome in the home circle no less than in the school-room.
— Albany Argus.

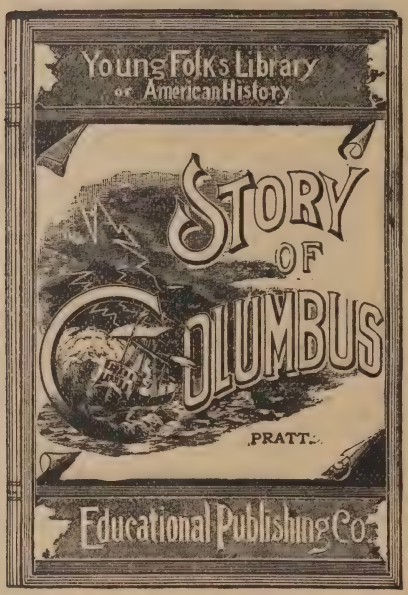
Brown University, Providence, R. I.

I have examined Mrs. M. A. B. Kelly's "Leaves from Nature's Story-Book," Vol. III. and it makes a very favorable impression upon me, as it does upon my little girl of twelve years. It is an interesting and attractive book for children and will lead them to observe more closely the common objects of the sea-shore, of ponds and streams, and of the woods. The illustrations are in general fresh and excellent, and the type clear. I can without hesitation warmly recommend its use as a reading book in schools.

A. S. Packard.



The Story of Columbus.

By MARA L. PRATT.

Fully Illustrated. Boards. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

This is especially interesting at this period of anniversaries. Miss Pratt in selecting her materials, has wisely discarded all speculations which have no bearing on the events with which Columbus is associated, but has made the most of what everyone is interested in knowing, and her book will not only entertain the reader, but provide information which should be in everyone's possession. The story of the first voyage is told in graphic language, and the landing and subsequent events are minutely described and as faithfully as if by an eye witness.

EDUCATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.: —

I most heartily approve the Geographical Historical and Science Readers published by your company, as valuable aids in the advanced educational methods being used in our best schools.

A. G. LANE, Supt.,
Chicago, Ill.

Young Folks' Library of American History.

By MARA L. PRATT.

Vol. I. Cortes and Montezuma.

Illustrated. Price, 30 cents.

This is the first of the series of American Biographies by this most successful author. In a rapidly moving panorama, Miss Pratt vividly pictures the stirring events of one of the most interesting and romantic periods in the History of America. The children's sympathies will be enlisted in the story from the beginning, while a rare map of the great Mexic city, with appropriate illustrations throughout the book, will make real to them the civilization, the struggles and final fall of these old Aztec heroes.

Vol. II. Pizarro; or the Conquest of Peru.

Illustrated. Boards. Price, 30 cents.

No boy, or girl either, but will be delighted with the stirring way in which the adventures of this brave man are told. The illustrations are well chosen throughout, and the book is calculated to awaken a rousing enthusiasm for the better nature of this wonderful conqueror of Peru.

Vol. III. The Great West.

Illustrated. Boards. Price, 30 cents.

This gives the stories of the early discoveries and settlements by the adventurous western pioneers, detailing the French, Spanish and English explorations with later American settlements from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Vol. IV. Stories of Massachusetts.

By MARA L. PRATT and A. T. LOVERING. Boards. Fully Illustrated. 348 pages. Price, 60 cents.

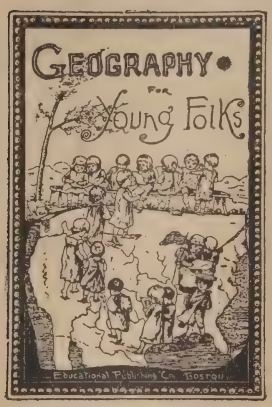
It matters not where you live in the Union, be it in California or Maine, all are interested in Massachusetts. Among the first of the colonies to be settled, its history is individually connected with that of every State in the Union. Every one ought to be famlliar with the stories of the early settlement of this important State. The authors have gathered from every nook and corner of the State and have made a book not only rich in historical lore, but instructive and entertaining on every page.

GEOGRAPHY.

Geography for Young Folks.

Fully Illus. Boards. Price, 30 cents.

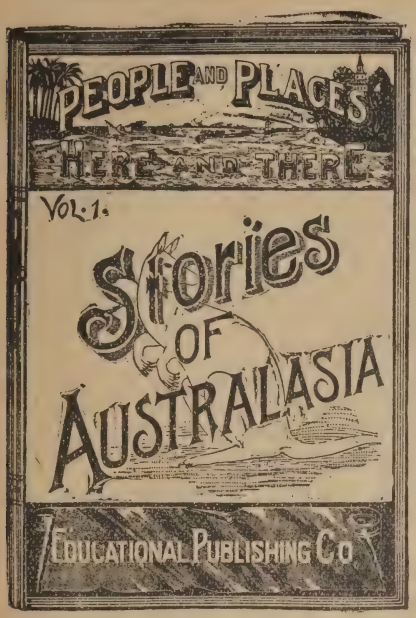


The object of this little book is to give to the young pupil every possible aid in obtaining a clear comprehension of the fundamental principles of this important study. In carrying out the scheme several novel features have been introduced. The pupil is taught to recognize the cardinal points, direction, etc., by means of natural phenomena; each step being made clear, interesting, and easy to be understood. The second section deals with maps. Beginning with some familiar illustrations in perspective, the pupil is first shown the difference between a picture of an object, and a plan of the same object. Other illustrations follow; and thus the pupil is prepared to comprehend the upbuilding of a map, which is graphically shown by a series of pictures and diagrams.

Our Fatherland.

Cloth. Price, 50 cents.

By Elvira Carver, author of "How to Teach Geography," and Mara L. Pratt; profusely illustrated and embellished with colored maps, showing the early settlements, struggles and gradual development of the country, its waterways, its railroads, its resources and its great commerce. Just the book to interest children in the study of Geography.



Vol. I. Stories of Australasia.

Fully Illus. Bds. 40 cents.

In this series, designed primarily for supplementary reading in schools, the plan has been to prepare books which shall have all the charm and interest attaching to volumes of travels written by the travelers themselves. Statistical geography is not present obtrusively, and what is given is just what the traveler would naturally see were he to visit the lands described. The author sees for the stay-at-home traveler, and tells the story in a delightfully unconventional manner. Every volume is profusely illustrated and finely printed in large, clear type, on super-calendered paper.

It is a valuable addition to the supplementary reading matter of our middle grades, being attractive in manner and valuable in information.

A. T. BRIGHT, County Supt. Schools, Chicago.

Fully Illus. Bds. 40 cents.

Vol. III. Stories of China.

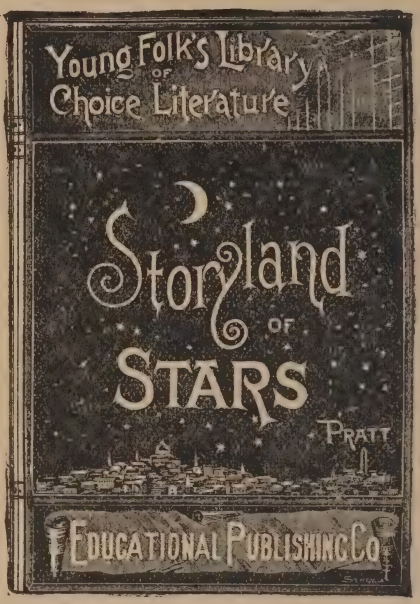
Botany and Astronomy.



Little Flower Folks, or Stories from Flower-Land.

By MARA L. PRATT. Boards. Vols. I. and II. Price, 30 cents each.

There is in little children an innate love for flowers. No one so enthusiastically welcomes the springtime as do the children — no one else has time to welcome it, to no one else is it all so new and beautiful. Then why not nourish and cultivate this taste of the child for the flower-world? Is it not as elevating, as worthy, as refining to the taste as dogs and cats, mice and men, to which the ordinary reading book so sedulously caters? Fully illustrated.

Astronomy.

Storyland of Stars.

By MARA L. PRATT. Illustrated. Boards. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

The little nursery rhyme, "Twinkle, twinkle, little star!" has an unfailing attraction for children, and many parents and teachers find it difficult to put into suitable language an answer to "How I wonder what you are!" This little book gives an inexhaustible fund of instructive narrative to draw upon, wearing the dry details of astronomy with the mythological "fairy tales" of the sky, and making a charming "storyland" of this most interesting study of the heavens.

YOUNG FOLKS' LIBRARY OF CHOICE LITERATURE.

For Third Year Pupils.

Grimm's Fairy Tales.

Vol. I. Illus. Bds. Price, 40 Cents.

Miss Pratt has wisely chosen to edit these famous stories, re-writing some of them, making them in language suitable for readers in the lowest grades of schools, at the same time she has not taken from the stories one whit of their charm, or destroyed one particle of their aroma. They have been put into a form which renders them usable by the children themselves. For supplementary reading they will appeal strongly to the mind of every boy and girl, and their influence will be helpful in developing the reading faculty by giving the children something to read which intensely interests them. The first volume contains nine of the tales and is fully illustrated with new and charmingly made pictures.

For Second Year Pupils.

Æsop's Fables.

In large Size Type. Illus. Bds. Price, 30 Cents.

All down the centuries it has been proved that both boys and girls join interest in stories of animals, especially the animals of fable lore.

Stories from Shakespeare.

By MARA L. PRATT. Vol. I. and II., Illus., Cloth. Price, each, 50 cents.

These stories are just what have long been wanted in the advanced grades of our public schools for supplementary reading. The selections left intact are the choicest and most familiar passages from Shakespeare.

We are using your "Stories from Shakespeare" in one of our English classes. The combination of narrative and text is well adapted to enlist the interest, even of comparatively young readers, and retain as well the integrity of the drama. The collection deserves a place among the valuable aids now offered to the immediate study of the great authors of style.

HENRY J. STEPHENS,
Principal Illinois Academy, Morgan Park, Cook Co.

Have used the little volume with my Seventh Grade Class with gratifying results.

META WELLERS,
Keith School, Chicago.

Pictures from English Literature.

By SARA A. HAMLIN, Dean Academy, Franklin, Mass. Illustrated with half-tone Engravings. Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

The object of the author has been to make the grand old English masterpieces fresh and attractive, so that young people may be induced to read them. To this end, she has arranged a series of mental pictures; and, after captivating the attention by describing some bright and beautiful scene, she tells, in clear and simple language, the story from which it is taken.

The book has been specially prepared for supplementary reading in Grammar Schools and in the younger classes of High Schools; and is intended to arouse an interest in these "dry books," as they are so often called. Care has been taken to select the most striking and beautiful extracts, many of which may be committed to memory.

For the School Library.

Stories from Animal Land.

By ANNIE E. CHASE. Small qto. Illustrated. Price, 50 cents.

A dainty collection of stories of the "home life" of animals, birds, insects, etc., expressly compiled for inculcating in children a sense of humanity towards, and loving care for the helpless creatures dependent on their benevolence. Every teacher will be charmed with its usefulness, for it is just the book that children will "take to."

Primary Manual Training.

METHODS IN FORM STUDY, CLAY, PAPER AND COLOR WORK.

By CAROLINE F. CUTLER, Special Instructor in Manual Training to the Primary Teachers of Boston.

☞ Unanimously Adopted by the School Committee of Boston.

Cloth. Fully Illustrated. Price, 75 cents.

This is a practical book by a practical teacher. It treats of clay-modeling, gives instructions how to prepare the clay with designs for figures, how to make lines, and how to transform a smooth to a rough surface It describes paper-folding, and gives directions for making figures by folding the paper. It devotes a few pages to stick-laying. But whether it be clay-modeling, or paper folding, or stick-laying, the child is led to reproduce with pencil and paper the form that has assumed shape under his eyes. The gradual development of the lesson from folding paper to free-hand drawing must be of great value. It is just the book for every primary teacher.—Indiana School Journal.

Every primary teacher who sees this book will fall in love with it. Fingers will itch to handle moist clay, and as for card-board, manilla paper, tooth-picks, peas, and pins; elves, fairies, and brownies, never were they half so fascinating and joy-bringing as they are by its help.—Learner and Teacher, N. Y.

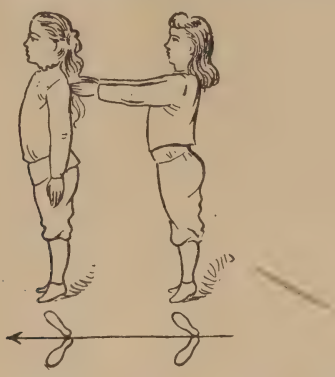
Manual of the Swedish System of Educational Gymnastics.

A Practical Hand-book, for Teachers. By HARTVIG NISSEN. Cloth. Fully Illustrated. Price, 75 cents.

Adopted by the City of Boston.



"This book is essentially elementary. It begins with the beginning and goes only so far that one wishes it had gone farther. If the writer has erred it is in being even too minute and explicit; at least this would be the criticism of a layman; but teachers, who are every day being met with just such simple questions as those here answered, will welcome the book as a great aid in establishing many of the underlying principles of all gymnastics.

"Swedish gymnastics has come into prominence in this country within a very few years, through the efforts of a few people; but short as has been its existence here, it is evident that the system, as a system, has come to stay. It is founded on more scientific principles, is more thoroughly progressive in its methods, is safer — in that it practically eliminates the dangers of over-exertion common to some of the other combinations of muscular movements — and lastly, can be better applied in the school-room than any other system known to the writer."

E. HITCHCOCK, JR., Cornell University.— in Educational Review.

Educational Journals.

Popular Educator.

Published Monthly; September to June inclusive. Price, $1.00 per year.

The phenomenal success which this journal has attained in its five years of existence proves conclusively that it has met the needs of the teachers. It has aimed to reach the school-room by a direct route; to deal generously with teachers in quantity and quality of the best material that could be procured from leading educators. This magazine has given a greater variety of fresh, contributed matter on every subject connected with school-work, than any other in the country. The management have believed that the teachers would appreciate practical help in a practical way and have shown their faith by their works. The confidence has not been misplaced and the teachers in all grades and localities have felt the sympathy of this paper and have responded with excellent contributed matter, a reciprocal kindly feeling and a generous subscription list.

THE COMING YEAR

will see the conditions by which this paper has reached its present support practically unchanged. A new editor in the chair only means that the increasing demands of the publishing department have made it necessary to share the work with other hands.

The intent, spirit, and management of this paper, under the editorial charge of Mrs. Eva D. Kellogg, a practical teacher of long experience in every phase of school work, will not be essentially changed. She will bring to her work the sympathy of a fellow-teacher, and a practical knowledge of the needs of the school-room that will continue to call out the same co-operation that has been highly appreciated by us in the past.

Owing to the establishment of a new primary journal the POPULAR EDUCATOR will be devoted, in the future, more particularly to the interests of the higher grades than heretofore. The primary matter for the youngest children will naturally find its place in the primary issue. The large number of teachers in ungraded schools with children of all ages will feel the need of both these publications, and it is hoped that these two combined will form a complete whole for the benefit and inspiration of the large army of teachers.

Primary Education.

A Monthly Journal for Primary Teachers. Published from September to June inclusive. $1.00 per year.

The increasing demands on primary teachers for special training in their work and the great variety of helps needed to meet these demands, have led to the establishment of this magazine. It will be first and always the teachers' friend. Independent in spirit, and impartial in opinion it will discuss the leading questions concerning primary education, with the single purpose to assist the teacher, by presenting both sides of a question, trusting to her sense of justice and right to discover the truth. The best methods for primary work will be given each month with the so dear to the heart of the primary teacher. The general culture of the teacher outside of the school-room has not been lost sight of, and the readers of PRIMARY EDUCATION will find evidences all through the paper that everything which can conduce to their benefit individually or in relation to their school-room work is ever in the thought of the Editor. Its make-up is unconventional; its department headings unique, and the freshness of the paper in matter and style must be apparent to all who turn its pages. Mrs. Kellogg has charge of both this and the POPULAR EDUCATOR, thus having an all-around interest in the whole educational field and seeing all sides better from a common interest in all.

The primary teachers in this country need a place to meet for social, and professional benefit. The need of the sympathy that can come only from fellow-workers who are striving for the same object, is well known to all. PRIMARY EDUCATION is meant to supply just this need of a meeting place for mutual benefit, and a hearty welcome awaits all who will come.

CROTHERS (Rev. Samuel McChord). "Members of One Body." Six Sermons preached at Unity Church, St. Paul, Minn. 132 pages. Cloth, 75 cents. Paper, 50 cents.

In the whole list of Liberal Religious books, past and present, it would be hard to find any series of utterances freer with the true freedom—more ingenuous, more appreciative, more prophetic of the unity that is to be, more religiously "satisfying"—than Mr. Crothers gives us in these six discourses. The outline alone, which each chapter contains, of the stronger, more helpful points in the various schemes of religious thought and life discussed, renders the book invaluable.

In the present booklet we have something stronger and broader than the customary devotional volume: we have the high call to self-reverence and self-reliance, and the sight of Possibility. If every tried heart and tempted soul might have continuously by him or her this little book—it will take up little room lying open on the desk or workbench, and will slip easily into the coat-pocket or workbasket—life would be stronger, and fuller of recognized blissful opportunity, from the moment of the volume's possession and first use. It should be a gift to many a young man and young woman, from any one interested in them, as an inspiring "companion" till its high incentive becomes a part of the self of every possessor of it.

"Rarely does one find a little volume so full of helpful and precious words. Devotional in spirit and uplifting in aim."—Christian Inquirer.

The "idea" in this remarkable book may be best briefly stated by combining a saying of Keshub Chunder Sen, the Brahmo leader, with a sentence or two from the author's Introduction: "Was not Jesus Christ an Asiatic? He and his disciples were Asiatics, and all the agencies primarily employed for the propagation of the gospel were Asiatic. In fact, Christianity was founded and developed by Asiatics in Asia. . . . Yet the Christ that has been brought to us in India is an Englishman, with English manners and customs about him and with the temper and spirit of an Englishman in him. Hence it is that the Hindu people shrink back. . . . Go to the rising sun in the East, not to the setting sun in the West, if you wish to see Christ in the plenitude of his glory and in the fulness and freshness of the primitive dispensation. In England and Europe we find apostolical Christianity almost gone; there we find the life of Christ formulated into lifeless forms and antiquated symbols. . . . Look at this picture and that: this is the Christ of the East, and that of the West. When we speak of the Western Christ, we speak of the incarnation of theology, formalism, ethical and physical force. When we speak of an Eastern Christ, we speak of the incarnation of unbounded love and grace."

PRESS NOTICES:

The existence of this book is a phenomenon; more than a curiosity; and rich as a new, fresh, and very suggestive study of the character and person of Christ.—Christian Union.

It is a stroke of genius. It contains a whole philosophy of Christianity. Jesus was an Oriental. He is only to be rightly interpreted by the Oriental mind. This fascinating book comes as a revelation of essential Christianity.—The Critic.

TALBOT (George Foster). Jesus: His Opinions and Character. The New Testament Studies of a Layman. 471 pages. Cloth, $1.50.

"Much time and profound study have been needed for the thoughtful work entitled 'Jesus: His Opinions and Character. The New Testament Studies of a Layman.' Whoever the layman may be, he is one accustomed to dealing with evidence, which he treats in a lawyer-like fashion, and in a peculiarly direct and simple style. While his conclusions will be classed by many as rationalistic, in that they make Jesus simply a great moral teacher, and set aside as fabulous much of the Scripture on which theological dogmas have been based, the tone of the volume is still reverent and high. There is neither the sentimentality nor the adulation of Renan and his school, as if dethroned Deity were to be appeased by compliments; nor is there the unnecessary sneer, the offensive irreverence of another school. The writer is one of that great sect of 'seekers' the nineteenth century furnishes,—eager for truth, and accepting its highest teachings everywhere. He deserves respect as an honest and earnest thinker. The volume is handsome and substantial, and there is a careful table of contents."— The Continent, Philadelphia.

THE LITERARY DIGEST.

"The Literary Digest" is a Weekly Compendium of the Contemporaneous Thought of the World.

It is called "The Prince of the Weeklies." It is found by its subscribers to be indispensable as enabling them to keep abreast of the times in all departments of knowledge.

It is a necessity for all who have neither the time to read all the best periodicals of the world, nor the money to spare to purchase them.

"The Literary Digest" tells what thousands of men, many of whose views may differ from yours, are thinking about; it opens for its subscribers windows from which they behold the great intellectual movements of the world.

It selects, condenses, translates, each week, the best articles in all departments of knowledge from the leading magazines, journals, and reviews of the world.

It also gives, each week, several pages of minor digests or summaries of articles of interest and importance in the current literature of the world, for which space can not be given for complete digests. These briefer digests are also of especial value, being prepared from a careful reading of each paper with a view to giving the author's leading point or conclusion.

Its Book Reviews form a valuable feature of its contents.

Its Cosmopolitan Chronicle of Current Events, and its Summary of Periodical Literature, each week, can be cut out and filed for ready reference at any time.

Its carefully selected and classified Extracts, each week, from the Press of the United States and Europe, on all Vital Topics of the day, are alone worth the subscription price for a year.

In order to increase the value of "The Literary Digest" as a repository of contemporaneous thought and opinion, every subscriber will be furnished with a complete and minute Index at the end of each volume.

Subscription, one year, $3; per copy, 10 cents.

The Bound Vols. II., III., IV., V., VI. of "The Literary Digest," each for Six Months, with Index of Authors, a Classified Index of Subjects, and a List of Periodicals Represented, an Index to the Book Reviews, and an Index to the Newspaper Press Digests, are ready. Cloth, 3,725 pp. Price, per vol., $4, carriage free.

Professor George H. Schodde, University, Columbus, Ohio, says:

"One of the characteristics of the articles selected is their permanent value."

A. P. Peabody, D.D., LL.D., Cambridge, Mass., writes:

"'The Literary Digest' will be of more substantial value to men who are both reading and working men than any other existing periodical."

Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls:

"Will abolish provincialism in letters and enlarge the boundaries of intelligence."

It is a work of great beauty. It tells a story of intense interest, which never flags for a moment; its descriptions are drawn by the hand of a master, with the eye of a poet, and the familiarity of an expert with the objects described; its tone is so lofty that there is nothing with which to compare it but the New Testament; it is full of variety, now picturesque, now pathetic, now rising into the noblest realms of thought and aspiration; it finds language penetrating, fluent, elevated, impassioned, musical always, to clothe its varied thoughts and sentiments. —Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The Encyclopædia of Missions.

A Thesaurus of Facts, Historical, Statistical, Geographical, Ethnological, and Biographical; with Maps, Bibliography, and Statistical Tables. Edited by Rev. EDWIN MUNSELL BLISS, late Assistant Agent American Bible Society for the Levant. Two large vols., 1,354 pp., Cloth, $12.00 net.

"The Encyclopædia of Missions" covers all the important facts touching the numerous missions of all denominations in all lands, and of all peoples, their languages and their surroundings, among whom missions are founded. There are also peculiar features of the work not indicated by the title. Facts concerning numerous heathen nations and the different versions of the Bible used in missions there. Descriptions of heathen countries and the bibliography of missionary research. The work, prepared with abundant ability and diligence, and at an extensive cost, will be invaluable for information and reference for many years to come.—Ex-Judge Enoch L. Fancher, President American Bible Society.

The rise, progress, present condition and promise of Christian missions are among the most stupendous facts of modern times. Nothing can exceed in interest the story and full knowledge of them. I can not understand how any intelligent person can fail to be interested and instructed by knowledge of these facts; but to make that accessible, an Encyclopedia of Missions, carefully and accurately prepared, is indispensable.—U. S. Supreme Court Judge Strong.

Of great help to the better understanding of the momentous movement in the missionary life of the Christian Church.—Bishop John F. Hurst, Washington, D.C.

A valuable addition to the literature of Missions, and invaluable help to every minister.—Professor Patton, President Princeton University.

IT INCLUDES AMONG ITS PROMINENT FEATURES:

The General History and Development of the Missionary Societies of the World.

An account, to date, of over 2,000 Mission Stations of the World. The geographical position and population of each makes this work a valuable Missionary Gazetteer. In addition to this, the societies at work in them and statistics sufficient to indicate the degree of their success, makes this feature of the Encyclopædia a real Thesaurus of information.

The History, Ethnology, Geography, Political Conditions, etc., as specially relating to Mission Work of the different countries where Mission Work is carried on.

Valuable Information concerning the Mental and Moral Characteristics, as well as the Social Environments, Religious Tendencies, etc., of Each Race Reached by Missionary Enterprise.

Particulars regarding Home Missions, City Missions, Sunday-school Work, Young Men's Christian Associations, etc., etc.

An account of over 300 Versions of the Bible, with Specimen Verses.

Biographical Sketches of Prominent Missionaries. This feature is of great value, showing as the sketches do, the experiences, characters, and methods of the most successful workers.

Elaborate Maps especially prepared for the work and which cover all the mission fields of the world, showing the Location of all the Stations.

Special Articles, such as Historical Geography of Missions, Music and Missions, Methods and Organization of Missionary Work.

Valuable Appendices which form an Encyclopædia alone, even though separate and apart from the main work, containing a Bibliography which embraces all books of reference in Missionary Work, and covering every department of Missionary Research; a list of Bible Versions, arranged alphabetically and geographically; a list of Missionary Societies, with the addresses of their Secretaries; a list of Mission Stations with the Societies at work in them, and their location on the maps; also, Statistical Tables of Societies and Countries, showing number of Missionaries, Helpers, Stations, Churches, Schools, Communicants, Expenditures, etc. An indispensable feature to all who have occasion to speak or write on any phase of Christian Missions.

All is followed with a General Index of the entire work, a most valuable ready reference to the mass of intelligence contained in the volumes.

Gunethics.

A Book Devoted to the Social Status of Women. By the President of Wesleyan Female College, Cincinnati, O. 12mo, Frontispiece, 162 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

The argument is candid and cogent, and is well worth a careful perusal.—Episcopal Methodist.

A strong plea for the recognition of women as having equal inheritence, endowment, and dispensation with man in matters of religion.—Boston Home Journal.

In this work woman has a grand defense. Not simply because the author is in fullest sympathy with womankind, but because he shows most plainly that God and his word are emphatically so. The prejudice of heathenism against woman's higher moral and social sphere, lurks in the heart of Christian civilization, and remains as a cruel barrier in the way of her rightful progress. This work will help lift the veil from the heart, and open to woman a freer pathway to the attainment of her higher ambitions in service as well as honor. — Herald of Gospel Liberty.

The Fourfold Gospel,

Consolidated without alteration, being woven into a single continuous narrative, presenting the Life of Christ in the order of its events, arranged in Sections, taken from "The Bible Work," vol. I. N. T. By J. GLENTWORTH BUTLER, D.D. 12mo, 212 pp., with Maps, Index, etc., Cloth, 75 cents.

A marvellous symmetry and completeness is the result of this combination.

Among the half dozen similar attempts to make one Gospel out of the four, there is none that can be compared with this one for exact accuracy in the use of the Text, without adding or omitting; for prolonged and exhaustive study of the whole subject, for distinct reference in every line to the particular Gospel in which it occurs. Dr. Butler spent a whole year in the construction of the text as it now stands, and no one yet has found the first error or flaw in it.

Hundreds of Themes and Texts used in many Prayer-meetings.

There are few men in the country better able to speak helpfully upon this topic than Mr. Clark. His long experience in Christian endeavor work has furnished him the material for a deeply interesting volume.—Golden Rule, Boston.

It is an unusual combination of Christian common-sense, with a broad and also a minute knowledge of the needs, desires, tastes, and feelings of young people.

The training of young converts, and the making of them before they are trained, the place and work of the young people's meeting, the best methods of conducting it, and its relation to the development and power of the Church—these, under various heads, are considered wisely and fully. . . . We commend it heartily. It is especially indispensable to every live minister.—Congregationalist, Boston.

It is a capital book. Every pastor who reads it will find in it some hints of decided value. The topics are treated in a sensible and altogether practical manner, and in a spirit which might be expected of one who has done more perhaps than any other person to help on this exceedingly important new movement. . . . We heartily commend the book, not to pastors alone, but to all who are interested in in this matter.—Advance, Chicago.

The style is terse, vigorous, and pleasant, abounding in sententious maxims, which are well calculated to impress young readers. Delitzsch, Prof. Franz

Commentary on the Prophecies of Isaiah. †

Two volumes, crown 8vo, Cloth, $2.50 per volume.

Almost immediately before his death, Delitzsch issued it in a new edition. The title was changed; instead of a commentary on Isaiah, it read "A Commentary on the Book called Isaiah;" and this difference indicates both the direction and the limit of the alterations. They are connected exclusively with critical questions. He gives up the Isaiahic authorship of ch. xiii., xiv., xx., 1-10, xxiv.-xxvii., and, in an irresolute way, of ch. xl.-lxvi.

These alterations will be pronounced important or unimportant according to the point from which we view them. To Delitzsch himself they were comparatively insignificant. He tells us plainly that "in the Book of Isaiah the influence of criticism upon exegesis is as good as nil." In preparing his latest edition he acted upon this principle. He made no revision of the interpretation answering to the changes in his critical positions. Other scholars see in this the blot upon the last form of his work. Thus Professor A. B. Davidson, of New College, Edinburgh, finds the new book disappointing. "The author," he writes, "hardly seems to perceive the scope of his concessions, and has left his interpretation of the later chapters of Isaiah virtually unchanged, thereby, as we can but think, taking up positions which it is impossible to reconcile with one another." However this may be, the work, as here presented from the third edition, has the merit of consistency.

A Commentary on the Book of Psalms. †

From Latest Edition, Specially Revised and Corrected by the Author. Translated by the REV. DAVID EATON, M.A. In 3 volumes. Crown 8vo, 1,533 pp., Cloth, $2.00 per volume.

The Guardian says: "Of Prof. Delitzsch's new edition it may be fairly said that it is the most complete and trustworthy Commentary on the Psalms which exists. It is the care which this veteran scholar uniformly bestows upon his successive editions that gives them their peculiar excellence."

A Day in Capernaum.

Translated from the Third German Edition by REV. GEORGE H. SCHODDE, PH.D., Professor in Capital University, Columbus, O. 12mo, 166 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

The Description of the localities as they now appear is based, although not exclusively, on the works of Robinson; their reproduction in their older form is based on the notices scattered in Josephus, the Talmud, and the Midrashim, for which the author was not restricted to those already collected by Reland, Lightfoot, Schwarz, and Neubauer. The illustrations of the times and of the life of the people are in nowise the work of fiction; they are throughout drawn from the oldest Jewish literature.

Dickinson, Ellen E.

New Light on Mormonism.

A Brief and Succinct History of this Stupendous Delusion. With Introduction by the Late THURLOW WEED. 12mo, 270 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The book contains much original matter, the publication and presentation of which appear to me to be highly important. Mrs. Dickinson is a relative of Solomon Spaulding, from whose stolen manuscript "The Book of Mormon" was constructed. She has availed herself of family papers and other sources of information not heretofore used in histories of Mormonism, and produced a narrative of fascinating interest and great historical value. The facts she narrates cut up by the roots both the Josephite and Mormonite form of the "Latter-day Saints." It discusses one of the most burning topics in American current reform. It will aid essentially in eradicating a giant mischief and delusion.—Joseph Cook.

We commend this book.—The Churchman, New York.

We believe this book will do something toward destroying this gigantic evil.—The Standard, Cincinnati.

Can be read with profit by all who are interested in the facts about Mormonism.—The Critic, New York.

Presents in a compact form the history of its origin and development in the light of important facts hitherto unpublished.—Boston Herald.

It is a succinct history of this most wonderful social, political, and religious development of modern times, from its inception to the present time. One of its marked features is the particular and trustworthy account of its origin and early history, never before so accurately given. Another is the interviews had with some of the chief actors concerned in the fraudulent obtaining of Spaulding's MS. from which Joe Smith made the Mormon Bible. These interviews are intensely interesting, and serve to illustrate the spirit of Mormonism in a most vivid light. The author's brief, graphic history does in truth fling "New Light" on this cunningly devised and stupendous system of deception, fraud, and iniquity, which, in the full glare of the nineteenth century, and in spite of all that legal enactment and Christian protest and influence have done, has firmly intrenched itself in our land, and is gathering proselytes by the thousand from every part of the civilized world, and is spreading its blighting influence into several States and Territories of the Union. The book will be sure to attract many readers and deepen the disgust and horror already existing in the public mind in respect to Mormonism.—Western Christian Advocate, Cincinnati.

English Hymns; Their Authors and History.

Large 8vo, 683 pp., Cloth, $3.00 net.

This work cites in alphabetical order the first lines of over 1,500 Hymns. Under each is given a brief biographical sketch of the author, circumstances attending its composition, and incidents in connection with its use. Exhaustive indexes to authors, to first lines, and to topics, are appended. To Leaders of Praise-Meetings, Sunday-school Teachers, Parents, Pastors, and the general hymn-loving public, it will be found invaluable. The selection of hymns has been made with great care, and only well-authenticated incidents are given.

This is by far the most complete, accurate, and thorough work of its kind on either side of the Atlantic.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D.D.

Latin Hymn Writers and their Hymns.

Edited and Completed by REV. R. E. THOMPSON, D.D., of the University of Pennsylvania. A Companion Volume to "English Hymns," etc. Uniform in style and type. Large 8vo, 523 pp., Cloth, $3.00 net.

The bulk of the information gathered in its pages comes from out of the way places, and brings together the cream of valuable matter otherwise widely scattered over the broad field of literature in several different languages.

It is a book which fills a gap hitherto yawning, and lays claim to literary graces that were absent from all previous volumes upon hymnology."—The Independent, New York.

We shall express ourselves inadequately by saying only that it is an admirable book, because, in fact, it is a piece of remarkable, profound, and deep erudition joined to sound literary discretion, and an enlivening imagination. . . . The amount of labor expended on this book has been enormous. The result, for a man far away from the great libraries and sources of learning in Europe, is simply amazing.—The Christian Union, New York.

There is nothing pedantic or bookish about the text. Moved by the spirit of the hymns to know more about the writers, Mr. Duffield did much reading for his own information, and then offered every one the benefit of his work. No one who has sung or read the more prominent Latin hymns, either in the originals or in translations, and perceived their high quality, should fail to read this book.—The New York Herald.

The best temperance story published in many years, if indeed its equal exists. The New King Arthur.

"An Opera Without Music." 12mo, 164 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

Written in the form of a comic opera libretto, and a very bright one at that. Indeed, it is called "an opera without music;" and yet it is so well written that it almost sings itself. If W. S. Final Science; or, Spiritual Materialism.

Being a Strict Application of the Most Approved Modern Scientific Principles to the Solution of the Deepest Problems of the Age. 12mo, 194 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

Agnosticism receives a deadly thrust at the hands of this distinguished writer, who prefers to withhold his name. He writes as a materialist of the most advanced school, and the purpose and scope of the book are to reconcile the established facts of science to his theory of Atheistic Evolution as "The Final Science." He utterly fails in the attempt, but clings to his scientific theory. The lesson is obvious. There is great skill and marked ability displayed.

Without yielding his apparent confidence in his theory, he runs himself at every point into the ground. The satire is well and ably managed.—Zion's Herald, Boston, Mass.

Frances, Mary

Daddy Dave.

A Charming Story of Southern Home Life. 12mo, 116 pp., Paper, 25 cents.

Apart from the character of Daddy, which is drawn with consummate art, and his lingo, which is genuine negro speech, the description in certain scenes, both in point of pathos and humor, are above the average of the general tale writer.—Sunday States, Louisiana.

French, Prof. C. W.

Abraham Lincoln, the Emancipator.

Vol. V. of "American Reformers" Series. 12mo, 398 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

This book deals with the man rather than with the statesman and the President, and seats us in cosy chat at the fireside, while the subject of its pages seems to tell his own story. Hence this life is unique.

This biography of Abraham Lincoln subordinates all environing conditions to their proper functions of presenting the personality of the subject in its true light, but also furnishes one of the most interesting ideals of the true American manhood.—The Southern Star, Atlanta.

Mr. French's enthusiasm is impressively genuine, his judgments of men and events, notably wise and even-tempered. Nor is any fault to be found with him concerning matters of fact; and author and reader will do well to remember that plain truth about Abraham Lincoln has the charm of romance, and almost the uplift of revelation. — Times, Boston.

The Key to the Gospels; or, Why Four Gospels?

New Edition. 12mo, 348 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

PARTIAL OUTLINE OF CONTENTS.

Questions and the Proposed Answers.
Purpose of God and the Gospel.
Matthew, the Gospel for the Jew.
Mark, the Gospel for the Roman.
Luke, the Gospel for the Greek.
John, the Gospel for the Church.
Gospel for all the World.

Many reasons have been given for the existence of four Gospels, instead of more or less, and many explanations of the apparent differences and discrepancies have been offered. The aim of this work is to show the historic origin and design of the Gospels, and to show that this furnishes the key to their correct and full understanding.

It is a master-work upon its special theme. It is the only complete and conclusive exposition of the distinctive characteristics of the Gospel writings and their writers.—J. Glentworth Butler, D.D.

Wm. Lloyd Garrison: The Abolitionist.

Vol. VII. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 406 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

The career of the great apostle of immediate and unconditional emancipation is here traced by a competent and distinguished son of the race he gave his life to free. In this book the tumultuous story of the Anti-slavery reform is traced from beginning to end.

The story is thrilling, and serves to remind us that the "higher education" needed to elevate a people and wean them from ignoble pursuits is to be found in the study of such noble examples of manhood as is afforded by the life of Garrison.—Journal, Indianapolis, Ind.

The author has addressed himself to the work with admirable intelligence and sympathy, and the result is a volume which will be welcomed in the home library, and to circulating and Sunday-school libraries.—The Chicago Evening Herald.

An excellent portrait of an always interesting statesman.—Brooklyn Times.

The book is well calculated to fire the spirit of patriotism in the youth of our country by holding up for their study an American, who, recognizing the evil of his times, became through the exercise of lofty principle, by his self-abnegation and inflexible purpose, largely instrumental in overthrowing it.—Boston Times.

Sweet Cicely;

Or Josiah Allen as a Politician. A Fascinating Story. Square 12mo, 390 pp., Cloth, $2.00.

The interest of the book is intense. . . . Never was such a defender of woman's rights, never such an exponent of woman's wrongs! In Samantha's pithy, pointed, scornful utterances we have in very truth the expression of feelings common to most thoughtful women, well understood among them, but rarely finding voice except in confidential intercourses and for sympathetic ears. Other women besides poor Cicely, and warm-hearted, clear-headed Samantha, and "humble" Dorlesky, eat their hearts out over the injustice of laws that they have no hand in making, and can have no hand in altering, though ruin and agony are their result. . . . It would be impossible to find in literature anything more pitiful than this story of the struggle of a gentle-natured woman against the dangers which surround her child, and her agony as she realizes her helplessness to avert evil from her fellow-sufferers. If it were not for the strong vein of humor which lightens up the darkest passages, the interest would be too painful. But Samantha intervenes with her quaint epigrams and keen-witted analysis, and lo, a smile broadens before the tear has dried! . . . Alongside of the fun are genuine eloquence and profound pathos; we scarcely know which is the more delightful.—The Literary World, London, Eng.

Analysis of a Sermon.

Rhetoric as Applied to Preaching.

Style.

Dr. Hoppin was a pupil of the celebrated Neander, and has studied theology at Andover and Berlin. His style is copious without being verbose. It is graceful, pure, and finished, yet free enough to permit him to interject his opinions now and then with refreshing abruptness. Every kind of sermon is described and analyzed. The principles of composition and rhetoric, as applied to the sermons, are laid down and illustrated. Even the all-important topic of invention is discussed, and every possible source from which aid can be sought to develop and assist the preacher's inventive ingenuity is opened to him. As to pulpit style, no one has written more wisely or with more caustic wit.—The Independent, New York.

Jesus in the Vedas.

The Testimony of Hindu Scriptures in Corroboration of the Rudiments of Christian Doctrine. By a Native Indian Missionary, author of "A History of Hindu Civilization, as Illustrated in the Vedas and Their Appendages;" "A Peep into the Vedic Age;" "The Indo-Aryans, Their History, Creed, and Practice," etc. 12mo, 61 pp., Leatherette, 35 cents.

It is a work that ought to be in the hands of every minister of the Gospel. It is a most suggestive and able contribution to the history of comparative religions. It is written to prove that the doctrine of the vicarious sacrifice of the Son of God for the sin of the world is to be found in the most ancient hymn-books of the Hindus, and to our mind proves it conclusively. The style of the book is clear; its matter interesting. We can imagine no more powerful argument for the use of those who are engaged in the work of giving the Gospel to the millions of India, or of those who are called upon to show the fallacies of the claims of the faith of the Vedas, as against the truths of the Bible.—The Missionary Review of the World.

Johnson, Franklin

The New Psychic Studies.

In their Relations to Christian Thought. 12mo, 91 pp., 75 cents.

What are called Psychic studies now engage the attention of many distinguished minds—some in this country, and more in England. These stories relate to what is commonly known as thought-transference, somnambulism, mesmerism, clairvoyance, spiritualism, apparition of the living, haunted houses, ghosts, and Buddhistic occultism. Many of the phenomena which these scientists are investigating lie in the dim borderland between the spirit and the body. The researches, here carefully noted, have been chiefly carried on under the direction of the British "Society of Psychical Research." In this small volume is presented a great mass of interesting facts, which are made the basis of some important theories and conclusions worth the careful study of the believers in Christianity, as well as of skeptics.

Pulpit Trees and Homiletic Undergrowth.

Being Discourses, Sermonic Saplings, Outlines, and Germs. 12mo, 336 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

Though composed of pulpit matter, this is a book quite out of the common order, and will be sure to be appreciated by preachers and students of the Word. It handles a number of texts that are seldom used in the pulpit, and it does it in a masterly, suggestive, and original way.

The owner of this theological grove we suppose to be a minister in Philadelphia. On walking through it we counted nineteen "pulpit trees," and found them all named. . . . On the whole, our walk was so pleasant that we can commend the grove to others as a very pleasant retreat, where they will find much to admire, and be likely to come away refreshed and invigorated.—Messiah's Herald, Boston.

Church History.

Translated and Edited from the Latest Edition, by Rev. JOHN MACPHERSON, M.A., and Specially Revised by the Author. In 3 vols. 12mo, 1,650 pp., Cloth, $2.00 per vol.

"Kurtz's Church History" is a work of high scholarship, thorough grasp of details, and especially adapted as a text-book for historical students.—Prof. Henry A. Buttz, D.D., Pres. Drew Theological Seminary.

It is a shame that the English translation of Kurtz, which was made from the second edition, is still used as a text-book, although the author has long since not only doubled its size, but so entirely reconstructed the whole as to make the older editions useless and mischievous.—Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff.

Laidlaw, John, D.D.

The Miracles of Our Lord.

Crown 8vo, 384 pp., Cloth, $1.75.

The aim is entirely expository and didactic. The apologetic questions are assumed to have been sufficiently dealt with by other writers. Even within the range chosen, the aim has been necessarily restricted. For full and exact exegesis of the narratives as part of the Gospel record it is always needful to refer to the increasingly rich body of New Testament comment. All that is sought here is to set each incident in the light of the best exposition. For the spiritual lessons, again, the plan followed is not to collect the entire uses which might be made of each narrative. This would have given a mere outline of homiletic hints, which does not seem a very profitable task, however carefully done. The attempt made is to indicate, under most of the miracles, some one line of spiritual application, and so give an actual instance of their pulpit use. But the method followed is not invariable; a certain liberty of treatment is claimed.—From the Preface.

Biblical Lights and Side-Lights;

Or, Ten Thousand Biblical Illustrations, with Thirty Thousand Cross-References, consisting of Facts, Incidents, and Remarkable Statements for the use of Public Speakers and Teachers; and also for those in every Profession who for Illustrative Purposes desire ready access to the Numerous and Interesting Narratives contained in the Bible. 8vo, 638 pp.: Cloth, $4.00; Sheep, $5.50.

Other books are designed to illustrate the Bible. This reverses the order, and furnishes illustrations from the Bible for every purpose. It meets a want which the concordance cannot supply, because the latter is limited in its references to the words in which the Bible is printed.

This work takes topics, such as "ambition," "amusement," and draws from the Bible illustrations and reference applicable to such topics. It is very comprehensive, and is valuable as an aid to centralizing thought.—The Christian Intelligencer, New York.

Historical Lights;

Or, Six Thousand Historical Extracts, Illustrating Thirty Thousand Topics. Especially arranged for Ministers, Lecturers, Public Speakers, Writers for the Press, Lawyers, and all who have Occasion to use Illustrations drawn from Historical Literature. Compiled by Rev. CHARLES E. LITTLE, author of "Biblical Lights and Side-Lights." 8vo, 964 pp.: Cloth, $5.00; Sheep, $6.50.

These lights are a galaxy of quotations taken exclusively from standard histories and biographies. All are arranged in alphabetical order under suitable topics, and each, complete in itself, refers the reader to the author and chapter quoted. They consist of facts, incidents, examples, and precedents selected for illustrative purposes, and chiefly from the histories of the civilized races of antiquity and the American and English people. The subjects relate to religious, social, and political life—to moral and civil government. The book has a general cross-reference index, also an index of personal names. The book is unique in design and admirable for convenience and utility. The historian's name is appended to every quotation. There are no fugitive anecdotes in the work.

I read it with profit and delight. It will be of great service to all public speakers who know how to add illustrations to arguments. There are admirable materials in it for the feathers of a million arrows.—Joseph Cook.

Such a wealth of material as this work contains makes it one of the most useful collections of information that I have ever seen. It is altogether the best historical reference book ever published. It is an intelligent collection of authorities such as a student might have made in the course of twenty years, if he had once a day found an item which he regarded as of value. The indices are particularly commendable, and the system of cross-reference is as useful as it is novel. It seems to me that the book will be essential for reference to every scholar and in every library.—Abram S. Hewitt.

McConkey, Rebecca

The Hero of Cowpens.

A Centennial Sketch. Revised Edition. 12mo, 295 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

I have read this book with very great interest. It gave me a clearer insight into the battle of Cowpens than anything I had read before, and a clearer view of the perfidy of Arnold than anything I had yet seen. The whole book interested me.—U. S. Grant.

Martyn, Carlos, D.D.

John B. Gough: The Apostle of Cold Water.

Vol. —— of "American Reformers" Series. Mr. MARTYN here does for Mr. Gough what he does for Mr. Phillips and Mr. Dodge—shows us the Man. The book is bright and interesting to a remarkable degree, with not one dull page, not a single sleepy sentence in it. With Portrait. 12mo, —— pp., Cloth, $1.50. (In Press.)

Wendell Phillips: The Agitator.

Vol. I. of "American Reformers" Series. Mr. MARTYN, who knew the Great Orator personally, has given a Complete Analysis of his Services to Mankind, and of his style as a Speaker, together with an intensely interesting mass of Anecdotal and Illustrative Matter. In the Volume is included in full, in an Appendix, three of Mr. Phillips' Masterpieces of Eloquence, which have never before been issued in Book Form. With Portrait. 12mo, 600 pp., Cloth Binding, with Frontispiece, $1.50.

Such a book ought to kindle every manly heart into a fresh endeavor of devotion to all noble endeavors for his his country and his fellowmen.—Bishop Henry C. Potter, New York.

The literary tone and quality of the book are worthy of the subject. But the psychology is wonderful. I turned the pages for a description of Wendell Phillips, and was startled to meet the man face to face.—James Russell Lowell (shortly before his death).

William E. Dodge: The Christian Merchant.

Vol. III. of "American Reformers" Series. Though a Prince of Trade, Wm. E. Dodge found time for a thousand interests outside of his Counting-room; and these, instead of interfering with his business, worked into and tempered it. Thus he was as Eminent as a Planter of Schools, Founder of Churches, Patron of Colleges, Helper of Men, and Patriot, as he was well known in Commerce. With Portrait. 12mo, 349 pages, Cloth, $1.50.

Sparkling and inviting from beginning to end. . . . Reads like a romance.—Mid-Continent, St. Louis.

To the young just commencing life we recommend the book. It contains lessons of inestimable value, however, for all, old and young. The editor has handled his subject in so able a manner that the reader is entranced, and is carried on and on, until, with a sigh of regret, the book is laid down.—The Chicago Herald.

The Destruction of Gotham.

12mo, 214 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 139.)

This is a most graphic story of the times, showing the conflict between the upper and lower strata of society in New York, ending in a great disaster to the city itself. It is an intensely interesting and powerful story. Joaquin Miller is a writer whose fame is world-wide.

To follow him is like following a keen, swift rider, who rides eagerly, it matters not whither, and who attracts us by a wild grace and beautiful skill as he rushes through scenes of luxuriant loveliness, that would cause a less impetuous horseman to pause and linger.—The London Globe.

Mills, Walter T.

The Science of Politics.

By WALTER THOMAS MILLS, Secretary of the National Inter-Collegiate Association. 12mo, 224 pp.: Paper, 50 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 152.)

This book is an attempt to discover the ways and means by which the common citizen may become an active and effective part of the government under which he lives. It formulates and discusses the underlying principles involved in every conceivable phase of practical politics. It is not a book of day dreams. It deals directly with those daily duties and privileges of worthy citizenship which are of the greatest practical importance. It is not a book of theories divorced from facts, demanding an ideal and impossible social condition for their use. It deals directly with the hard facts of our political history, and never loses sight of the necessary conditions under which men must act if they act together. Its foot-notes are extensive and valuable—establishing that the doctrines here taught are in line with the plain lessons of history and the teachings of great authors on civil government.

Each number of this popular monthly contains eight or ten articles by the foremost writers in the mission world, intelligence and correspondence from all parts of the world-field, several papers in "International" department, monthly concert, survey of all the various fields, editorial discussions, organized mission work of the entire field, and a monthly bulletin of the progress of missions.

Broad in its outlook, hampered by no denominational or national lines, embracing all, it seeks to bind the Brotherhood of Christians together in the one great work of evangelizing the world. It has the cordial endorsement of the leading pastors of all denominations, and of the secretaries of missionary societies in all lands.

The "Missionary Review of the World" has its circulation both in America and England, and is the only complete current review of missionary operations and missionary problems in connection with all Protestant agencies all the world over.—The Rock, London.

The "Missionary Review" is the foremost of missionary magazines. Its articles are full of fire and force, and its editors are not only abreast, but ahead of the church in trumpet-calls to service. The articles of Dr. Pierson are alone worth the price of the magazine many times over. This Review is really in touch with the workers of the mission world, and to read it from month to month is almost equal to a trip around the world of Christian missions.—The Mission Field.

The People's Bible.

Discourses upon Holy Scripture—Expository, Sermonic. Each Volume Complete in Itself. 8vo, Cloth, $1.50 per vol.

The People's Bible is not a commentary in the ordinary sense of the term; it is rather a pastoral exposition, seeking out and applying the spiritual meaning of the Scriptures. In addition to this there is much critical matter collected from the best authorities and made available for ordinary readers. In the People's Bible considerable space is occupied by "Handfuls of Purpose," supplying hints and suggestions upon many unfamiliar texts, which are profitable to preachers and teachers as starting-points for useful lessons. The characteristics of this great work are too well known already to call for repetition. Scholars of eminence and writers of ability have passed favorable judgment upon the work as its successive volumes have appeared. And what is equally pleasant to note, the rank and file of Christian readers are delighted with its freshness and piquancy, and the spiritual, practical element which characterizes its pages.

Dr. Parker's insight, grasp, and power of expression, are of the nature of the poetic gift.—Sunday-School Chronicle.

It (the People's Bible) possesses great homiletic value and strong attractions for home reading.—Western Christian Advocate.

Dr. Parker is the foremost preacher in Europe.—Joseph Cook, D.D.

Dr. Parker has begun a stupendous work in this "People's Bible;" but its accomplishment lies within the possibilities of his fertile mind, should life and health be spared. He condenses wonderfully, and throws a splendor of diction over all that he pours forth. He seems to say all that can be said upon a passage; at times he gives only an outline, and leaves the filling up to the thoughtful reader. One is struck with the singular ability and special originality of Dr. Parker. He is no repeater of old remarks, nor is he a superfluous commentator. He is a man of genius, and whenever he has anything to say he says it in his own striking manner. His track is his own, and the jewels which he lets fall in his progress are from his own caskets; this will give a permanent value to his works, when the productions of copyists will be forgotten.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

MINOR PROPHETS.—By Rev. JAMES WOLFENDALE. 743 pp.

I have examined carefully this "Homiletic Commentary." As a result, I have no hesitation in recording my opinion that the work will be found very useful and helpful to preachers, and especially to those who feel at times severely the strain which the labor of preparation imposes week after week. I wish this work, and the series to which it belongs, all the success it deserves.—Very Rev. R. W. Forrest, Dean of Worcester.

We have critical and explanatory notes, homiletic suggestions, outlines of sermons, and a copious collection of illustrations and telling quotations from many authors. If a preacher cannot find something good to say with such volumes as this on his table, he must be dull indeed; not that he should copy from these pages, but he should be helped and stimulated to think for himself.—Rev. Donald Fraser, D.D.

These outlines are not mere dry suggestions, but are instinct and vivid with life and feeling. It is an invaluable repertory of all the best things.—Christian World.

We have on several occasions called attention to this Commentary, as the several volumes have been issued, and have strongly commended it to our readers, ministerial and lay.—The Record.

Nothing better adapted for usefulness has ever appeared. . . . For all preachers, exhorters, Bible-class leaders, and Sunday-school teachers.—The Baptist Messenger.

The Commentary deserves to rank high. Nothing on the same scale has ever been attempted before. Altogether we have formed a high estimate of this work. It is admirably adapted to serve as aids to preachers, and we cordially recommend it.—The Aberdeen Journal.

It would be useless to attempt giving extracts to show the rich, full varied thoughts, and the anecdotal illustrations. They are to be found everywhere throughout it. This commentary will, we expect, long remain one of the best, if not the best, work for homiletical purposes.—The Leeds Mercury.

It is a commentary much needed, and of great practical use. The suggestions which it contains will awaken thoughts in the preacher who wishes to prepare fresh sermons, and while they furnish him with new ideas, they will not unfrequently increase his confidence in his own ideas, as he will sometimes find them in this Commentary in forms in which he has not met them before.—The Watchman.

Prohibition Bells,

And Songs of the New Crusade. Compiled and Arranged by the Silver Lake Quartette. Second Edition. Fifty-two New and Taking Songs. Paper, 20 cents; Boards, 30 cents; $22.50 per 100.

These bells are not muffled. The fifty-two notes are clear, high, piercing, pulse-quickening, soul-uplifting; yet to the old parties, doubtless, very discordant. The book cannot be but a vade-mecum to every Prohibitionist organization, be it large or small, for a song often wins a vote when an oration fails.

It is the most learned, able, and instructive commentary on that portion of the Scripture.—Prof. Henry Green, Princeton Seminary

It is the best exposition known to me of that section of the Sacred Scriptures. Pusey's Hebrew scholarship was undoubted; his learning was extensive; his acquaintance, particularly with patristic literature, was very large, and his heart was especially devout. His well-known Church views do not obtrude themselves, and alike in his comments on Daniel and the minor prophets, he seems to be on his knees as he studies—seeking only to know God's meaning, and desiring only to do God's will. I have gone through his Daniel chapter by chapter—wondering even more at the reverence than at the learning of the expositor.—William M. Taylor, D.D.

Richter has been called an intellectual Colossus. His faculties are of gigantic mould. He has an intellect vehement, rugged, irresistible, crushing in pieces the hardest problems, piercing the most hidden, and grasping the most distant. He has a fancy literally unexampled for exuberance. It pours its treasures with a lavishness which knows no limit. He, moreover, is a humorist from his inmost soul.—Thomas Carlyle.

Two Important Briefs. Part I. A Brief before the Supreme Court of Indiana, in the case of Mary E. Haggart and Sarah C. Rathwell vs. John H. Stehlin and Geo. Heidt. Part II. A Brief before the Supreme Court of Indiana, on Petition for Rehearing the Same Case. 12mo, 64 pp., Paper, 25 cents each part.

These important pamphlets are among the strongest of recent additions to the literature of the anti-liquor reform. They mark a new departure, block out a new line of battle. They signalize a movement for a judicial as well as legislative attack upon the drink traffic. They indicate that, without for a day relaxing in the effort to secure control of the administrative powers of government, the opponents of the drink traffic will attack the license system through the judicial branch, and submit the license laws to the fire of constitutional interpretation.—John Lloyd Thomas.

As a preacher on practical themes Dr. Robinson has few equals. There is a simplicity in thought and diction, a directness, freshness, and pungency in form and quality that are charming and effective. His sermons are always Scriptural, terse, compact, brief and full of pertinent illustration. As a hymnologist he has earned for himself a first place in the Church of to-day.

Sanborn, Hon. F. B.

Dr. S. G. Howe: The Philanthropist.

Vol. VI. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 370 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

A volume of interest, information, and inspiration.—The Call, San Francisco.

This volume of 370 pages can be marked as among the most interesting and instructive biographies of the year.—The Daily Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

This noble man was the originator of the systematic instruction of the blind in America. Dr. Howe's life, like some of the others in this list, is more exciting and more interesting than any novel, and has this added charm over George Eliot or Wilkie Collins—it is authentic.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

A late number of the "American Reformers" series, edited by Carlos Martyn, is worthily devoted to the great philanthropist, Samuel Gridley Howe. The frontispiece presents the rough-hewn features of Dr. Howe, deeply marked by earnest thought, an index of the character of this thorough-going American. Romance pales its feeble fires before the recital of the plain facts in Howe's adventurous career. . . . Mr. Sanborn writes with spirit and unfeigned sympathy. He has produced a distinguished memorial of a truly remarkable man.—Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

Sanborn, Kate

The Wit of Women.

A Careful and Extensive Collection of the Wit of Women. By KATE SANBORN. Square 12mo, 215 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

In this dainty volume Miss Sanborn triumphantly vindicates the claim of her sex to the possession of a ready wit. One would think that this gift would never have been denied to women by their severest censors. But there are male writers—especially novelists—who, in their portraitures of women, purposely ignore wit and humor, and persist in regarding those as the rarest qualities of the feminine mind. Miss Sanborn proceeds by a series of brilliant and apt quotations from the literary works of women to demolish that hersey. There could be no more complete refutation of this notion than the two hundred pages of this book sparkling with puns, epigrams, repartees, parodies, burlesques, and satires—as bright and keen as the best utterances of the opposite sex. Exquisitely bound.—The Journal of Commerce, New York.

Miss Sanborn's book is full of stored-up electricity. Its play is like that of summer lightning on the clouds, so quick, varied, and irradiant that one is never tired of watching for it.—Frances E. Willard.

This book is really funny. It is rich in fancy, in antithesis, and in brilliant flashes of epigramatic wit and the subtle play of delicate humor.—Demorest's Monthly, New York.

Selected Sermons.

The Greatest Sermons of one of the Greatest of German Preachers. Translated by MARY F. WILSON from the latest Authorized Edition. The volume contains 27 Selected Sermons, and a sketch of Schleiermacher extending over 37 pages. 12mo, 459 pp., $2.00.

As a theologian he ranks among the greatest of all ages. . . . He was a unique combination of mysticism and criticism, of religious feeling and skeptical understanding. . . . He dissected historic documents with the sharpest knife, and sacrificed almost all the miracles of the Gospel history as unessential to faith. Yet he ever held fast to Christ as the greatest fact in history, as the only one sinless and perfect man in whom the Divinity dwelt in its fullness, and from whom saving influences emanate from generation to generation, and from race to race. In this central idea lies Schleiermacher's chief merit in theology and his salutary influence.—Philip Schaff, D.D., in the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopædia of Religious Knowledge.

Shakespeare, William

Plays.

A Photographic Fac-simile of the Famous First Folio Edition of A. D. 1623. Crown 8vo, 427 pp., Cloth, $2.50.

Every curious and important detail exactly reproduced. This book is the only means with which to test Donnelly's Shakespearean Cipher, also his claim that in the plays is concealed an extended secret history. This 1623 edition is also the sole authority for the texts of many of the most important of Shakespeare's plays. It is a rare book, unsurpassed in interest and critical value. As a literary treasure, it is unexcelled.

Sheppard, Nathan

Before an Audience;

Or, The Use of the Will in Public Speaking. Talks to the Students of the University of St. Andrews and the University of Aberdeen. 12mo, 152 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

I shall recommend it to our three schools of elocution. It is capital, familiar, and racy, and profoundly philosophical.—Joseph T. Duryea, D.D.

They are very racy and earnest talks, full of sense, and most delightfully dogmatic. The author knocks to flinders the theories of elocutionists, and opposes all their rules with one simple counsel: "Wake up your will."—The N. Y. Evangelist.

George Eliot's Essays. (See Eliot.)

Saratoga Chips and Carlsbad Wafers.

12mo, 332 pp., Paper, 35 cents.

This unique book is a quaint, crisp, and humorous description of the pursuit of happiness and health at the two great mineral-water resorts of America and Europe. It is pictured from real life. The sketch is graphic and realistic to the first degree. There is a strange mixture of wit, philosophy, and instruction in its pages. It is breezy as the pine-laden atmosphere of our famed Saratoga. The man or the woman in pursuit of health, rest, recreation, can do no wiser thing than to get and read this little book.

A delightfully readable book. . . . Instructive, lively, piquant, public-spirited.—The Saratoga Eagle.

Subjective Character and Forms of Christ's Redemptive Work.
The Last Judgment and its Transactions.
No Probation for Man in the Future Life.
Future of the Universe when Christ shall have Delivered up the Kingdom to the Father.

Dr. Sherwood has an intense sympathy with the person of Christ, and His redemptive work in its broadest relations is his theme. He has carefully studied the existing hindrances of every sort to the progress of that work, and exposes them with incisive directness and force. In his exhibition, both of the positive forms of vital truth and of the obstacles which to-day stand in the way of its effective presentation, there are many weighty and helpful suggestions by which the studies of thoughtful ministers and laymen may be enriched.—J. G. Butler, D.D., author of "Butler's Bible Work."

Memoirs of David Brainerd,

Missionary to the North-American Indians. New and Complete Edition on the Basis of Sereno E. Dwight's (1822). Edited by J. M. SHERWOOD, D.D., with Notes and Introduction on the "Life and Character of Brainerd," by the Editor, and an Essay on "God's Hand in Missions," by A. T. PIERSON, D.D. 12mo, 434 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

This new edition of one of our religious classics is as timely as it is excellent. The notes and introduction by Dr. Sherwood, and the essay by Dr. Pierson, greatly increase its interest and value. I have already urged every member of the class to which I lecture on missions to buy it, and were it in my power, I would put a copy into the hands of every theological student in the land. Few books in our language are so well fitted to inflame the hearts of Christian young men with the zeal for God.—George L. Prentiss, D.D., Professor in Union Theol. Seminary, New York.

Sleight, Mary B.

The Flag on the Mill.

Five Elegant Full-page Drawings. A Most Attractive Book. 12mo, 455 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

It is a healthy sign when a prudent publisher issues a book like the above. The story is simple, pure, and sweet, beautifully illustrating the practical Christian life, and yet sustaining the reader's interest to the end. It is a book which no one need fear to leave within the reach of every member of the household.—The Southern Presbyterian Review.

Smith, Charles Edward

The World Lighted.

A Study of the Apocalypse. 12mo, 218 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

It is the clearest view of the Apocalypse I have ever seen.—Howard Crosby, D.D.

It will virtually add one book to my Bible. The Christian world ought to be very grateful for it.—Rev. A. E. Waffle, A.M., Jamestown.

Compared with any other theories I have met, it is by far the most consistent and satisfactory.—Prof. A. H. Newman, D.D., Toronto.

It is a lucid book. . . . Seems to me very clear, self-consistent, and instructive. I hope every scholar in the land will read it without prejudice. — Pres. Alvah Hovey, D.D., Newton Theol. Sem.

It is fresh in its conception, symmetric in its treatment, luminous in its expression, devout in its spirit, rich in its suggestiveness, uplifting in its tendency. —George Dana Boardman, D.D., Philadelphia.

Smith, Goldwin, D.C.L.

The Moral Crusader: William Lloyd Garrison.

A Biographical Essay, Founded on "The Story of Garrison's Life, Told by his Children." With Portrait. 12mo, 200 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

It presents him as he was, indomitable, persevering, careless of the opinion of others, believing in the one cause to which he was devoted, and fighting on in immovable self-confidence until the day of his triumph came, and slavery was abolished throughout the land. It is a fine illustration of what one determined will, set to carry out one purpose, can accomplish.—The Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

This is a true biographical essay, reconciling character and conduct as presented in the life and history of the aggressive anti-slavery agitator. The work evinces keen, analytical acumen; and is a highly intelligent estimate of the strength and weakness of a man whose motives and actions were not always easy to judge.—The World, New York.

Smyth, Rev. George H.

Little Bessie.

With Portrait. 12mo, 157 pp., Cloth, 50 cents.

This sketch of the beautiful character, the sickness and death of Bessie E. Smyth, a child of ten years, will touch the heart of many a bereaved parent, and we trust also impart to them something of its spirit of submission and trustfulness."—New York Evangelist.

This book is a series of meditations, to state what the Bible, upon a natural and common-sense construction of its language, says about the Heaven to which it so often refers.

The reader will be surprised at the extent of the information which the Bible gives upon this subject when a common-sense construction is given to its language. The book will be found comforting and refreshing to all who are looking in faith for a better country, even a heavenly.—The Methodist Recorder, Pittsburgh.

All subjects—theological, philosophical, biographical, practical, ethical, biblical, ecclesiastical. From all sources—patristic, mediæval, puritanic, modern, foreign, scientific, Welsh. With suggestive and seminal headings, and homiletical and illuminative framework; the whole arranged upon a scientific basis. It is a masterpiece of order and a mine of thought. —Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.

Every chapter and page marks the painstaking and scholarship and orderly methods of the editors. It is the cream of wisdom, the very gems of thought, which have been left as legacies by the wisest men and women, brought side by side and made to bear directly upon the subject under discussion.—Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

It is not a common book of illustrations, but a rare book of choice information. Here we find such a fund of thought-gems, such a massing, analyzing, and orderly arrangement of subjects in the direct line of every biblical and homiletic scholar's study, that by the use of it his work may be greatly simplified.—Christian Intelligencer, New York.

As a guide to what we read, as suggestive of thought, and as affording valuable data on subjects of the highest importance, it will prove a valuable addition to the theological library, and also an equally valuable help in the direction of homiletics. —The Literary Churchman, London.

It is a discourse of remarkable power and maintains the plenary inspiration of the Bible from beginning to end. It will doubtless attain an immense circulation in the attractive form in which it is issued.—Lutheran Observer, Phila.

Thomas Manton, D.D., who died near the close of the seventeenth century, was a voluminous preacher and writer. Methods of Church Work.

Religious, Social, and Financial. A Practical Work for the Clergy and Laity. 8vo, 304 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

It is the outcome of a long and broad experience and observation. It treats the subject in all its varied practical relations, religious, social, and financial.

Standard Dictionary of the English Language, Funk & Wagnalls'

(In Rapid Preparation). Its Points of Superiority : It will Embody Many New Principles in Lexicography ; will Contain Over 2,200 Pages, Large Quarto ; Nearly 5,000 Illustrations Made Especially for it ; Over 280,000 Words ; Nearly 50,000 More Words than in Any Other Dictionary of the Language. It will Contain a Large and Valuable Appendix. Sheep : bound in one vol., $12.00 ; in two vols., $15.00. Prospectus, Sample Pages, Commendations, etc., sent post-paid on receipt of 25 cents.

Among the many features of improvement to be found in the Standard Dictionary over all previous dictionaries are the following :

1. In disputed pronunciations the pronunciations preferred by other leading dictionaries are also indicated in connection with the vocabulary word.
2. Every quotation is located, i. e., volume and page are given.
3. The etymology is placed after the definition.
4. The most common meaning is given first.
5. The work will contain all the words to be found in the latest Worcester, Webster, Stormonth, and Johnson, and nearly 100,000 more words than in any other single-volume dictionary.
6. The Scientific Alphabet of the American Philological Association is used in giving the pronunciation of words.
7. Words that have a special denominational or class meaning are in all cases to be defined by persons representative of the denomination or class to which they belong.

This work bristles with other points of advantage, some of which are, perhaps, of more value and importance to the reader than any of the above.

It has a staff of over 200 editors. These editors are among the best known of American and English scholars; each is an acknowledged authority in his particular sphere of learning. The Dictionory, from beginning to end, will be the work of scholars, and of experts in the different branches of the arts and sciences and in the different trades.

A miracle of condensation and clearness.—Prof. Charles F. Johnson, Trinity College, Hartford.

It will be the completest single-volume Dictionary of the English Language.—J. W. Bashford, President of the Ohio Wesleyan University.

Of the two dictionaries, the revision of Webster and your work, your plan is the better one, and will better meet existing needs. . . . Yours will be the English People's Word Book.—Theo. W. Hunt, Professor of Rhetoric and English Literature at Princeton.

The sheets of your new "Standard Dictionary," so kindly sent me for criticism, I am examining with care, and will report results in a few days. The work is incomparably superior to the new Webster (The International), with which I have been comparing it.—D. S. Gregory, D.D. (formerly President of the Lake Forest University, and Professor of the Mental Sciences in the University of Wooster, Ohio).

W. J. CARSON, Principal Teacher's Training School, London, Canada, writes:

"For some time the teachers of this city have been holding back from selecting a new dictionary until they could examine the sample pages of the Funk & Wagnalls 'Standard Dictionary.' I have now received and examined the sample pages, comparing them from a to abide with the corresponding portion of 'The International Webster' and 'Worcester.' The following is the result: The page of 'The Standard,' is slightly larger than the page of 'The International,' and a good deal larger than the page of 'Worcester.'

The Standard contains about 239 words from a to abide. [The obsoletes, etc., are now removed to GLOSSARY IN APPENDIX, see sample page x.—Editor.]

The International contains about 172 words from a to abide.

The Standard has 17 illustrations from a to abide.

The International has 6 illustrations from a to abide.

Worcester has 4 illustrations from a to abide.

The Illustrations in The Standard are better than the illustrations of either The International or Worcester.

Worcester is out of the race altogether.

The Standard has clearer print than the International and of the same size.

The Standard begins every proper name, and every word compounded from a proper name, and every proper adjective, with a capital letter, and every other word it begins with a small letter.

The International begins every word with a capital letter.

The Standard gives antonyms.

The Standard uses the double hyphen to indicate the parts of compounds ; The International uses no mark for such purpose.

The Standard gives the author, book, chapter, and section or page, from which its quotation. The International gives only the quotation and author.

The definitions in The Standard I consider are better than the definitions in The International.

The first three words I looked for in The International were not in it—one from 'Lully's Psychology,' one from Romanes' 'Origin of the Human Faculty,' one from an article in the Encyclopedia Britannica."

It is the rival of the best dictionaries.—Journal of Education, Boston.

Invaluable to the erudite scholar as well as to those of limited attainments.—The Evening Star, Philadelphia.

Simplicity, accuracy, and thoroughness have been aimed at in this Dictionary.—The School Journal, of New York and Chicago.

The specimen pages we have before us show that the work is far ahead of any dictionary of the English language ever published.—The Daily Sun, San Francisco, Cal.

If the sample pages of the "Standard Dictionary" be any fair gauge of what the entirety is to be, the tongue we speak will have a standard and guide of higher value than it has had since it was spoken. . . . Such a work must be of incalculable value to the English-speaking race, and the volume—granting that it fills its promised scope—will be warmly welcomed by the world, even were its price double that at which it is to be furnished.—The Dispatch, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dr. Talmage's discourses lay hold of my inmost soul. The Lord is with this mighty man of valor. So may he ever be till the campaign closes with victory! I am indeed glad of his voice. It cheers me intensely. He loves the Gospel, and believes in something, which some preachers hardly do. There are those about who use the old labels, but the articles are not the same. May the Lord win armies of souls to Jesus by this man! I am astonished when God blesses me, but somehow I should not be so much surprised if He blessed this man.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Ten Years a Police Court Judge

By JUDGE WIGLITTLE, of a Country Circuit. 12mo, 229 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 122.)

I have now been connected with police courts as clerk and justice for nearly a quarter of a century. While reading the book, "Ten Years a Police Court Judge," I seemed all the time to be reading a graphic story of my own experience and observations, so truthful are its representations of human nature, as seen by the police magistrate. Nothing in the book is overdrawn, and the racy style of the author keeps up the reader's interest from the beginning to the close.—Judge Clark Jilson, of Worcester, Mass.

Through the Prison to the Throne.

Illustrations of Life from the Biography of Joseph. 16mo, 225 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The biography is given with great minuteness in a style both graceful and forcible, and with constant reference to the usefulness of the story as suggestive of practical truth. The practical element is really the strong point of the book. Many of the lessons drawn from the narrative reveal not a little ingenuity and spiritual insight, and yet they are all fairly deducible from the history, and are at once seen to be both natural and impressive.—The Christian Intelligencer, New York

Vincent, Frank, and Lancaster, A. E.

Lady of Cawnpore.

A Novel. 12mo, 420 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

. . . It is not a meditative work for a quiet nook in the summer holidays, but a stirring romance to be read by those who wish to break away from all that is real and visible about them, and to enter another field where they may become so wholly absorbed as to lose all thought of present cares and anxieties.—The Journal of Commerce, New York.

Collaborated novels are not common, nor are they usually successful. In this instance, however, the result is perfectly satisfactory. Mr. Vincent made his mark twenty years ago by his "Land of the White Elephant," and his keen observation and retentive memory, and great knowledge of the Orient, combined with Mr. Lancaster's charming style and brilliancy, have evolved a really picturesque and delightful romance. — The Standard-Union, Brooklyn.

This is a romance highly dramatic and romantic in its incidents, and profoundly interesting in its leading characters. . . . The beauty and attractiveness of the writing is that it is out of all ruts. We will leave our readers to enjoy the story.—The Daily Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

Vincent, Bishop John H.

Wise and dispassionate. . . . The book contains a candid, fair, and, we believe, an unanswerable arraignment of these customs.—The Chautauquan.

Studies in Young Life.

A Series of Word-pictures and Practical Papers. 12mo, 254 pp., Cloth, $1.25.

An attractive and valuable book. . . . A book particularly worth reading.—The Advance, Chicago.

Scientific Sophisms. †

A Review of Current Theories Concerning Atoms, Apes, and Men. 12mo, 302 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 97.)

PARTIAL CONTENTS.

Agnosticism.	Evolution.	Spontaneous Generations.	Agnostic Evolution.	Protoplasm.	Apes.
Material Atheism.	Transmutation.		Physical Basis of Life.	Atoms.	Men.

The sophistical reasoning by which it has been attempted to give some scientific credibility to the doctrines of Darwin and his school is exposed in a trenchant and telling way. He lays his hand at once upon the fallacy and drags it into the light. He fortifies his position with testimony drawn as well from the evolutionist himself as from his opponents. The argument is thus presented in a form to be appreciated by any reader, and is adapted to open the eyes of those who take it for granted that doctrines associated with great names and elaborated in famous books must of course be true.—The Standard, Chicago.

The Book of Revelations.

An Exposition Based on the Principles of Prof. Stuart's Commentary, and Designed to Familiarize those Principles to the Minds of Non-professional Readers. 12mo, 300 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The author names his plan of work as the "common-sense method," and maintains his position throughout the entire book. His arguments and interpretations are to show that the prophecies of the Book of Revelation were given for a practical purpose to those to whom they were addressed; that they were designed to be understood, and that they were, in fact, understood by them in their essential import; also that by the application of well-known canons of interpretation — guides in all languages and fields of literature — the people of to-day may as fully understand and as practically use them for doctrine, reproof, instruction, etc.

Mr. Wilkinson strikes his foe with a smile and a bow, and with true knightly good nature, but his rapier is sharp both at the point and along the edge. As to the historic truth and the wholesome quality of Arnold's poem. . . . His examination is all the better for the excellent spirit in which it is conducted, the good-natured humor and wit it brings into play, and the nice and even playful turn given to many of his hardest hits. — The Independent, New York.

It seems to me that the book will secure the claim of Prof. Wilkinson in the front rank of poets. — The late Dr. Howard Crosby.

"The Epic of Saul" is a noteworthy and praiseworthy poem. Its proportions are fine, its lines show large curves of power.—The Independent.

"The Epic of Saul" is a study of the struggle of Judaism against the innovation of Christianity. By a keen analysis of Hebrew conservatism and of that popular sentiment which would naturally be roused by an unwelcome person of the Messiah, his doctrine, miracles, and mysterious end. Professor Wilkinson has differentiated the thoughts, emotions, perplexities, attitudes, and forms of antagonism which must have been developed in certain prominent men, who, withal, must have represented the several dispositions of temperament in society throughout Jerusalem, soon after the ascension of our Lord and the descent of the Holy Spirit upon his followers. It is the great success of the poem to put the reader in the place of those who opposed the rising and rapidly spreading faith in Jesus, and to unfold a marvellous insight into the reasonings, motives, intrigues, and action of those actually engaged in trying to suppress the new movement; and thus, it helps to form a remarkably vivid conception of the crisis and to gain a deeper understanding of the conflict. Professor Wilkinson's idea and purpose are very happy ones; his verse is never without elegance, beauty, or interest; and it is an uncommon excellence for such an effort to be perfectly true to the physical features both of the Holy City and of the country northward to Damascus. — Prof. John A. Paine.

Analytical Concordance to 8,000 Changes in Revised New Testament.

8vo, 24 pp., Paper, 40 cents.

Analytical Concordance †

To the Bible on an Entirely New Plan. Containing Every Word in Alphabetical Order, arranged under its Hebrew or Greek Original, with the Literal Meaning of each and its Pronunciation. Exhibiting about 311,000 References, Marking 30,000 Various Readings in the New Testament. Designed for the Simplest Reader of the English Bible. Seventh Edition (revised), printed on heavy paper. This is the only authorized edition in America. One large volume, 4to, 1,094 pp.: Cloth, net, $5.00; Tan Sheep, $7.50; Half Morocco, $9.00; Full Morocco, $12.00.

Points of Superiority over Cruden's Concordance.

1. Young's exceed's Cruden's unabridged by over 118,000 references.

2. Young's contains over 70,000 Greek and Hebrew original words—all analytically arranged under their English title. Cruden's has not one—a lack greatly lessening its usefulness to the critical scholar.

3. Young's is analytical in character, giving the various shades of meaning of several related words which in English are represented by one word. Cruden's is synthethical, and makes, as the basis of its parallel reference, the English word only.

Worthy of the lifetime of labor spent upon it.—John Hall, D.D.
By far the most complete concordance in the English or any other language.—Philip Schaff, D.D.
Cruden's Concordance is child's play compared with this gigantic production.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Bible Translation.

The Holy Bible, Consisting of the Old and New Covenants. Translated According to the Letter and Idioms of the Original Languages. A New and Valuable Translation. Octavo, 780 pp., Cloth, net, $4.00. Second Edition Revised.

A translation of the Scriptures would be of invaluable use, that would be an exact counterpart of the Hebrew. In a word, causing the Scriptures to present to the English reader not only the same general meaning, but even the same minute shades of thought and feeling which they present to those familiar with the original tongues. Mr. Young's translation seems to be admirably adapted to meet this want.—Rev. W. G. Blaikie, D.D., F.R.S.E.

The style throughout is strikingly picturesque, and frequently dramatic, while many of the emendations are peculiarly felicitous. Not a few of the arguments usually brought by infidel authors against some of the leading doctrines of our most holy faith are at once answered, simply by the correct rendering of the Hebrew phrases.—Rev. Adam Stuart Muir, D.D., Leith.

Biblical Notes and Queries. †

A General Medium of Communication Regarding Biblical Criticism and Bible Interpretation, Ecclesiastical History, Antiquities, Biography, and Theological Science, Reviews, etc. It Answers Thousands of Questions Constantly Presented to the Minds of Clergymen and Sunday-school Teachers. Royal 8vo, 400 pp., Cloth, $1.75.

Contributions to a New Revision;

Or, a Critical Companion to the New Testament. Square 12mo, 390 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

This valuable work, by this celebrated author, covers an immense ground. It includes the chief renderings of the Revised Version and of suggested emendations. It gives the literal and idiomatic translations, such as differ from the King James' translations, and notes 500 cases where (e. g.) the "Imperfect Tense" in Greek has been neglected by the "Revisers" of 1881.

This work supplies a practical vade mecum to the student of the New Testament, and is so simple and admirable in its arrangement that any intelligent child may digest it.

There is a brief historic and critical introduction to each book in the Bible, stating when, where, and by whom written, with other particulars of interest. Each book is taken up, word by word, in order; the exact meaning of every prominent word in Greek or Hebrew is given, with reference to other passages where it is used, explaining Scripture by Scripture

This is the best book on Temperance that we have seen. It is unanswerable. If any one wants to aid Prohibition financially, he had better extend the circulation of this book.
